Our New Bridges

IN A RECENT NUMBER OF the "Architectural Record" illustrations showing designs of the Hudson Memorial Bridge were published, and certain strictures were made upon the Art Commission which disapproved the original design considered at meetings held on July 5th and 19th, 1906. In matters of opinion, of course, there is room for almost infinite latitude, but in matters of fact that is not the case. The design published in the article in the "Architectural Record" is not the design which was acted upon by the Art Commission. On November 11th, 1907, new designs for the bridge were submitted and discussed, and will again be brought up for action at the meeting to be held on December 10th. It is the opinion of experts who have compared the two designs that the later design is greatly superior to the earlier. Commissioner Stevenson also concurs with the judgment of the experts, for, at a meeting he thanked the Commission for the rejection of the first design, which made a very much happier solution of the problem possible. In regard to the designs for the "Hell Gate Bridge," they were dealt with at the meetings of the Commission held on June 11th and June 27th, 1907, and after full discussion were disapproved in the following terms: "The proposed Hell Gate Bridge is a monumental structure which will be visible from far and wide. It furnishes an unusual opportunity for artistic treatment. The plans have been prepared by a distinguished engineer, Mr. Gustav Lindenthal. Had these plans been purely structural and had the treatment of this bridge in all its parts been strictly utilitarian, your Committee would nevertheless have recommended the approval of the plans, though they would have regretted that this opportunity for artistic treatment had not been availed of. They are quite ready to accept the judgment of Mr. Lindenthal on all engineering or structural questions. It has been attempted, however, to give decoration to the towers and to the bases of the towers. This attempt has not, in the opinion of your Committee, been satisfactory from an artistic point of view. Your Committee cannot approve these decorative features, as they would have been ready to approve a strictly utilitarian construction, or better still, a scheme of ornamentation which would seem to them artistic and appropriate. They therefore recommend disapproval of the plans without prejudice to their resubmission with a different treatment of the towers and their bases."

The Error Corrected

IN VIEW OF THE FOREGOING facts it is hardly fair for the "Architectural Record" to say that in either case there was a "blunt unreasoned rejection." The writer of the article in question probably was familiar with one-half the story, but had missed or overlooked the later history of the Art Commission's action in regard to the two bridges. There is absolutely no reason for saying that the two most interesting projects of the Art Commission had been the one defeated and the other indefinitely postponed. This statement is contradicted by the fact that the designs of the Hudson Memorial Bridge in greatly improved form are now before the Commission, to be acted upon at their meeting next week, and designs for the other bridge have been in effect approved as far as all engineering questions are involved, and are subject to revision as to the architectural details, which will be considered by the Commission as soon as they are presented. While speaking upon this subject it might not be amiss to turn to a more general phase of the matter. The public to-day should give more attention than it does to the work of the Commission, which deserves more hearty support than it actually receives. Of course we have all accorded to the Commission a species of general benediction and that vague approval which we are always ready to bestow upon a moral or intellectual project. This, while all very well, is by no means sufficient to meet the full merits of the case. The Art Commission is not merely a disinterested body of public spirited individuals (it includes Robert W. de Forest, Howard Mansfield, George B. McClellan, J. Pierpont Morgan, John Bigelow, A. Augustus Healy, Frank D. Millet, John J. Boyle, John B. Pine, Arnold W. Brunner, John Quincy Adams, Alice S. Clark), but is to-day the working realization of one of the best possibilities of our civic life. The Commission does its work ungrudgingly without compensation, and if at first its greatest usefulness has been negative or merely corrective—suppressing undesirable productions and raising, by advice and counsel, the quality of work actually permitted to be carried out, we must also not forget that its positive achievements have not by any means been inconsiderable. The Commission is not working at present under ideal conditions; its difficulties are complex and perplexing. Under more liberal esthetic circumstances much more could be accomplished, but it means much in the community to possess a thoroughly competent official body of disinterested men, publicly representing a sound standard of public taste. Our citizens have only to heartily and actively support a commission of this character in order to realize the highest possibilities at any moment attainable.

Three Important Particulars

THE COMMITTEE ON BUILDINGS of the Board of Aldermen, acting in conjunction with a body of experts in building lines of its own selection, has submitted for adoption a complete revision of the Building Code, with the exception of the sections relating to fire limits, which are made the subject of a separate report. As certain of the provisions restrict the height of buildings, these are to be submitted for approval to the Board of Estimate before being passed upon by the Aldermanic board, and the reports have been laid over for two weeks. Though there is uncertainty as to what the fate of the new Code will be at the hands of the Aldermen, in view of the approaching reorganization of the Board, and the reported intention of the opposition to have it referred to a new commission for further revision, it is important to note the changes that have been made in the three particulars that have claimed the most public attention: (1) fireproof wood, (2) height and area of buildings, and (3) the fire limits. It will be recalled that the primary cause for undertaking the revision was an effort made by the builders and architects of the city to have the compulsory requirement for fireproof wood eliminated, and that Mayor McClellan, in vetoing a resolution to this effect, which had been passed by the Board of Aldermen, recommended a revision of the whole Code. The decision of the revisers in this respect is that no woodwork whatever shall be used in any of the partitions, furrings or ceilings of fireproof buildings, but ordinary wood may be used under certain limitations in buildings not exceeding one hundred feet high. Regarding building height, the maximum is fixed at two hundred feet, except in cases where the building shall have such offsets, yards and courts in excess of the regulations that the cubage of the building shall not exceed one hundred and seventy-four times the area of the lot. This is the limit for hotels and office buildings. Other fireproof buildings may not exceed one hundred feet, buildings of mill construction 85 ft. and church spires 90 ft. The fire limits in the Bronx are advanced to the Fordham and Kingsbridge roads, but with the understanding that the erection of frame dwellings, limited to forty feet in height and three thousand square feet floor and not occupying more than eighty per cent. of the width of the lot, shall not be interfered with. Similar exceptions in favor of frame dwellings are made for the other boroughs also, except Manhattan. Subject to a fuller expression of public opinion in regard to the building height, for which the Board of Estimate will give an opportunity, the Commission seems to have had in these particulars at least full appreciation of the essentials of the time and a conscientious regard for the rights of property.

Building Season Ended

DECEMBER'S FIRST WEEK, bringing snow storms and freezing temperatures, signalizes the close of the outdoor building season, and, owing to the peculiar circumstances of the time, leaves but little to be added to complete the score of the calendar year. The eleven months that have passed have seen plans for less than a thousand buildings filed in Manhattan, to compare with fifteen hundred in the corresponding period of last year; and altogether in the two boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx about thirty-five million dollars less appropriated for new buildings and operations than in the previous year. Real estate conveyances fell behind nearly eleven hundred in number for these two sections of the city, and the amount of loans, so far as represented by mortgages recorded, fully forty-five millions. Brooklyn is a little better than even with last year's record so far in the matter of building projects, but is thirteen thousand short in the number of conveyances, and some sixteen million dollars behind in the amount of mortgages. In times of real depression these smaller totals would spell serious losses in many channels, but with business in general good shape—despite some loss of confidence in financial markets—and likely to continue so, the difference between the totals of this year and the larger ones of the previous year represent simply work DEFERRED to a subsquent time and transactions put over to a more favorable season. No one can justify, even in a city having such an enormous annual growth as New York, an expectation that the business of each passing year will exceed in amount what was done in the previous one; and the best that can be hoped for is what seems to be assured—a fair average run of business covering a considerable period of years. But whatever may be the view which builders and brokers take, owners regard the situation with complacency. A surplus of rentable apartments resulting from three large building years is being converted through the increase in population into a shortage, so that values and rentals are, for the most part, maintained at the highest levels of the year, and fewer concessions are being made in order to fill new houses. Money is becoming more plentiful for real estate loans, but interest rates are high, and it is a fortunate borrower who can get a loan for a less period than five years under six per cent. The important fact is that it is becoming more available, for the rate will moderate with time.

The New Sing Sing

A TRACT of five hundred acres in the highlands of the Hudson has been selected by State commissioners as a new site for Sing Sing prison. Usually cities and towns are pleased to welcome State institutions, but none has asked for "Sing Sing," and several have protested when they have feared that it was coming to their vicinity. The new location is given as on the west shore of the river, "between Doodletown Bight and Popolopen Creek," and if no protest has been heard in this case, it may be because few have been able to identify the locality from the description. Popolopen Creek is a beautiful estuary of the Hudson, on the north bank of which stood Fort Montgomery, and on the south side Fort Clinton, in the War of the Revolution, barring the further progress of the British up the river. From the shore in front of Montgomery to the tip of Anthony's Nose on the opposite side of the river, stretched a great chain and boom, behind which was anchored the American Navy of that time. The forts were taken by a heavy force of the enemy landing at Stony Point and attacking in the rear, and the land which has been selected for the prison is the old battle-ground, including the site of Fort Clinton, and also taking in Highland Lake. It is one of the most picturesque regions in America, as well as one of the most historic, surpassing in both respects even the more famous West Point, which is some miles to the north. The nearest village is "Fort Montgomery," and two miles north is Highland Falls. The State gets the land for $75,000, which is something for New York appraisers to make a record of—beautiful villa sites on a trunk line railroad forty miles from the city selling for one hundred and fifty dollars an acre. In the public mind the place was being reserved for some great purpose, and at intervals unconfirmed reports have selected it as the seat of another Chautauqua, as a site for a railroad bridge across the Hudson and for a State park. The question that will be raised will be predicated upon the advisability of desecrating sacred soil and contaminating one of the most charming residential sections in the State with a hideous prison. The State can well spare the small sum mentioned, but the site should be reserved for some nobler public institution and the prison sent to some interior corner where nobody else wants to live.

The Opening of the 207th St. Bridge.

By CHAS. GRIFFITH MOSES.

IT is a characteristic of New Yorkers as a class to be unobservant of important improvements under way in their own city, and, in many instances, to fail to realize until their accomplishment, the far-reaching effect of such improvements. The most recent and glaring illustration of this peculiarity of even those of our citizens who, as a class, are more especially affected by any public improvement—namely, the real estate world—was shown in the events that followed the opening of the subway in the fall of 1904. This work has been in course of construction for several years, and, in spite of that fact, real estate in many parts of the city to be directly benefited by its opening had been far from active and prices had remained stationary. No sooner, however, were trains in operation than commenced the remarkable period of activity in the northern end of Manhattan and in the Bronx, during which values rose in leaps and bounds, and, in many instances, almost doubled during a period which, from a retrospective point of view, seems almost over night. And so, even at the present time, there are numerous other public works under way whose benefits are perhaps not so widespread, but which are none the less important to the localities affected.

The prospective opening of the bridge crossing the Harlem River, at 207th street, is an event the importance of which I am sure has not been fully appreciated by the majority of even those most interested in the districts it will serve to connect. The work of building this bridge has been progressing in a comparatively unobtrusive fashion for a number of years and would have entirely escaped notice were it not for the fact that the draw is the one formerly in place over the ship canal at Kingsbridge, and, having been rendered useless by the necessity for a double-decked structure to carry the Rapid Transit Railroad, was moved down the river to its present location. This remarkable feat of engineering skill called for some newspaper description and comment and has been the sole means of informing the public at large that there was to be a bridge at 207th street. If we are to observe and profit by the history of the past in the development of New York real estate, it seems to me that we must recognize that the construction of a bridge means the development of a new center. New York is no longer a city of an insular character, self centered and self interested. Such may have been the case in the past, but now, as the city grows, all its boroughs benefit and there has been no factor more potent in this growth than the building of bridges. The territory tapped by the Manhattan end of the 207th street bridge is that section known as the Dyckman tract and the country tributary to it is practically all the northern end of the island. To all intents and purposes this entire section is virgin soil, and now that the upbuilding and populating of the section immediately to its south (the Washington Heights District) is well on its way toward successful accomplishment, presents unusual attractions for developments along varied lines. And, to my mind, it is just such an event as the opening of another and most important avenue of communication that will supply the necessary stimulus. This portion of Manhattan possesses one feature of almost incalculable value—its water front. The comparatively short distance from Academy street, north to the Ship Canal, is practically all the undeveloped water front left on this island. At the present time a few far-seeing business men have taken advantage of the opportunities here presented and have already built or are building plants of various kinds, but the bulk of the river front is untouched. The opening of this bridge, by providing direct interborough communication, must surely make most apparent the wide variety of usage to which this water front can be put.

The whole Dyckman section is comparatively small—say about a mile and a quarter long by a scant half mile wide, and is practically a vacant stretch. Most of the streets are opened, regulated, graded and sewered, and all of the most burdensome assessments are paid. Today this district is served by the Broadway branch of the Subway, and by the Kingsbridge Division of the Third Avenue Surface Line transferring to the Sixth and Amsterdam avenue lines without extra fare, and to the elevated railroad for a three cent additional fare; the opening of the 207th street bridge connects this entire section with the New York & Putnam Railroad and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad at University Heights (the Bronx terminal of the bridge), as well as with the complete network of Bronx and Westchester trolley lines, thus giving this small area probably the most complete and far reaching system of transportation in the entire city of New York. # THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Comparison With the Existing Code.

MEMORANDUM OF PRINCIPAL DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE NEW BUILDING CODE AS SUBMITTED TO THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN AND THE EXISTING ONE.

REGISTRATION.

ALL men engaged in the superintendence of buildings shall be registered and known as registered constructors. A registered constructors' examining board is composed of architects, engineers and builders, appointed by the Mayor, who shall give a certificate of competency. It will be incumbent for such registered constructors to make the application to the Bureau of Buildings, even though they have not drawn the plans, and at the completion of the work to provide the Bureau of Buildings with an affidavit stating that the building had been erected according to their best knowledge and belief in accordance with the permit. Upon the basis of this affidavit a certificate of occupancy will be issued.

CLASSIFICATION.

Buildings are divided as follows: Public buildings, class "A"; theatres, class "B"; residence buildings, class "C"; mercantile buildings, class "D"; special hazard structures, class "E"; special structures, class "F." Mill construction is also defined and recognized.

Provisions are made for light and ventilation of all such buildings, not upon the basis of percentages, but on the minimum sizes of courts and yards, somewhat in the manner provided in the Tenement House Act. Natually all references to tenement houses are taken out of the Code.

HEIGHT AND AREA.

Mill-constructed buildings are allowed to the height of 85 ft. Concrete buildings are allowed to the height of 85 ft. Non-fireproof dwellings are allowed to the height of 75 ft. All garages, light and power stations must be built fireproof. Mercantile buildings generally may be built of ordinary construction to the height of 60 ft. All public buildings and theatres must be fireproof.

The height of fireproof buildings, except for offices and hotels, is limited to 150 ft. The height of offices and hotels shall not exceed 200 ft., except in case the building shall have such offsets, yards or courts in excess of those required by the ordinary provisions of light and ventilation, so that the cubage of the building measure above the mean grade street level shall not exceed 174 times the area of the lot.

Frame buildings outside of the fire limits shall not exceed 40 ft. in height.

All roofs within the city limits shall be of incombustible material.

The open areas of various classes of buildings within fire walls is restricted as follows: Classes A, C, D, E and F when non-fireproof and not exceeding 60 ft. When fronting on two streets 7,500 sq. ft., when fronting on three streets 10,000 sq. ft.

For fireproof buildings of the same class, not exceeding 150 ft. in height, when fronting on one street, 7,500 sq. ft.; when fronting on two streets, 10,000 sq. ft.; when fronting on three streets, 12,500 sq. ft.

The floor areas in all fireproof buildings not exceeding 60 ft. in height, when fronting on one street, 10,000 sq. ft.; when fronting on two streets, 12,500 sq. ft.; when fronting on three streets, 15,000 sq. ft.

The floor areas for all fireproof offices and hotels are as follows:

One street, 20,000 sq. ft.; on two streets, 25,000 sq. ft.; on three streets, 30,000 sq. ft. All of these areas may be very materially increased from 30% to 50% when sprinklers are provided.

Frame buildings outside the fire limits to be occupied for purposes other than tenement houses or dwellings are not to exceed 5,000 feet floor area on any one floor. This report also prescribes a restricted area south of Central Park, approximately from Eighth av to Park av and down as far as Chambers st, in which no new mercantile building may be erected unless built fireproof. A similar prescribed area is also laid out in Brooklyn. This does not prevent the building of low buildings of Classes D, E and F of certain defined areas within these limits, even if built non-fireproof, or the alteration of existing buildings.

FOUNDATIONS.

The loads upon the soils are slightly altered so as to allow six tons on firm sand and gravel, twenty-five tons on hardpan and fifty tons on rock. There is also a provision to insure equal distribution of loads on foundations and more explicit provisions are made for concrete pile and caissons.

Early Brick Making.

BRICK making was one of the first forms of manufacturing in America. When people began to wish for houses handsomer and better than could be built of logs, they turned to masonry. Brick construction followed hard upon the heels of cut stone in New Amsterdam. In very early years the best houses were built of bricks imported from the old country. Ships coming for cargoes of American pelts added to their sparse loads from the other side quantities of Dutch-made bricks, as something more profitable than ordinary ballast. Before brick houses were very numerous chimneys and fireplaces in frame dwellings and warehouses were built of brick. But the grand old Dutch fathers were too thrifty to import for any great length of time, materials which they could make for themselves, and the "Clay-Worker" for November has a very interesting story of how they went about it, and began to make bricks in this vicinity:

At what is now North Hackensack, Abram Zabriskie built a house in 1735, which is still a model for architects to follow. It is of stone, with walls at least two feet thick and laid in cement so hard that it cuts like original stone. In some instances the cement is harder than the stone itself. Originally the building was all of stone, but later it was changed somewhat and the gables rebuilt with brick, made on the place. In fact, this same Abram Zabriskie was the first brickmaker in this portion of New Jersey.

He was an important man in the community. He owned a tide mill, where he ground the grain into flour and meal and sawed the timber, cut from the neighboring hills, into lumber. Undoubtedly, he finally used the power thus generated, in turning his pug mill. It is certain, however, that it was done for a time with horse power.

Mr. Zabriskie was a Tory and his whole establishment was confiscated and in 1781 the State Legislature of New Jersey gave the place to Baron Steuben for his services in drilling the New Jersey troops in the Revolutionary army. The Baron did not care for it, preferring his larger estate near Utica, N. Y., which had been presented him by New York. He retained the ownership of this property for a time, but subsequently sold it back to Mr. Zabriskie for $15,000.

While the date of the beginning of brickmaking here is lost, it is supposed to have been before 1750. After that date there is no record of importing any brick in this vicinity. Nor is it known when the next yard was started, but there are stray bits of information which seem to locate the next yard at Hackensack, sometime around 1800, and two were in operation in 1824.

The whole region along the Hackensack river is underlaid with clay. Around North Hackensack, where this early yard was located, the clay is many feet deep, varying, however, with the locality. Some borings have been made which show only a few feet. Others show often as much as fifty to seventy-five. It is of the best, and sand of proper quality is near. Sometimes the clay beds are overlaid with such sand as is wanted in making brick.

The Dutchman who couldn't see the possibilities in a combination like that deserved to be expatriated. He was no Dutchman, and Mr. Zabriskie, who, by the way, left a large number of descendents, most of whom are somewhat imbued with his characteristics, was made opulent by his originality in constructing and operating the first brick yard along the Hackensack. His imitators have been and are many. The river is lined with yards and sheds for miles now, but this yard, the site of which was miles from any of the others, remains as the historic reminder of the time when pug mills were not turned with electricity and when there were only the crudest means of burning.

It was not long before Mr. Zabriskie's neighbors discovered that they could obtain quite as satisfactory brick in their immediate vicinity as they could import from Holland, while the expense was naturally much less. Accordingly they began to patronize him and his business grew to liberal proportions. For years he had the trade to himself and supplied the surrounding country with what brick was wanted. It is said that he was the first to build any portion of his house of brick. But he could afford to do that, since he made them himself. It would have been too expensive for others to have undertaken it.

The country along the Hackensack river is flat and water power, excepting by means of the tide mills, was and is impossible. But the Dutchman came from a flat country and that did not deter him from undertaking the utilization of such power as he found. The tide at North Hackensack rises about five feet. At the mouth of a little creek which comes down from the low hills back of the hamlet, Mr. Zabriskie built his mill. The stones for grinding the grain came from France and cost about $400 each. One is used as a step stone to the house now, and the other lies in the bottom of the river with the shaft which turned it projecting from the mud.

The rise of the tide filled his storage reservoir and when it ebbed he had sufficient water to do considerable work. The grain was ground here for the farmers from miles around. Then came the pug mill. The site is pointed out still and up to a few years ago traces of the yard were still visible. Now all have vanished.

Stranded close by the site of the mill is an old schooner, which a few years ago showed the high poop of the old time vessels, and it is said that this was used by Mr. Zabriskie in his trade with the settlements up and down the river and with New York. The remains of it are picturesque and they carry plenty of traditions of the olden time.

It has been said that this yard was the earliest in New Jersey and one of the earliest in the eastern part of the country. It was certainly in use before much of the country had been settled and could not have been much earlier and have been built by a white man. While the Indians of New Jersey were expert pottery makers, and some bits of the only painted pottery found east of the Allegheny mountains have been picked up around Hackensack, there is no record that they ever erected any structure of clay, either raw or baked.

Comparison with the Existing Code.

MASONRY.

The wall thicknesses remain approximately the same with the exception that skeleton buildings may be built with 12-inch walls all the way up. Provisions are made for the measurement of the height of the wall from the roof downward so that the builder get the advantage of the minimum portion of the legal thickness. All buildings of Classes A. D, E and F must be built in cement mortar.

FIREPROOFING AND STRENGTH OF MATERIALS.

Careful requirements are made for the various materials, including the qualities of lumber and for the tests of all fireproof floors. First and second-class construction is defined and buildings of certain classes are required to be of first-class construction. All elevators must be enclosed, even when in fireproof buildings and no elevator and stair-well can be put in one enclosure.

A DESIGN FOR HENRY HUDSON MEMORIAL BRIDGE ACROSS SPUYTEN DUYVIL CREEK, NEW YORK CITY—LOOKING WEST. THE PALISADES IN THE DISTANCE.

Boller & Hodge, Walker & Morris, Associated Engineers and Architects.

Fire towers are provided instead of fire-escapes, after the manner of the Philadelphia law, in all new buildings, but small buildings may avoid this provision if the stairway is enclosed with fireproof material.

Metal sash and frames may be substituted instead of metal shutters. The fireproof wood provision in the present way is eliminated for buildings over 150 ft. in height, but metal covered wood is required in all buildings over 100 ft. First-class construction is only demanded in special hazard buildings.

The definition of a theatre still remains the same upon the basis of a seating capacity of 300 and stage apparatus, but it is made clear that offices may be placed in a theatre building if separated by a fire wall.

The courts of a theatre are only required on the side, and the front may be built over with exit going through same. A provision is made that in figuring the seating capacity no more than 6 sq. ft. shall be allowed for each occupant exclusive of aisles, this being for the purpose of preventing a building of large seating capacity evading the provisions of theatre section.

SKELETON BUILDINGS.

Cast-iron columns are not allowed in any building exceeding 75 ft. in height, and up to this building they may be used in cage construction. Safe distributed floor loads are slightly changed. The working stresses of various materials are changed, the change being in case iron columns for which the stress is reduced.

The method of figuring wind pressure is provided, but it may be disregarded when the building is less than 100 ft. in height.

A portion of the Code is devoted to regulations for reinforced concrete. In the bay-window section reference is made to the ordinances under which present permits are allowed. The regulations relating to fences and sky signs are as follows: The heights have not been changed, but any fence over 10 ft. high must be entirely of metal. Sky signs must be 50% open area. Signs covering window or door openings are prohibited. Superintendent of the Buildings is given authority to remove unlawful signs. Boiler rooms placed in cellar must be enclosed in fireproof enclosures.

PLUMBING REGULATIONS are still left in the hands of the Superintendent of Buildings, but all changes in same must be published in the "City Record."

Gas pipes must be placed 2 ft. 6 ins. below the surface of the street.

Elevator regulations are embodied in the Code.

The discretion given to the Superintendent under section 410 of the Greater New York Charter is regulated as follows:

"Each Superintendent of Buildings in exercising the powers to vary the provisions of any existing law or ordinance as provided for in section 410 of the Greater New York Charter shall proceed strictly in the manner therein set forth. All such modifications and all interpretations, including the application with reasons for same, and the Superintendent's decision with reasons, shall be published in full in the 'City Record' within one week after the Superintendent's action, and may be cited as precedents in future cases.

Experiments in Production of a White Cement.

The demand for a white cement that will be available for decorative work in concrete has stimulated the efforts of chemists and manufacturers in Europe and America. In a recent issue of "Canadian Cement and Concrete Review," A. G. Larsson, C. E., makes some interesting comments on the results of some experiments in the manufacture of such a cement that have been carried out.

Mr. Larsson points out that the coloring matter in Portland cement consists of oxide of iron, and some times oxide of manganese. In order to have a white color, the product must not contain Fe2O3 in a proportion higher than 0.80 per cent. Mixtures low in oxide of iron are, however, hard to burn. Experiments have been carried out successfully in making white Portland cement and white Roman cement.

The following analysis is that of a sample from Stettin, Germany:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| SiO2 | 19.82% | CaO | 61.60% |
| Al2O3 | 11.49% | MgO | 0.72% |
| Fe2O3 | 0.67% | SO3 | 1.99% |

Julius Gresley, president of the Leisberg cement mill in Switzerland, has analyzed a number of the best French Roman cements, from which he figures the following formula as a standard:

x[2(CaO.MgO).SiO2] plus y(2CaO.Al2O3) plus z(CaO.O.3).

In this formula the CaOSO3 is not necessary, but seems to make the mixture burn more readily. A cement of this type comes on the market under the name "Marbrit."

The following shows the proportions in the product:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Moisture | 3.75% | CaO | 54.69% |
| SiO2 | 17.66% | MgO | 0.53% |
| Al2O3 | 16.52% | SO3 | 6.11% |
| Fe2O3 | 0.74% | Specific gravity equals. | 2.815 |

This cement is sound and finely ground, but quick-setting. Any kind of work will be hardened sufficiently to release from its mold in two hours, or even sooner. It is said to be easy to burn and cheap to manufacture.

—The State Civil Service Commission will hold examinations Dec. 14 for the following positions: Director's Assistant, State Library, $2,100; Inspector, State Board of Pharmacy, $780 to $1,200. The last day for filing applications for these positions is Dec. 7. Full information with application forms for any of these examinations may be obtained upon postal card request from Charles S. Fowler, Ch. Examiner of the Commission at Albany.

"A record, open to public inspection during business hours, of all such modifications shall be kept at the Bureau of Buildings, properly indexed under section numbers of the Code or ordinances to which it applies."

Provision is made that when the Superintendent of Buildings requests the Corporation Counsel to bring an action that the Corporation Counsel has no discretion, but must bring the action.

Provision is made for the publication during February of each year of complete list of all materials and appliances which have passed the necessary tests and have received the approval of the Bureau of Buildings, and compelling said list to conform in all boroughs.

Provision is made giving an owner the right of appeal in bills presented for emergency work and provide a Board of Arbitration somewhat after the manner of the Boards of Survey in the present Code.

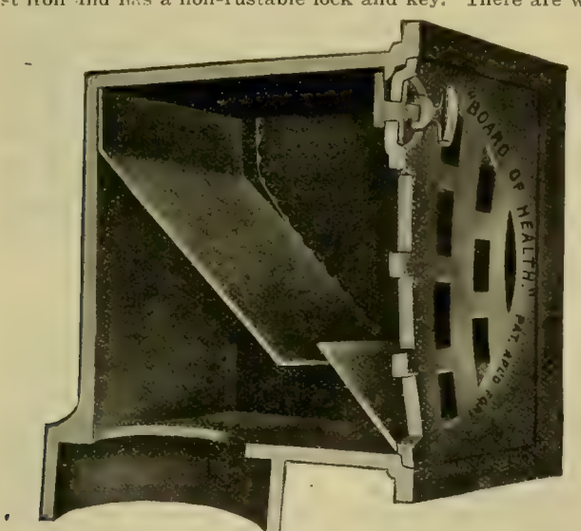
Court procedure generally is not changed.

FIRE LIMITS.

In the Code as presented by the Commission the fire limits are left the same, but in a supplementary report, which will obtain, separate action in the Board of Aldermen, the fire limits are extended as follows:

All of the Borough of Manhattan; all of the Borough of Brooklyn, except the 29th, 30th, 31st and 32d wards, in which frame dwellings to be occupied by not more than two families are allowed under certain restrictions as to height and area, and such frame dwellings may have private stables attached.

Recommendation is made for the extension of the fire limits in the Borough of the Bronx in a somewhat similar way, as far as the Fordham road, and frame dwellings are allowed between the existing fire limits and the new ones under the same provisions as above.



The limits in the Borough of Queens are extended in a similar fashion with the same provision in relation to dwellings.

Fire limits along the main streets of Flushing, Richmond Hill, Jamaica, Far Rockaway and Rockaway Beach are also provided.

Brayman Cesspool Boxes.

The "Board of Health" Yard and Area Cesspool Box is a sanitary device approved by the Department of Buildings of the City of New York. No water remains in the box to freeze or become stagnant and breed mosquitoes. It is made of heavy cast iron and has a non-rustable lock and key. There are within the box, beneath the strainer cover, two loose parts. The upper one a shed; the lower one a dirt dam. There is an open space between the two parts equal to the area of a three-inch cast-iron pipe. The lower part, or dirt dam, has small holes on each side to allow the water remaining back of the dam and below the overflow to drain out. What dirt or rubbish may have passed through the strainer cover is held by the dam which prevents its lodging in and choking underground pipes.

THE "BOARD OF HEALTH" CESSPOOL BOX.
(Sectional view cut through the center, showing lead flashing.)

The old-style brick boxes have been a continual source of annoyance and expense. As the brick is porous, water percolates through, causing damp walls and cellars. Filled-in earth is easily washed away, leaving the bricks without support. If the box settles it causes the cement around it to break.

An oblong box is also made in the same manner as the yard and area box for use as a fresh-air inlet.

For factories, creameries, cellars or any floors where damp proofing is required the box is made in two parts, which are tightly drawn together with a sheet of lead 18 inches square between them, which serves both as a gasket and a flashing. The center of the sheet lead is cut out inside of the box and the edges calked back into the seam all around, making the joint absolutely water-tight. The outside remains a lead flashing to be worked into the waterproof section of the floor, making the connection between the floor and the cesspool box water tight. They are made with outlet either on the side, as shown in the illustration, or on the bottom. The lock and key are made of brass. For use in public building floors the tops are finished with bronze frames 7-16th of an inch thick with covers of the same metal made to fit perfectly. The surface of both frame and cover are finished and polished.

Points on the Material Market.

Nails continue dull.

Sheet copper is in light demand.

Shingles are only in fair demand.

Tin plates are also firm, and some dealers expect a shortage in January or February.

Black sheets are moving slowly, but galvanized sheets are still in good requirement.

When normal conditions are re-established the deferred orders then coming out will aggregate very large.

North Carolina pine has a slow sale in New York, but orders from other sections are heavy. No change in quotations.

White wine wears its old expression. Stocks at eastern distributing points are fair only, and quotations hold their ground.

Eastern spruce lath have been coming along freely under a diminishing requirement, and wholesale prices have fallen to the low mark of $3.

Hemlock is dull and druggy locally, and the official price list is being shaded. A considerable amount of New York stuff has been accumulated at the mills.

The demand for flagstone in Greater New York is not so large as a year ago at this period, but outside business has maintained the general level, so that quotations to dealers have for a long period held very evenly, and practically the same as last year.

Winter weather entered hand-in-hand with December. The ground is covered with snow, the temperature occasionally falls below the freezing point—the natural end of the building season has arrived. For awhile the financial situation will not be so much in the minds of builders.

John P. Kane Company, prominent dealers in masons' building materials and manufacturers of the "Trowel" brand of Portland cement, have purchased the stock, fixtures and plant of the C. S. Goss Company, who were also dealers in masons' building materials, with a yard at 51st st and 11th av, New York City.

Nationally considered, the trade in builders' hardware continues heavy, but November statistics disclose a decrease below the corresponding month in 1906. Hardware suffered but little diminution of business until the money stringency became acute. Small producers are cutting prices for locks, knobs and other stock goods.

Running ice in the upper Hudson makes the close of navigation imminent under a continuance of cold temperature. President Hammond, of the Hudson River Brick Manufacturers' Association, reports the arrival in this market of the last regular supplies. Cargoes intended for the closed season are being covered up and taken out of the present market. This marks the natural end of the brick-building season. Quotations from manufacturers and agents are at the lowest level of the year. A large amount of stock will be carried over at the works.

Iron Markets Abroad.

LIEGE.—The Belgian steel and iron market is so closely allied to that of Germany that the present unfavorable condition of the latter is a cause for grave disquietude, and the market here fails to offer anything like encouraging prospects for the future. Consumers have been slow in giving their orders, and matters have been made worse by concessions made on the part of certain producers, especially as regards export prices, in consequence of which quotations were published that were not accepted by the majority of concerns and that were decidedly below anything the market warranted.

The Belgian Steel Combine (Comptoir Belge des Acieries) has managed to maintain satisfactory prices for castings, but in view of the present difficult situation of the consumers of partially finished products has made reductions resulting in the following prices, viz: For blooms, $23.16 per ton; for ingots, $21.23 per ton; for largets and billets, $24.60 per ton. This lower scale of prices does not seem satisfactory to the rolling mills, and it looks as though further concessions must be forthcoming.

The weakening in prices of the finished products was notably emphasized during the last week in September, when steel bars were selling at from $26.28 to $26.76, and sheet iron and rods at from $31.18 to $32.63 f. o. b. Antwerp. There is no dearth of orders, however, and during the coming winter both steel works and machine builders will be kept busy. Bids were recently asked for by the Government for 34,000 tons of steel rails, and the order was secured by Belgian rolling mills at $30.96 per ton. The Societe des Acieries de France put in a bid for 5,000 tons at $31.65.

New Catalogues.

"Modern Heating." Catalogue No. 103, by the Marshall-Wells Hardware Co., Duluth, Minn.

It is literally true, as the company states, that between the covers of this catalogue practically everything required for a heating job, from the boiler and radiators to the bronze for decorating, is to be found. Covering a large territory in the West, where in parts the population is widely scattered, house heating systems are necessarily installed, if at all, by such skill as is at hand. It is the aim of the company not only to supply all tools and materials for such installations, but to furnish plans and suggestions that will be of material assistance in such cases. To this end two pages of the catalogue are devoted to suggestions on figuring cost of steam and hot water heating, in which a typical heating plant is diagrammed and sample estimates are given. Besides listing, illustrating and describing hot water and steam heating apparatus and appliances, a number of pages are devoted to hot air furnaces, of which a variety suitable for coal and wood are listed. For the trade it is designed to reach, the catalogue should meet with great favor, since it furnishes much useful data and information concerning the line of goods to which it relates.

The Canton Art Metal Company, of Canton, Ohio, issues two very attractive little books entitled, "The Leaky Roof Question," and "Art Metal Interiors; a Little Light on This Subject." The first of these gives some very interesting information regarding the relative value of different roof materials. It describes the many advantages of the Canton Shingles and contains complete instructions for applying. The second book illustrates and describes the many beautiful effects which can be secured in the use of metal for ceilings and side walls. The Canton Metal Ceilings are embossed deep and the figures are clean and bold. East sheet is stamped separately, obtaining results which cannot be secured where from four to six plates are stamped at one operation. Both of these little books will be mailed to anyone interested, together with full details as to prices.

Nels Poulson Plan Favored by Committee of 100.

At a meeting of the Committee of 100 at the Brooklyn Borough Hall the Nels Poulson plan for the relief of the bridge crush was considered and recommended to the city authorities. With this object in view a committee, headed by former Borough President J. Edward Swanstrom, was appointed.

The arguments advanced in favor of the Poulson plan were its simplicity and economy. The first step in its installation at the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge can be accomplished with $30,000, while the entire scheme can be put into operation with $250,000, it is asserted, as against the expenditure involved in carrying out the present plan of the Bridge Department.

Mr. Poulson, who was introduced by Borough President Coler, said that, in accordance with his plan, eighty or ninety trains an hour could be run out of the New York terminal without the slightest danger or trouble, thus almost doubling the present capacity of that terminal and allowing three minutes for the loading of each train instead of the half minute now allowed for passengers to board a train at the present platforms. The scheme would save the three minutes now expended in running trains back of the loading platforms and switching them.

Transmitting Electrical Power Without Wires.

Consul John C. Covert advises that a very important and far-reaching invention is announced in the French city of Lyon, by which, it is said, electrical power can be transmitted without the use of wires, concerning which he says:

It may be called an extension of the wireless use of electricity. It is still kept a secret and it seems that only one person in Lyon possesses a knowledge of all the facts on the subject. He is a prominent broker who has financed the enterprise. He informs me that all the work in perfecting the invention was carried on in the country at the castle of a prominent manufacturer of Lyon and that only two persons were permitted to know what was going on. Some two weeks ago the first experiments were tried, and a miniature street car was moved over a flat space by electricity communicated from a distance of several yards.

The invention is being tried in Marseilles on a street-car line, and is also being applied to several different kinds of machinery.

Queens Growing Rapidly.

Contrary to a prevailing opinion, more money has been spent for buildings in Queens this year than during the preceding period. Altogether 4,034 buildings were projected for the 12 months ending Dec. 1, involving an outlay of $16,461,644. This is an increase equalling nearly 600 structures in excess of the total number projected for 1906. It is estimated that there will be $3,000,000 more expended in building operations in that borough this year than during last, when the cost of new construction work equalled $13,676,484. Frame buildings lead as usual, although during the year there has been a noticeable increase in the number of plans filed for brick structures.

Convention of Mechanical Engineers.

Members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers were in annual convention at the Engineers' Building, 29 West 39th st, this week. Two sessions were held each day. On Wednesday they inspected the Hudson terminals as the guests of Chief Engineer Jacobs. Officers were chosen as follows: M. L. Holman, of St. Louis, was chosen president; L. P. Breckenridge, of Urbana, Ill., Fred J. Miller and Arthur West, of Pittsburgh, vice-presidents, and W. L. Abbott, Alexander C. Humphries and Henry G. Stott, managers.

Cypress Bevel Siding.

The shifting scenes among the wood-working industries, the changing from one wood to another as the scarcity and high price of the one make some substitute either advisable or necessary, present some strange conditions once in a while, and then again lead to things that we wonder about afterward; wonder why we didn't think of it before. A case in point is the introduction of cypress bevel siding to a lot of the building trade that heretofore has been using white pine and poplar, says a writer in a recent issue of the Woodworker. The users of these woods have been hard to satisfy with a substitute, because white pine and poplar not only work nicely, but take paint better than most other woods. Some have turned to the west coast and redwood as a substitute, and as a result of this there is more redwood siding used in the middle States than most people have any idea of. But of late cypress has been growing into prominence, which leads to some wonder as to why it didn't become prominent sooner. The cypress lumber people seem to have been cutting more lumber than the market needed under existing conditions, the past few years, but when the surplus got heavy the cypress people got together and put an expert to work experimenting with the wood to see what its possibilities were in the way of more extended usage. As a result of this, and of the missionary work done by the cypress traveling salesmen, who have been very active this year, there has come a much more extensive use of cypress bevel siding outside of fire limits. The traveling men say, too, that wherever it has been tried it is liked, and that there is a great and growing future in it.

The country is surprised that the great building and real estate interests of New York are so unmoved by the artificial panic which the bankers and high financiers have caused.

Authorities are coming to the opinion that more money is being set aside for real estate uses in proportion to the total set aside for investment than there has been for a long time.

The New York Central's third rail has been laid nearly to the Yonkers station, and it is the intention of the company to operate all the Yonkers locals by electricity by at least the first of the year.

Warning to Building-Material Firms.

Mr. Franklin B. Ware, State Architect, Capitol, Albany, requests us to warn the public that a man, tall, slender, light mustache and hair, about 35 or 40 years of age, is going around imposing upon people by representing himself as a deputy State architect and inducing concerns throughout the State, particularly in New York City, to journey to Albany to figure on fictitious jobs. This causes not only loss of money and time to building-material firms, but annoys and embarrasses the State Architect's office.

The Week.

The realty market this week from a sales standpoint showed decided improvement. The total number of sales reported was considerably in excess of last week's showing. The class of property reported sold was varied, including good business, loft, apartment, dwelling and vacant.

In the section south of 59th st, 290 Bowery, a 5-sty business building, was sold, and on Greenwich st, No. 542, a 6-sty business building, 25x154.9, changed hands. There were several parcels of the tenement class disposed of. North of 59th st a vacant lot, 25x102, in West 86th st, was purchased by a private individual who contemplates erecting an American basement dwelling for his own use. A large plot of ground in West 125th st, 100x118, with a 2-sty building changed hands, and on Morningside av a 6-sty elevator apartment, 53x93, will shortly change ownership. Two flats on Amsterdam av, near 145th st, were also disposed of. In the Bronx the number of transfers was considerably increased and several sales worthy of notice at this time took place. A 5-sty new law house in East 140th st, 40x100, as well as a 6-sty new law house in East 129th st, 37.6x100, changed hands. The block front on 187th st, between Hoffman and Lorillard pl, was reported sold, besides several lots of more or less importance.

The feeling is far better among real estate brokers. They are looking up for almost the first time in a year. As one of the leading uptown brokers said the other day: "What? Can things get worse? I guess not. We have not made any sales; we have made but few leases; we cannot place any mortgages; we can't get anything that looks nearer like real money than a Clearing House Certificate. Please suggest something else that might happen. Don't you think that we have had everything that is coming to us? You can take it from me that when people open their eyes some fine morning and see conditions as they really are there will be a rush to get on board that will make the 14th st subway station look like Coney Island on a rainy day."

The leasing market was quite as good as last week in the aggregate. The largest lease reported was that of the Broadway Theatre Building, with the property on the south on the 7th av side. This lease dates from May 1, 1909, and is for 21 years. Negotiations are now under way concerning the renewals.

The mortgage market showed considerable livening. Last week the market was almost at a standstill, but conditions are now a little more cheerful. Quite a large number of mortgages of considerable size were placed on record. Notably one for $172,953.84 given by the Delta Realty Co. to the Colored Orphan Association covering the plot, 550x99.11, on the south side of 144th st, 100 ft. east of Broadway. This mortgage is due June 28, 1909, and bears interest at 5%. West Side Construction Co. also borrowed from the Colored Orphan Association $150,000 on 143d st, north side, 100 ft. east of Broadway, on six lots, 70.10x99.11, due June 28, 1909, at 5½%. The Union Trust Co. loaned to Julia M. Cary, of Ridgefield, Conn., on her house 33 West 51st st, which has a frontage of 42 ft., $110,000 for four years at 5½%. On the business property 542 and 544 Broadway, which is 75x55x irreg., a 5-year mortgage of $72,500 at 5% was given by Abraham and Louis Gerstenzang to Franklin B. Lord. Oppenheim, Collins & Co. borrowed from the Equitable Life Assurance Soc. $820,000 for five years at 5% on their property, which is located 265 ft. east of 6th av, on the south side of 35th st, and runs through to the north side of 34th st. This property has a frontage of 60 ft. in 35th st and 48 ft. in 34th st.

Two building loans of some importance were recorded. Conrad R. Gross and George Herbiner to the Title Guarantee & Trust Co., one on the plot, 90x99.11, at the northwest corner 140th st and Broadway, due Dec., 1908, for $145,000, at 6%, and the other by the same parties on the southwest corner Broadway and 141st st, due Dec. 2, 1908, for $145,000, at 5½%.

The principal mortgage recorded in the Bronx was one for $50,000. This was given to Eliz Green by Michael F. Cussack, of Brooklyn, and covered the southwest corner 161st st and Prospect av, 49x100. The term is three years and the rate 5½%.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week were 201 as against 126 last week, and in the Bronx 138 this week as against 81 last week. The total amount involved was $4,751,146, as against $2,238,662 last week.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 44, of which 7 were below 59th st, 17 above, and 20 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

In the auction market this week the principal sale was one of 83 lots in the Bronx. There are seven houses on the tract. Forty-two of these lots were sold last Monday at the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly and eight of them brought such small prices that the receivers refused to confirm their sale. These were situated on 144th st, between Timpson pl and Whitlock av. These were put up again at the upset price of $14,400 on Thursday, but no bid was received at that figure. On Monday, Morris Franklin bid $6,750 for four lots, comprising the block front on the north side of 144th st, between Austin and Timpson places. Four lots on the north side of 144th st, between Whitlock av and Austin pl, went to F. J. Goodwin for $775 each. Three lots adjoining on Whitlock av and the northwest cor of 144th st went to A. H. Alker for $4,300. The remaining forty-one lots were put up on Thursday. Twenty lots on the southeast side of Austin pl remained unsold and will be put up in foreclosure next week. J. S. Black bought two lots 73 ft. north of 144th st. on the west side of Austin pl for $1,050. The ten adjoining ones went to H. B. Wesselman for $575 and $680 each. The remaining eight were knocked down to a Mr. Brown for $625 each. The seven houses brought $34,625. This sale was held to satisfy mortgages amounting to $80,000 and interest. There are also outstanding against this property about $11,000 in assessments. The sale was ordered by the receiver to prevent a foreclosure if possible.

At the stand of Samuel Goldsticker, No. 227 West 126th st, a 3-sty and basement brick dwelling was sold to Ruth N. Smith for $7,575. The size of this house is 12.6x99.11. At the stand of Joseph P. Day, the northeast cor of 58th st and 3d av, 50.2x 155xirreg, was knocked down to John Kneisel for $208,518. This property consists of two 6-sty brick flats with stores. The amount due was $44,063.02, taxes, etc., adding $2,716.30. Ferdinand Cahn bought for $53,671 the two 6-sty brick flats, 459 and 461 West 163d st, 50x112.6. William L. Mitchell bought 221 East 61st st, a 3-sty brick dwelling, 18x100.5, for $15,525.

Taken all in all the prices obtained during the week were not good. It is foolish for any one to offer his property at voluntary sale at this time. It simply means that he will not get the full value. The bargain hunters so far have been disappointed in the private sales market, for people who hold property are not willing to let it go at a concession. The result of this state of affairs has been that the same bargain hunters are crowding the auction market in the hope that they will be able to pick up something cheap. Any one who can afford to keep their holdings should certainly do so for the time being.

Eighth Av. Between 23d and 42d Sts.

EIGHTH av, between 23d and 42d sts, holds at the present time a unique position in Manhattan real estate. The business done in the retail line along this thoroughfare is very large. It draws from a large flat and tenement district, consequently the storekeepers do business. That portion of the avenue south of 33d st has suffered considerable owing to the improvements that are going on in that section. The Pennsylvania Railroad terminal, in the course of construction at the present time, is a detriment to those doing business on that part of the avenue. They look forward, however, to good times when this large undertaking is completed. At the present time the east sidewalk of the avenue at this point is impassable, and the west side, while it is open, no one would venture there unless compelled to. For years past Eighth av has been a popular with the shopping public, especially during the evening hours. Thousands can be seen walking along that thoroughfare, purchasing articles of one kind or another. The stores, as a rule, remain open during the evening to cater to this trade. The west side of the avenue is the most popular. The store rents, as well as the price that the property is held at, is considerably higher than on the east side of the avenue.

Probably the one thing that has retarded Eighth av is the fact that so much of the property is held by estates. They have let their holdings remain stationary, except in a few instances. They have not spent much money in fixing or improving, being apparently content to receive the rents from the stores. The upper part of the buildings rent for small amounts compared to what could easily be obtained were other buildings erected on the sites of the present structures. Times Square, or, as it was known at that time, Longacre Square, suffered from just such a period. It passed through this period of stagnation, but not until the large estates who owned property in that section, notably the Astors, improved their holdings, did prices begin to look up, and adjoining property changed hands.

The following list, giving the number of stories of the buildings along both sides of the avenue, between 23d and 42d sts, will plainly show that the buildings are small, and the store rentals almost entirely depended on for income. On the west side between the streets mentioned there are only two 6-sty buildings, seventeen 5-sty buildings, of which ten are in one block; seventy-two 4-sty buildings, forty-two 3-sty houses, and two structures 2 stys each.

On the east side of the avenue there is one 6-sty building—the American theater—eleven 5-sty buildings, and sixty houses 4 stys each; sixty-five that are 3 stys, and two houses 2 stys high.

It will be seen at a glance that on the west side of the avenue the 4-sty buildings are in the majority, while on the other side 3-sty houses are slightly more numerous than the 4-sty ones.

The upper part, as a rule, are flats and the rents that are obtained from these tenants are reasonable. The prices asked by the owners of property along this thoroughfare are so high that the rental return does not make it very attractive for the prospective purchaser. It must be a man who is going to use the building for his own purposes. On the east side of the avenue, between 34th and 35th sts, 23 ft front, brought about $76,000. On the west side on this same block, 25 ft were sold for about $80,000. This property was sold at auction in 1901 and brought $42,500. The same purchasers paid about $140,000 for the northwest cor of 34th st about two years ago. A 25-ft plot between 39th and 40th sts is held at about $70,000.

Between 29th and 30th sts, on the east side, a 20-ft building is held at $50,000, while another building similarly located can be purchased for about $35,000. This gives an idea of what different valuations different owners place upon their holdings. The rents obtained below 34th st are much lower than those procured by owners of realty above that street. Near 30th st, a 16-ft store rents for $1,100, while a 25-ft store brings about $1,800. Above 34th st several large leases have been made during the past few years. The southwest cor of 36th st, for instance, is rented for $4,500, but another lease has been signed starting from the first of next May, at $7,500 a year. A store that is about 36 ft wide, on the west side of the avenue, between 34th and 35th sts, has been rented for a five-year term at an annual rental of $6,000. The general feeling along this thoroughfare is that if some large commercial house would purchase a plot and erect a suitable building, they would do business and it would do more to stimulate trade than almost any other one thing.

Upper Fifth Avenue Section.

Renting of stores and apartments has been very good all this Fall in that section of Harlem below 115th st, taking in Fifth av and east of that busy thoroughfare. On Madison and Fifth avs and the cross-section streets, between 100th and 115th sts, there are few vacant apartments to-day, compared to other sections of the city, and stores on the principal streets are difficult to get for any price.

Occasionally one will find a vacant store, but that is owing to the landlord's unwillingness to accept certain kinds of business. Single stores on Madison av rent for $55 and $60 a month, and on Fifth av it is difficult to find single stores for even $75; double stores bring in twice that amount. Apartments with all improvements, except elevator, rent for $5.50 and $6 a room, and cold-water flats for about $4.50 a room. These prices have prevailed for the last three years and, as a rule, so soon as one tenant moves out another is ready to move in.

It is conservatively estimated that more than 80 per cent. of the tenants in this district are Hebrews and in fact this average will nearly hold good all through Harlem. As profitable tenants they are unsurpassed. They pay promptly and are quiet and orderly neighbors. Real estate agents say that it is easier to raise a mortgage on a piece of property located in a district inhabited by Hebrews than any other, and Mr. I. Bier, of 1623 Madison av, tells that only a few days ago an owner in that neighborhood, in renewing a mortgage for $10,000, was offered an increase of $2,000.

The tearing down of a whole row of old houses on the north side of 111th st, between Lexington and Park avs, preparatory to the erection thereon of a new public school, with an outlet also on 112th st, is expected to benefit the neighborhood, as is also the contemplated beautifying of Central Park Circle, which will begin early in the Spring. It is to be noticed that in the 110th st section Fifth and Lexington avs are gradually taking away the better and larger stores from Third and Madison avs and it is freely predicted that inside of the next three years several large department stores will be established in or near 110th st.

The effort to make Seventh and Eighth avs, between 113th and 116th sts, an exclusive district, by asking on the average of $8 a room for flats, failed so far as the higher rentals were concerned. The demand for apartments at this price was far below expectations, with the result that finally the rents were reduced to $6 a room, which is the average price for the better class of apartments in this part of Harlem.

Lease of the Broadway Theatre.

The southwest corner of Broadway and 41st st, known as the Broadway Theatre, has been leased to Felix Isman, of Philadelphia, Pa., for a term of 21 years. The papers have not as yet been signed, but the terms have been agreed upon and the matter is virtually closed. This property is owned by the Zborowski estate. It will be remembered that Count Elliott Zborowski was killed about four years ago in an automobile accident in France.

Leopold Weil, who has closed several other deals for Mr. Isman, was the broker who negotiated this transaction. This property has a frontage of 93 ft on Broadway, 158 ft on 41st st, 120 ft on 7th av, and is said to be valued by the heirs of Count Zborowski at $2,000,000.

This theater has had a long and varied history. At various times since it was built in 1888, it has been known as the Metropolitan Concert Hall, Metropolitan Casino, Alcazar, and the Cosmopolitan Theatre. At one time it was used as a roller skating rink. Then it was remodeled and rechristened the Broadway Theatre, and has held its name to date.

Such eminent artists as Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Mme. Modjeska, Fannie Davenport, and a score of others have appeared upon its stage, though in latter years it has been given up to light musical productions.

Messrs. Litt & Dingwall are the present lessees and their lease expires on May 1, 1909. A short time ago they were approached by representatives of the estate with the view to finding out whether they wished to renew at the rental of $75,000 a year. This proposition was declined. It is a larger amount than is paid by any theatre lessee in the city.

It is understood that Mr. Isman has a well defined plan for improvement with a business structure. There is a rumor that a large dry goods store will occupy the premises when the alterations are completed. This, however, could not be verified. Felix Isman has made several large leases and purchases of Manhattan property, notably the southeast cor of Fifth av and 42d st, which was purchased from the Columbia Bank in October, 1906, but there is a clause which does not give Mr. Isman possession until Jan. 1, 1908. The old Stewart building, Broadway and Chambers st; the southeast cor of Broadway and 33d st; also, 538 and 540 Fifth av, near 45th st, are among his holdings.

The rental of stores on Madison av, between 90th and 100th sts, has increased more than 40 per cent. during the last six years, which is only in keeping with the increased taxation during the same period.

Decision for the Broker.

The Appellate Division handed down a decision recently, notable in real estate annals, in which it affirmed a judgment in favor of a broker who sued to recover his commission from a purchaser. Court records show that this is the only action of its kind successfully carried to the Appellate Division.

The action was started by Attorneys Johnston & Johnston for Samuel Friedman, a real estate broker, in the Supreme Court to recover $900 commission from Isaac Bittker and Abraham Rosenblum, the purchasers of a property in East 100th st, from Dr. George I. Miller.

It was alleged by the plaintiff, Friedman, that Dr. Miller gave him the exclusive right to sell the property for $90,000; that he called the attention of the defendants, Bittker & Rosenblum, to the property and that they asked him to withdraw from the negotiations, believing that they could procure the property from the owner for a less price. In return for withdrawing and furnishing the name and address of the owner, the defendants promised to pay Friedman the usual brokerage of 1 per cent. on the purchase price in the event of their buying the property. After Friedman saw that the defendants had taken title to the property, he went to Bittker first and Bittker said he did not buy the property and asked him why he did not go to Rosenblum; then he went to Rosenblum; he told him to go and see Bittker. This he did not do, but instead brought suit against Bittker & Rosenblum for his commission.

The suit was contested by the defendants, who swore to a general denial.

In rebuttal, the plaintiff called Dr. Miller, the owner of the house, who testified to having employed Friedman to sell the houses in question for him for $90,000, and his promise to pay him $900 commission if he sold the property. That Friedman told him that he had a firm by the name of Bittker & Rosenblum interested and that they had looked over the property. Soon after that Bittker came and, representing himself as a broker, asked if he had houses for sale on 100th st, and he then told Bittker that he had given his houses to Friedman. Bittker asked whether he would not give them to him and was told that there were no objections.

Later Bittker brought a man to his office whom he introduced as a responsible purchaser.

Dr. Miller thereupon told him that he had given the houses to no one for sale except Mr. Friedman, and asked if they knew him. Both emphatically denied ever having seen or heard of a man named Friedman. Only then did Dr. Miller tell Bittker that if he would bring him a purchaser with $90,000 for the houses, he would give them the whole $900 commission. Bittker then brought Rosenblum as the purchaser and contract was signed. The $900 commission was paid to Bittker & Rosenblum, but not before they again asserted that they did not know anything about Friedman, and they were not the men he originally brought as probable purchasers to Dr. Miller.

On these issues, the case was submitted to the jury, which brought in a verdict for the full amount in favor of the plaintiff. This was sustained by the Appellate Division, and the other day Mr. Friedman was paid his long-delayed commission, together with costs and interest.

Condition of Broadway Realty.

Brokers who are prominent in Broadway real estate, especially in the district between 42d and 125th sts, are marveling at the impossibility to get Broadway property into the market. For weeks past men with real money and a strong desire to own "the best" realty, so-called, have hounded their brokers to get for them Broadway property at reasonable prices. The brokers, some of whom have watched weeks and almost months go by since putting through a remunerative transaction. The men who are to-day holders of Broadway properties are evidently strong financially, and when informed that they can sell if they want to, they invariably say, all right, and then proceed to name a price which in boom times would not be considered a bargain. And the men with the money are waiting and say that they will wait until after prices have taken a tumble. Some brokers say that the present values asked for Broadway and any other equally staple real estate are as low as they are liable to be for some time to come. "The investor who has his heart set on owning Broadway realty," said a prominent real estate man, "can buy it to-day as cheaply as he will six months or a year from now."

The easing up of money and the firmness of good real estate leads many brokers to hope and believe that the worst is now over. After the holidays business will start to pick up in earnest so that by spring even the most pessimistic broker, or operator, will again be cheerfully optimistic. The president of one of the largest insurance companies, so it is said, assured a broker yesterday that by spring money to loan on bond and mortgage would again be plentiful at 4½%. This reliable reassurance came not amiss, for that same broker had been trying for days to negotiate a loan of $10,000 on a second mortgage, without success.

Tenants Crowded Out by Bridge Approach.

Monday was the last day for the tenants to vacate the tenements in East Broadway, Monroe, Madison and Henry sts which are in the line of the Manhattan terminal to the new Manhattan Bridge. It is estimated that over three hundred families were compelled to seek new homes, the majority of them finding shelter in the immediate neighborhood.

The moving of so many households in one day made a holiday for the fortunate ones whose homes were not molested by the energetic strides of the greater city's advancement. To them the scene was not without its pathetic side. Neighbors and friends of years standing were now for the first time at the parting of the ways, which to many would be for a life time. Realizing how easy it is to be separated in New York by miles of brick and mortar, even the children seemed to feel the seriousness of the occasion. Dressed in their best "bib and tucker," the much scrubbed faces could not hide the funereal expressions. The parting salutations were in keeping with the occasion, and as load after load of furniture was dragged away either by horse or man power the departing family cast a backward glance towards the squalid tenement which was the only home they ever knew.

It was in the neighborhood, years before, that the emigrant first settled, worked and married. With the coming of the children came new responsibilities, and with their growth a fuller realization of their duties to the city and land of their adoption. All around them they witnessed signs of advancing prosperity, but their old neighbors, like themselves, proved deaf to the cry for new streets and modern tenements, and were content to remain wherever the smells were familiar. As the value of property advanced rents kept apace, and the same rooms for which was first paid $6 a month gradually increased until $14 was demanded and paid. What overcrowding and increased rentals could not accomplish, the city and its greater needs did in its own good way.

For months the tenants in the condemned district had known that the day for leaving the old surroundings was fast nearing, but they tarried and postponed the moving until the last day and the last moment. But the final call was for Monday last, and the caravans of the departing formed one long procession.

The Opening of the 207th St. Bridge.

venience of communication certainly make for the development and consequent advance in values of land, and while most of the outlying portions of the various boroughs of this city have had their upbuilding started before even insufficient transit facilities were in existence, this section, with its complete system, has the tremendous advantage of remaining unspoiled by premature and unsuitable building operations.

The opening of this bridge, will, I think, as much as any one other factor, start the long-looked-for building movement in the Dyckman section under more auspicious and advantageous circumstances than even the most sanguine had reason to expect.

To the residents of the western part of the Bronx the opening of this bridge is an event of no less importance than to their neighbors of Manhattan. The entire section west of Fordham has been for years in sore need of additional transit facilities, and while a railroad up Jerome avenue is bound to come some day, that day seems far off at present.

The 207th street bridge, however, brings this part of the Bronx in immediate touch with the Subway through the station at 207th street, and helps to free a large population from the tyranny of New York & Putnam and New York Central railroad time tables. We are promised by those in authority to have the bridge turned over to public use about the beginning of the New Year, and I feel confident that this opening is sure to mark the beginning of an era of active development and of marked prosperity to the two sections most particularly concerned.

Increased Interest in Long Island Realty.

Commenting on the realty situation on Long Island, President Edward J. McCormack, of the McCormack Real Estate Company, says:

"There are plentiful evidences of increased interest on the part of out-of-town elements in Long Island real estate. This is probably due in part to the successful retailing of an enormous number of lots. Several contracts were made by our company during the past week with out-of-town speculators, and the week's record shows that several other large purchases by the out-of-town element were made.

"It is interesting to note that Boston capital, following the example of certain local companies financed by foreign interests, has purchased about $1,700,000 worth of property in Nassau County.

"The fact that about 40,000 lots in Kings County are about to be developed and placed on the market seems to me," continued Mr. McCormack, "to be encouraging news to the real estate interests of Queens and Nassau counties. I say this for the reason that, in order to make a profit out of the proposed development of the lots mentioned in Kings, it will require that they be retailed at an average price of $1,750 for each 20-foot lot. The expense of developing, selling, commissions, etc., in connection with the preparing and marketing of the property in question, will bring the average price up to the amount I have stated.

"For the speculative builder on this property, this will, of course, mean that it will be necessary for him to build undetached houses. When this property is put on the market it will naturally increase the value of the adjacent and surrounding properties, but the real effect will be, I take it, to cause increased interest in well-situated properties in Queens and Nassau counties, where lots may be bought at half and at less than half the above price, and where the speculative builder can erect detached dwellings.

"The average homeseeker will prefer a detached home in a desirable location in Queens or in Nassau County, within the zone of good transportation, to living in an undetached row of houses in a section which can claim no better transportation facilities.

"Out-of-town capital is interested in the developing of the 40,000 odd lots to which I refer," said Mr. McCormack, "and this fact, taken together with the fact that out-of-town interest is being shown in Queens and Nassau properties certainly indicates that there is an equal, if not greater, confidence that the financial disturbance is not curtailing the buying of homes by the average family man."

Mr. McCormack said that lot sales by his company for December, judging by the sales of the first week and general indications, would pass the $100,000 mark, thus bringing the total sales for the year ending January 1, 1908, to the grand total of $2,000,000. This amount exceeds by $500,000 the expectations of the McCormack Company at the opening of the year 1907.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

New President for North Side Board of Trade.

THE nominating committee of the North Side Board of Trade, consisting of Messrs. Anderson, Bogart, Davis, Jones, Weiner, Wells, and Williamson, has nominated John F. Steeves for president for the ensuing year. This nomination is equivalent to an election, as Mr. Steeves has the good will of all the members. He was one of its charter members, having joined at its organization in 1894, and has been a vice-president for a number of years, as well as chairman of its committee on commerce and waterways, in which capacity he has taken an active interest in the development of the waterways of the Bronx, going with delegations to Washington to urge suitable appropriations in the Rivers and Harbors bill. Mr. Steeves was employed by Mr. E. C. Gates in Calais, Maine, about thirty-three years ago, to come to New York for the firm of Church E. Gates & Co. On the death of Mr. Church E. Gates, Mr. Steeves became manager of the firm, in which capacity he acted for several years, after which he became a partner in the firm in which he is still interested and actively engaged. The firm, besides being engaged in the lumber business, has always been a holder of large real estate interests, chiefly in water front properties. Mr. Steeves has been the representative of his firm in the New York Lumber Trade Association, of which he was at one time president. He is also a trustee of the Harlem Savings Bank.

A notice, issued this week to the members of the North Side Board of Trade, states:

"Fifty-seven thousand dollars of the $75,000 required to acquire the ground and erect the North Side Board of Trade building has been subscribed, $7,500 of which was obtained during the past week, notwithstanding the financial depression. Only $17,500 is now required, and if each member who has not already subscribed, will take one share, advantage could be taken of the present low price of material to proceed with the work at once.

"The par value of shares is $100. $10 down and balance on demand.

"If you have $100 to spare this is a good opportunity to invest it, where it will increase in value, and, at the same time, aid the board, of which you are a member, in securing a home of its own."

Large Property Owners Hopeful.

OWNERS of large subdivisions are generally taking a cheerful view of the present financial situation, and many affirm that the widespread distrust among bank depositors is likely to stimulate the purchase of vacant lots in the suburban districts. An official of a prominent development corporation, in canvassing the situation lately, ventured the opinion that the results of the crisis would be favorable only to high grade propositions. While this theory will doubtlessly be disputed by owners of popular-priced developments, it is believed that as a result of recent disclosures among some of the cheaper land companies that the appetite of the public for low priced lots has been sufficiently satisfied, for a while, at least. In this connection it may be stated that a movement is already on foot to bring all lot companies under the supervision of the State Banking Department. This will, it is declared, eliminate the unreliable realty concerns and place the business of selling lots on a better standing. In speaking of a restricting act such as has been suggested, Mr. Remsen Johnson, of the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company, said:

"We are heartily in favor of, and will welcome, any legislation that will protect the small buyer of real estate, especially where such buyer is to pay for his purchase on the installment plan. At present the only real protection of the small purchaser is the probity and standing of the individual or corporation from whom he is purchasing. Unfortunately, however, whenever we have 'boom' times, the field of suburban realty is invaded by many individuals who have no standing, and to whom the meaning of the word probity is unknown.

"Selling real estate on easy payments in the environs of New York is not only a perfectly legitimate, but even a commendable business, provided the property is sold, without misrepresentations, at its real value, and provided the interests of the purchasers are properly safeguarded. It is possible, on the other hand, to pass a law so drastic in its provisions as to practically prevent the sale of any real estate on the instalment plan, and the result of such a law would prove a real misfortune. The objects of any legislation on this subject are, of course, that the purchaser shall, upon the completion of his contract, receive a perfectly good and marketable title, and that when he has paid any considerable amount on his contract such contract shall not be arbitrarily cancelled and the money paid thereon appropriated by his vendor."

Eavesdropping on the Phone.

Apartment landlords will be interested in a recent decision by Justice Wauhope Lynn with respects to the right of privacy as relating to the use of the telephone. The evidence in the case at point brought out the fact that frequently when the wife of a former tenant of a West Side apartment house called a number on the 'phone, some member of the Superintendent's household cut into the circuit with the evident purpose of listening. Judge Lynn says:

It is contended by the landlord that his Superintendent was not guilty of these acts, but I find as a matter of fact . . . that this Superintendent was guilty of this unusual act of listening or what might be properly called eavesdropping over the telephone, and learning what was said by various people to this lady, and took opportunity of giving expression at different times in the hallway of this apartment house, announcing that the tenant was a woman having other loyalties than her husband, and intimating that her morals were not of that kind or character to warrant her remaining in that house.

Continuing, he says:

It has passed the period of experiment and is now a real living part of ourselves. It expresses the soul and mind of our feelings; the heart throbs of the human voice are felt as keenly over this instrument as when one person talks to another, and it can express its intonations and throbs when reflected by the human voice; and where it is installed as a part of an apartment house and made an inducing cause for the rental of such apartment, then its presence must be regarded as a sacred part of the home, entering into its privacies and secrets and giving communion with those we love and cherish.

When such abuse is made of it as was made by the plaintiff's agents in this case, then I hold that, as a matter of law, it is a deprivation of the peace and quietness with which our common law surrounds every household; it is an invasion of the domicile worse than eavesdropping, more vicious than scandal, and more detrimental to the welfare of the home-dweller than any other ordinary abuse a landlord is capable of heaping upon a tenant.

Eavesdropping by means of the telephone is a despicable act, but owners of apartments have it largely within their power to reduce this practice to a minimum by installing first-class exchange boards in their premises and employing none but trustworthy and competent operators.

When the opinion of several owners of large apartment houses was asked by the Record and Guide regarding the probable effect of Justice Lynn's ruling on other landlords, they said in general that if the case is appealed, the decision of Judge Lynn may be reversed. "But you might say," said a prominent Broadway landlord, "that we are burdened enough now with conflicting laws without adding new excuses for tenants to avoid living up to their contracts. What with our troubles over heat, ventilation, janitor service and what not, it is quite unnecessary to add eavesdropping of telephone conversation to our already long list of trials and tribulations. The owning and conducting with profit of apartment houses is getting more difficult every year in this city, and the signing of leases by tenants is getting more and more a formality."

Hurrying Along the Tri-Borough Plan.

To expedite the matter of passing upon the Bronx section of the tri-borough rapid transit, the local improvement boards of that borough are about to request the Board of Estimate at its next meeting to have the municipality formally acquire title not later than the first of April to the property required for the extension of Westchester av, from the middle of Westchester village to Pelham Bay Park. Resolutions are now pending calling for the work of regulating and grading the extension to the avenue mentioned, and the board will be requested to approve those resolutions immediately upon adopting the resolution to acquire title. It will be recalled that as laid out by the old commission the tri-borough route, after passing through Brooklyn and beneath 3d av, Manhattan, extends along the Southern boulevard and Westchester av, in the Bronx. The route, as laid out, will be a straight line from the centre of Westchester village to Pelham Bay Park.

The estimated cost of opening and flagging Westchester av, from Westchester square to Pelham Park, approaches $190,000.

Costly Assessments for the Bronx.

Owners of realty in the Bronx will be interested in the announcement made during the week by Borough President Haffen, that so far this year $3,520,000 has been paid by property owners in that borough for public improvements. Of this sum $2,156,895 has been for street assessments, including regulating, grading and paving. The remainder has been for sewer assessments. The assessment lists for all improvements that were completed up to July 1 this year, a large portion of which assessments have already been paid, have been turned over to the City Finance Department.

Instructions to Janitors.

(Condensed from Remco's Manual.—Published by the McClure Company.)

You report to the management, and should know where and how to reach your owner, agent or superintendent quickly at any hour of the day or night. Enter in your record book his house address and telephone number for use after his office closes.

Enter the house address of all your help in your record book. You represent the management on the premises and are responsible to it for: The house service, the conduct and work of employees, the condition of the plant, the care of the property, the renting of the apartments, waste of steam, electricity, water, gas or of anything else. Waste hurts you with your employer and does not help you with your tenants. Systematize your work. Insist on having proper tools to work with. Have a place for everything. Fix a time for each part of the day's regular work.

Hang in your basement a schedule of service hours for each position. Require every employee to report for duty on time.

Do not leave the premises unless it is necessary. Before you leave, notify your superintendent or agent and your first assistant where to find you in case of fire or of an emergency.

Complete house service should be given from 8 A. M. to 7 P. M. Open front basement doors at 6 A. M. Open rear basement doors at 6 A. M. Open main entrance doors at 8 A. M. Open roof doors and skylights at 8 A. M., and ventilate the hall thoroughly by opening front doors before closing the roof doors. Close rear basement doors and lower your lights at 8 P. M., except on Saturdays and days before holidays. Close front basement doors and put out basement lights at 10 P. M., except on Saturdays and days before holidays.

On Saturdays and days before holidays close front and rear basement doors at 11 P. M. After the hour for closing the basement doors deliveries are to be made through the main entrance. Turn off all outside and vestibule lights at 10 P. M. Close main entrance vestibule doors and roof doors and skylights at 10 P. M. In houses having hall-boy service only, close main entrance vestibule doors and roof doors and skylights at the hour fixed for the hall-men to go off duty.

Supply hot water at all hours. Bank hot water heater fires at 10 P. M. Before banking fires see that the hot water tank is full of hot water. Supply steam heat from 6.30 A. M. to 10.30 P. M. daily during the term fixed by your lease; it is usually from October 15 to May 15. Bank your fire at 10 P. M. See that all tanks are full before you bank your fire. Insure your effects. In case of fire you must give your whole time to the care of your tenants and your house.

Your employers and the public will judge you by the character of the service you maintain. Set an example for the other employees in every way. Always be polite, obliging and prompt. Keep yourself, the other employees and your property as neat and clean as possible.

Have your uniforms cleaned every month. Get new uniforms twice a year, in March and September. Never allow uniforms to be worn away from the building. A breakdown in your elevator or dumbwaiter service, except as the result of an accident, is inexcusable and can only be due to your neglect to make inspections regularly or to your failure to order repairs in time.

Elevator and dumbwaiter and house-bell repairs must always be made quickly. The service must not be interrupted for a moment longer than is necessary. Night and day and Sunday work must be done to keep these in service.

Lack of heat, or of hot or cold water is bad management. See that you are not to blame for it. Fill your coal bins before September 1. Always have a month's supply of coal on hand.

You must be able to work fast in any emergency. Therefore enter in your record book and keep in your pocket-book a list of the names and addresses and 'phone numbers of the makers of all the machinery you use. Also record the numbers of all your machinery in both lists.

Enter in your record book and keep in your pocket-book the names of the mechanics usually employed by the office to make repairs to the plumbing, the steam plant, the hydraulic elevators, the electric elevators, the bells, the pumps, and the roof, and their night address and telephone numbers as well as their day addresses and telephone numbers.

Never promise tenants repairs that you cannot make yourself without cost to the owner; say that you will report the request to the office.

Make the tenants your friends. If they see that you are doing everything you can to make them comfortable and to perfect the house service they will be your friends.

Don't give information about your tenants to people who have no right to know about them. Discourage gossip—the less you and your help know about the tenants' affairs the better. Never talk back to tenants; if they don't treat you right, report the facts to the office.

Remember always that your house is a place of residence, therefore permit no unnecessary noise. It is much better to keep an old tenant than to get a new one, and it is less work for you and less expense to the owner.

A Paying Building for a Narrow Lot.

WITH the completion of the 6-story physicians' and dentists' building at 23 West 36th st, the attention of property owners in that section is directed to the possibilities of utilizing to advantage single lots measuring less than the average width. The structure in question is built upon and covers a lot 18.9x 98.9, and is the first building of its kind to be erected in the 34th st district. Provision has been made by the owner, Alfred Friedlander, for sixteen suites, all of which have been laid out with due regard to the purposes for which they are now being used. The successful renting of the building is already indicated by the fact that the structure is more than two-thirds full, and had it been fully completed by the opening of the fall renting season no doubt would be entirely occupied by this time.

A novel feature is to be introduced in a portion of the basement, where a library and reading quarters will be maintained, containing periodicals and medical books which will be of interest to the professional occupants of the building. The plans for the laying out of the different suites were drawn by Mr. J. D. Trenholm, of the office of Mr. Benjamin R. Lummis, 28 West 33d st, he having previously laid out and managed the Sydenham Building, formerly the old Madison Avenue Hotel, at the northeast corner of 58th st and Madison av, which was the first building rearranged for the especial use of physicians in this city.

The idea of duplicating this undertaking in a smaller way by applying the plan to a single lot nearer 34th st suggested itself to Mr. Lummis some months ago, who engaged the services of the originator to carry out the scheme. The results clearly demonstrate that there is a demand for structures of the type mentioned, and judging by the interest taken in the Friedlander building by neighboring owners and others, the operation is likely to be followed by others of a similar nature.

New Avenues Planned for Queens.

The new Second Ward map which is soon to come before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for final approval is a very interesting topographical document and if all the changes in the arrangement of the streets are made as provided for on this map, Newtown will be quite a different looking place.

Aside from the changes in the street nomenclature—and they are many and interesting—many important thoroughfares have been widened and extended and a number of new ones are laid out.

Broadway, Astoria, is to be extended in a straight line southeasterly to connect with Broadway, Elmhurst, at the junction of this latter street with Woodside and Baxter avs.

TO CALL FLUSHING AVE. "ASTORIA" AVE.

Jackson av, from Woodside av to Flushing Creek, is to be widened from 100 feet to 150 feet. The Flushing and Astoria Road, or Flushing av, has been changed to Astoria av, and this name will probably be applied to that part of the thoroughfare which now runs through Astoria as soon as the changes have been made in the First Ward map. Jamaica av will be extended in a straight line from the westerly ward boundary line to Flushing Bay and the name changed to Patterson av. Grand av will also be extended without any change in name.

Several new avenues parallel to and north of Grand av are to be laid out, running straight eastward to Flushing Bay and to be known as Schurz, Siegel and Mansfield avs. Ditmars av, in Steinway is to be extended to East Elmhurst to connect with Bay Shore Terrace, where it will gobble up the latter's name and run in a southerly direction to Flushing or Astoria av.

BERRIAN AVENUE A SHORE DRIVE.

Wolcott and Riker avs are also to be extended to Flushing Bay. Berrian av will become one of the most picturesque and important thoroughfares in the upper part of the ward when it is extended according to the new map.

It will follow the bulkhead line along the river and bay from Steinway to Flushing Bridge. The proposed street now is mostly under water, but when the land is filled in it will form a shore drive of great attractiveness.

Four important new avenues have been laid out south of Jackson av and running parallel to it clear to Flushing Creek. They are named after these four Presidents of the United States: Hayes, Fillmore, Polk and Roosevelt, and have their westerly beginning at the ward boundary line. Anderson av in Woodside will be a part of Polk av.—Long Island Star.

Stocks vs. Real Estate.

A few months ago Amalgamated Copper stock sold at 121¼ and returned 3.3 per cent. to the buyer. This compares with a yield of 8.23 per cent. to those who bought at yesterday's price of 48⅝, although the dividend is now only 4 per cent.—N. Y. Herald.

Every year or two adds ten or twenty per cent. to real estate values in the more desirable sections of this city. The total INCREASE in land values alone last year, in Greater New York, was $190,000,000, which exceeds the whole real estate assessment of New Orleans or Milwaukee.

Life Estates and Tenants.

BY HENRY F. MILLER.*

Estates are also divided with reference to the time of their enjoyment. An estate to be enjoyed at once, is an estate in possession. An estate to be enjoyed in the future is a future or an expectant estate. Expectant estates are of two classes—remainders and reversions. These terms frequently arise in matters connected with real estate, and should be understood.

A remainder arises where a present estate is given to one person, and a future estate is given to another, to arise upon the termination or end of this precedent estate.

A reversion is the residue of an estate left in the grantor after conveying an estate less than a fee. For ordinary purposes, remainders and reversions are practically similar, excepting only that a reversion belongs to the grantor and a remainder belongs to a third person.

Sometimes estates are granted subject to a limitation over on the happening of a certain event, and are then to vest in some other person. This is called a conditional limitation, and when it arises by a will, is called an executory devise.

We need not go into the details and technicalities of this branch of the subject, it being sufficient for our purpose to have a general understanding of the matter. There is, however, one important thing to be noted with reference to future estates, and that is that they must vest now by statute, within a certain time. Formerly the power of a person to tie up his estate was practically unlimited, but the policy of the law has been to abridge this power so that estates cannot be tied up indefinitely. In New York the period within which the power of alienation can be suspended is two lives in being at the creation of the estate. If any one attempts to suspend the power of alienation for a greater time than this, his act is void.

Illustrations of this are most frequently found in wills, where testators, in their efforts to preserve intact their property, make provisions for tying it up, which transgress the statute, and this is a prolific source of defective titles to real estate.

FREEHOLDS NOT OF INHERITANCE ARE LIFE ESTATES.—So far as these life estates are created by act of the parties, they may assume various forms—they may be for the life of the tenant, or they may be for the life of a third person. A life tenant has only the right to use the property as distinguished from the right to take its substance—illustrating it by personal property: for example, if I had the right to use a library, it would not grant me the right to dispose of or destroy the books, but every reasonable use of the books would be permitted.

One of the incidents of a life estate is that the tenant for life is entitled to take estovers; that is, wood for fuel, fences and agricultural erections and purposes, but he is not entitled to this to the extent of injuring the freehold; if he did, he would commit what is called waste; nor could he cut timber for the purpose of sale or exchange, though he would be entitled to cut timber for necessary repairs.

Another incident of a life estate is called emblements—this means that the representatives of a tenant for life, who has died, become entitled to the crops not gathered before the tenant's death, but this applies only to crops which the tenant sows himself, not to such as are natural products of the soil, as, for example, grass or fruit, not the result of special cultivation.

Where estates are given for an uncertain period they are deemed life estates, as, for example, an estate granted to a widow during the period of her widowhood. Such an estate is deemed a life estate, because it might endure during the period of her life, although, of course, it would terminate upon her marriage. Such a life estate as I have just mentioned would not entitle the widow, who married, to the emblements, because the theory of emblements is that the tenant should not be deprived of the fruits of his own labor, and as the termination of his estate, by death, was through no act of his own, the law grants his representatives the profits, but where the widow, holding an estate during widowhood, terminates it by her marriage, she does it by her own act and, therefore, loses the emblements.

Life tenants can sell their estates, but when a life tenant does so, his grantee holds the estate, not for the grantee's life, but for the life of his grantor, the life tenant, and such estates, like estates in fee, are subject to the claims of creditors and may be sold under execution issued to obtain the satisfaction of judgments.

The tenant for life also has the power to lease the lands, but if he dies before the expiration of the term of the lease granted by him, the lease ends at that time, and the tenant for years has no right to continue. It is, therefore, unsafe for a person to lease lands from a tenant for life, because of the uncertainty of the duration of the lease. To obviate this difficulty, it is permitted that a power to lease be given to a tenant for life, and, by virtue of this power, the lease may extend beyond the period of his death, and to that extent bind the estate in remainder.

It is the duty of the life tenant of real estate to make tenantable repairs. If the property is damaged during his tenancy, it is called waste. Waste is of two kinds, voluntary and permissive. Voluntary waste is where the tenant himself does something to injure the freehold. Permissive waste arises where the tenant permits the property to deteriorate without any affirmative act on his part, due to his neglect, to keep the property in tenantable condition. Sometimes the life estate is granted without impeachment of waste, which means that the life tenant is not restricted to the ordinary rule, but may take some of the substance without being liable for waste. But even though the tenant for life may hold his estate without impeachment of waste, he is not authorized to commit malicious waste.

It is the duty of the life tenant to pay the ordinary income charges, as, for example, the annual interest on a mortgage, and the current taxes and water rents, and, in return, he is entitled to the rents and profits. Any expense which would be merely for the remainderman is not chargeable to the life tenant. Generally speaking, it is the rule that the life tenant should bear only such expenses which imply that he has received the benefit.

There is a mixed class of cases where an expense must be apportioned between the life tenant and remainderman, as, for example, in the case of an assessment for a public improvement. In such a case the life tenant receives some benefit from the enhancement of value of the property, and, on the other hand, the remainderman will also receive some benefit when his estate vests in possession. As the benefit is thus divided so the charge must be divided, and the expense is apportioned between the life tenant and remainderman.

Curtesy is an estate for life, granted to the husband in the lands which his wife died seized of an estate of inheritance. There are four requisites for an estate of curtesy: (1) There must be a marriage. (2) The wife must be seized of an estate of inheritance. (3) There must be issue born of the marriage during the wife's life. (4) The estate arises on the wife's death.

At common law, before any change was made in the statutes, the husband was entitled to the rents and profits of his wife's land during the marriage. This is no longer the case. Enabling statutes have increased the powers of married women, but the estate of curtesy still exists. If the marriage is childless, there is no curtesy. The child must also be born alive during the mother's lifetime. Where there is what is called a Caesarian operation, there is no curtesy. Curtesy may be lost by divorce, but not if the divorce be on the wife's fault. If divorce be granted to the wife for the husband's fault, he loses his right of curtesy. The right of the husband to curtesy is called initiate upon the birth of issue—it is consummate on the death of the wife. The wife, however, has full control over her own property, and may, without her husband's consent, sell and convey it in her lifetime, and this defeats the husband's right of curtesy. In this respect there is a distinction between curtesy and dower.

Competent Superintendents Necessary.

HOW to practice economy without reducing efficiency in the management of the present day office building is a subject to which owners of such structures will always give attention. In commenting on the subject an authority points out that one of several ideas now practiced by nearly all operators of large office buildings is to secure an efficient man to direct the management of the building and that many owners of office buildings make the grievous mistake of hiring a cheap man to manage their buildings. The employment as superintendents of men who are not only impractical but have also no knowledge of mechanics, means in the end a poorly conducted business and inevitably a disastrous one financially. As an argument showing how a practical man is a necessity, he says: "A door becomes warped and must be taken from its place to be planed down, or some slight detail in the plumbing system gets out of order. The practical man gets down to business and makes the necessary repairs, whereas the incompetent, not being able to adjust the defects, sends for a carpenter to fix the door, and a plumber to mend the break in the plumbing. In this manner time is lost, inconvenience is placed upon the tenants and money is lost to the owner. It is true an engineer can, and frequently does, remedy such defects, but his place is in the engine and boiler rooms, where he has enough detail work to keep him busily engaged. The above instances seem but a trifle, that is, if they were to arise but once a year, but they do not. They are constantly before the superintendent."

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

November 29 and 30, December 2, 3, 4 and 5.

The Revised Code

FEW BOOKS have been so well perused this week in New York as the Revised Building Code. It is the book of the hour for owners and builders, architects and engineers. Concerning the general plan and structure of the work, it may be remarked in the first place that it is not a new code, in the sense of being a complete departure from the old model and of taking nothing from the common stock of building regulations, but is simply a revision of the old book, following upon the same lines, and with much the same arrangement; but there has been added a great deal that is absolutely new and several features quite revolutionary. The old ordinance asked to be construed liberally, but this code declares there shall be no modifications of its requirements—except as provided for in the Charter, and such interpretations as the Superintendent of Buildings may make under that authority must be taken as precedents in future cases. Evidently if the commissioners could have eliminated discretionary power absolutely they would so have done. This is one of the most striking and important points of difference between the two ordinances. Another relates to registered constructors. No one will be permitted to file plans and specifications for the erection of a building without being registered at the Building Department, and in order to register he must hold a certificate of competency from a Board of "Constructors' Examiners," to be appointed by the Mayor. This registered constructor not only files the plans and statement before the erection of the building, but he also, upon the completion of the work, must make affidavit that it has been done in accordance with the plans and specifications. The present ordinance allows either an owner, lessee, agent, architect or builder to file the plans and statement of specifications, but hereafter, by the new code, it must be one who will be able to swear when the contract is finished that it has been done in accordance with the law. The necessity of having works inspected from the Building Department will seemingly no longer exist, as the registered constructor, or supervisor of the work, will be the responsible individual. The departmental inspector of construction work is not eliminated in terms, but it is obvious that his duties have virtually been delegated to another, who is responsible, not to the Superintendent of Buildings, but to the Board of Constructors' Examiners, which alone has power to cancel his certificate of competency, according to our reading of the text. Under the revised code the registered constructor would become an extremely important figure in metropolitan building, so much so that it is difficult to anticipate all the possibilities and consequences.

Limitations for Concrete Construction

THE DEFINITIONS AND CLASSIFICATIONS of the new revision of the Building Code constitute another of its important features. The old ordinance recognized the existence of an "apartment house," and there has been some curiosity as to whether the commission would make, or recommend, a distinction in terms between a tenement house and an "apartment house." The answer is in the negative: every residence building occupied by three or more families is a tenement house, as defined in the Tenement House Act. A hotel is "a residence building, other than a tenement house, containing more than fifteen sleeping rooms," regardless of whether it is intended, designed or used for supplying food and shelter. Definitions become extremely important when the law is rigidly applied. In the official classification all structures in which sleeping accommodations are provided are termed "residence buildings," and fall under Class C, which includes what are commonly called dwellings, boarding houses, tenement houses, hotels, apartment houses, hospitals, lodging-houses, club-houses, studios, convents, dormitories, police stations, fire houses and jails. It is apparent that the largest part of construction work will come under Class C. Mercantile buildings, such as lofts, warehouses and stores, also factories and workshops, printing houses, storage buildings, power stations and garages,—and intended to include all buildings used in the manufacture, sale and storage of inflammable products—are termed "special hazard buildings" and designated as "Class E." Here it is important to note that all buildings required to be of fireproof construction under the revised code in Class E must be of "first-class construction," and what is meant by first-class construction is described in precise terms in Section 112: that "the fireproof floor and roof contruction between the steel beams shall be in the form of segmental arches," to be composed of "Portland cement concrete, brick or hollow tile or hard-burned clay, or semi-porous or porous terra-cotta." The import to some firms engaged in fireproof construction is more fully set forth in a letter from Mr. Guy V. Waite in another column. Reinforced concrete construction is provided for under Section 117. Buildings designed in accordance with the requirements of this section will be deemed to be fireproof and permissible under the code, "as second-class construction." But as only "first-class construction," so called, "can be used in Class E buildings." Reinforced concrete is consequently debarred from that field.

Larger Building Costs

FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS, theatres and places of assemblage, the regulations in the code which went into effect December 23, 1899, are followed closely, particularly with reference to open side courts or spaces, with corridors to the street. In instances where the old law is not definite in terms the provisions are amended by inserting requirements evidently suggested by the rules of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Under the head of quality of materials it is noticed that the revised code recognizes two kinds of Southern yellow pine—shortleaf as well as longleaf, and more particularly such species as North Carolina pine and loblolly pine; and if Cuban, shortleaf and loblolly pine is grown under conditions that it produces a large percentage of hard summer wood, "so as to be equivalent to the wood produced by the true longleaf, it would be covered by the term 'longleaf.'" The significance of this will be understood when it is recalled that intimations were given some time ago that shortleaf or loblolly pine timber would be barred by the terms of the new code. But, in the matter of concrete, the new code makes a decided change, in specifying that concrete shall be made of "Portland cement," instead of merely "cement," with sand, broken stone or gravel. This eliminates from "concrete" construction the old natural cement, though it is not prohibited for cement mortar. Another feature of the new ordinance consists in the provisions for guarding window openings. The window-route will not be so easy for conflagrations in the future. As noted last week the fire limits of the city are extended, but detached frame building is not prohibited when not more than eighty per cent. of the lot frontage is occupied. Building height for office structures is limited for the first time in the history of the city, and if the new regulations are upheld the ultimate effect will be to spread the business section. A natural consequence of revising a building code is to increase building costs rather than diminish them, and this must mean in the end higher renting schedules. It would be interesting to know what the exact difference in cost would be for a building under Class E, for example—how much more it would cost to erect under the new law than under the old?

"Bridges and the Art Commission."

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I am surprised to find you willing to publish the two opening editorial paragraphs of your issue of last week. In them you chide, softly, and it is true, and much more in sorrow than in anger, a contributor to the Architectural Record for an article about "Bridges and the Art Commission," and incidentally but necessarily the editor of that periodical for admitting that contribution.

This in itself is rather puzzling. Which periodical is Mentor and which Telemachus? Or do they perhaps take turns? In that case the reader ought to be warned beforehand, so that he may avoid the painful mistake made by a New York theatrical audience which, when the curtain rose upon the supposedly reputable and dignified "Dr. Jekyll," received him with roars of execration as "Hyde."

The case you make against your contemporary and its contributor is that since the Boller design for the Hudson Memorial Bridge was rejected, and last month, which is to say, after the peccant article was written and put in type, another design was submitted to the Art Commission upon which that body has not acted, but which the Bridge Commissioner thinks much better than the one he submitted before. As to the East River Connecting Bridge, if Mr. Lindenthal will leave out his architecture, it appears that the Commission will shut their eyes to the demerits of his purely utilitarian structure. But how can he leave out the architecture if, as I am advised, the towers are necessary as abutments? And how is he to know what form or formlessness in masses which exist solely for the sake of their resistance to thrust will meet the views of the Commission?

Now about that other design for the Hudson Memorial Bridge which "experts," including the Bridge Commissioner, find "greatly superior to the earlier." It has nothing to do with the case of the "R. & G." against the "A. R.," since it did not exist when the article in question was written. Artistically it seems that in its superstructure it is an imitation of masonry in metal. Is a sham of that kind, in the opinion of the Art Commission, quite the thing for a "monumental" bridge? But it also seems there are engineering questions involved as to the practicability of the construction, and I have sought for engineering opinions upon those. One engineer writes me that "a reinforced concrete arch of 700 feet span is nothing but a very expensive experiment," and that "there is no more necessity for a concrete arch bridge of 700 feet than there is for one of cheese, when a beautiful bridge can be built of steel for one-third the cost and of assured safety." Another engineer has been kind enough to go into the engineering questions thoroughly, and at length, in the statement which I subjoin, and which is so admirably lucid a piece of exposition that any layman can follow it to its conclusions. I commend it to you as worthy your attention and that of your readers, if not that of the Art Commission. M. S.

The Hudson Memorial Bridge.

This structure, as described in Engineering News Nov, 21, proposes as the great central feature a composite concrete structure consisting of a so-called reinforced concrete arch, 725 ft. span, centre to centre of spring lines, with a rise of 177 ft., surmounted by a steel arcade and roadway cased in with concrete so as to give a stone effect.

The arch ring is 15 ft. deep at the crown and 25 ft. deep at the springing, and 70 ft. in width. Disposed within the arch ring are 48 steel box girders, all sides latticed, and the whole latticed together, and estimated at 8,500 tons in weight.

Is the above construction practicable?

1. The chasm of the river crossing has a water depth of 24 ft. and 60 ft. of soft bottom before sand is reached; into this bottom falseworks must be established to carry the concrete arch weighing (without steel) 100 tons per lin. ft., and an opening for navigation provided of at least 75 ft. clear water.

2. Reinforced concrete calls for a very small percentage of theory and a very large percentage of sound judgment and practical experience. It is predicated upon the ability to make a work monolithic with a perfect bond between the cement and steel reinforcement bars. This necessitates rapid, continuous work, so that the steel becomes buried in its proper place in the soft concrete before hardening, or otherwise all theory of proposition has gone by the board, with disastrous results.

3. The compressive value of concrete is determined from carefully conducted laboratory experiments on cubic specimens, which can hardly be expected to hold in great masses under practical conditions of placement.

Authorities differ as to the factor of safety or working compressive strength permissible. The usual practice is not to compress stonework beyond 1-6 or 1-10 the experimental ultimate strength. Portland cement concrete 1-2-4, as proposed to be used, experiments show an ultimate compressive strength of from 1,000 lbs. per sq. inch in 10 days to about 3,000 lbs. per sq. inch at the end of a year, with possibly 2,000 lbs. at the end of 30 days.

Allowing 1-6 crushing strength of the above concrete as a working value, at the end of a year there results 500 lbs. per sq. inch as the maximum or prudent safe basis in proportioning work, or a little over 300 lbs. at the end of thirty days.

Applying the above statement of facts to the proposed arch it would appear:

A. This arch would be beyond all precedent, being over three times the span of any concrete arch hitherto built, and dependence is placed on highly refined mathematical analysis, predicated upon certain assumptions and the ability to put it in space according to the figures, as designed on paper.

B. The enormous weight involved makes an unyielding falsework centering, in the soft river bottom, a very serious proposition, to which is attached more or less risk, especially considering the long time such a centering must be maintained, until the concrete is at least a year old.

C. The arch is of such huge proportion and massive volume that there is no mechanical device that can be designed that will enable a rapid and continuous depositing of the concrete necessary for a monolithic construction (on which the mathematics are based), to say nothing of the impossibility of making a vital bond between the steel and wet concrete, that must be at all times preserved.

D. The working pressure on the concrete (750 lbs. per sq. inch), adopted to save material and weight, is excessive for such a work, particularly in view of the comparatively slow and piecemeal manner in which it would have to be placed, coupled with the uncertain resulting value in such great masses of concrete that have to be worked in and around such a network of steel.

E. The question of cost is of no moment with the Art Commission which has to pass on the design, as long as its aesthetic taste is satisfied, but it is interesting to know that the "estimated" cost of this arch with its approaches is $3,800,000, a cost not developed out of reasonably studied detailed drawings, but "judged" from a general layout—a figure with which well developed working drawings would play havoc.

In view of the above considerations, it would appear that the proposed concrete arch is a visionary proposition, and worse than a mistake for the City of New York seriously to consider. The taxpayers should loudly protest. The lamentable failure of the huge Quebec Bridge is a sad calamitous warning against too great a confidence in figures, unbacked by a sound judgment. It is all very well to reason from small work. Numerous reinforced concrete arches have been built over the land and in other countries. But in making one jump from extreme existing experience to such a vast scale as that on which the arch under review is planned, entirely new considerations arise of a practical nature that vitiate all conclusions of mere mathematical theory.

Fireproofing in the New Code.—II.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I beg to call the attention of the readers of your paper to the proposed new building code now before the Board of Aldermen. This code has been rushed before the Aldermen without consulting the interests of real estate and property owners, whom it most vitally affects.

If this code becomes a law as printed in the City Record of Dec. 6, 1907, all real estate values on which fireproof buildings are hereafter erected will have to undergo readjustment. The steel and fireproof construction in such buildings will cost about 50% more than at present.

In section 31, all buildings are classified, and in sections 112 and 113 the fireproof construction for each class is specifically stated. All important buildings would have only one kind of arches in floors, i. e., segmental arches. The specification on concrete segmental arches is so unusual as to reinforcements, furrings around beams and girders, etc., that the construction would be limited to the hollow tile construction. All level ceilings could be had only by means of metal lath supported ceilings, the details of which would limit this construction to one contractor. In the second class buildings (see section 113) the specifications for concrete have the same objections as in first-class construction: the only floors here permissible would be flat hollow clay blocks.

In section 111 steel beams are limited in spacing to 5 ft. centres on all first-class buildings. With the heavier and more expensive arch; with the steel beams limited in spacing; with the extra cost of a metal lath ceiling; with the scratch coat of plaster; and with the monopoly which would probably be created, readers can draw their own conclusions as to the probable costs of fireproof buildings.

If good constructions, which stand approved after severe testing, and which have been used as standard constructions in more than 50% of the fireproof buildings in New York City for the last two years, are to be discontinued, your readers should have a chance to ask why.

If this code is to become law as published, section 117 relating to reinforced concrete structures should be eliminated because all buildings have been classified and the construction for each class has been specified in previous sections.

Also the absurdity in section 115 referring to tests to compare with some standard, not yet known, should be cut out, to save the cost of printing, as everything has been provided for in previous sections and there would be nothing left for such tested construction.

These are a few of the many things your readers should be interested in which are contained in the code as published in the City Record referred to. Very truly,

GUY V. WAITE.

A Protest From the Concrete Industry.

President H. C. Turner, of the Turner Construction Co., has sent the following letter to President McGowan, of the Board of Aldermen in protest against the adoption of the report of the Committee on Buildings containing the revised building code:

Dear Sir: We have made a careful examination of the proposed building code reported to the Board of Aldermen on Dec. 2, and beg to state that should this code be approved great hardship and injustice would result to the concrete industry. We beg to call your attention to the following portions of the code:

Section 112, first class construction, requires structural steel framework with steel floor beams spaced not farther apart than 5 ft. on centres.

Section 113, second class construction, requires structural steel framework with steel beams spaced not farther apart than 8 ft. on centres.

Section 117, reinforced concrete construction is classed as second class construction. That is, it is to be assumed from this section that reinforced concrete buildings could be constructed in all cases where the code specifies second class construction. This section also contains the following: "No reinforced concrete construction shall be carried on during freezing weather." This prohibition would prohibit all concrete construction between about December 1 and March 1. It is well known that reinforced concrete work can be carried on with perfect safety and with entirely satisfactory results during the

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Mr. Babbage Urges Time for Consideration.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide.

I write to call your attention to the proposed Building Code which was submitted to the Board of Aldermen on December 2d, the consideration of which was postponed for two weeks. The provisions of this Code are of great interest and importance to owners of real estate throughout the city. It is very important, however, in my opinion, that the Code receive careful attention before its adoption, so that such criticisms as may be proper may be presented.

In preparing a document of this kind, there must necessarily creep into it provisions which do not contemplate all the emergencies of building or the circumstances relating to the improvement of certain parcels. The most important provisions of this Code, so far as real estate values are concerned, are contained in the provisions in relation to LIGHT AND VENTILATION, HEIGHT and AREA and the general provisions in relation to STAIR-CASES.

The provisions in relation to COURT-YARDS and in relation to height and area should be considered together. Their tendency is to increase the value of property on which high buildings have already been erected and to largely diminish the value of properties which have not as yet been improved.

Any person or corporation owning a plot of vacant ground or owning a plot occupied by buildings which are merely maintained for the purpose of paying taxes or carrying charges until some permanent improvement can be arranged for, WILL SUFFER GREATLY BY THE RESTRICTIONS IMPOSED BY THIS CODE.

I write this letter so as to suggest to you the importance of a free discussion of the provisions of this Code in your columns.

Yours truly,

R. G. BABBAGE,

(Vice-President of the U. S. Realty & Improvement Co.)

LIGHT AND VENTILATION.

The intended new requirements under the head of "light and ventilation," which is one of the important divisions pointed out by Mr. Babbage, are contained in Sections 33 and 34 of Part VI. The first of these two sections deals with residence buildings, and reads, in full, as follows:

Sec. 33. Light and Ventilation of Residence Buildings, Class "C."—The provisions of this section shall apply to all residence buildings, except tenement houses and lodging houses.

Behind every such building hereafter erected there shall be a yard, extending across the entire width of the lot, at every point open from the ground to the sky unobstructed, except that when there are no sleeping rooms in the first story or basement, the yard may start at the level of the second story floor beams.

Except upon a corner lot, the depth of said yard measured from the extreme rear wall of the building to the rear line of the lot shall be not less than 10 ft. in every part, for buildings 60 ft. or less in height; and in the case of buildings over 60 ft. in height, said yard shall be increased in depth 6 ins. for every additional 12 ft. of height or fraction thereof above 60 ft.

In the case of such buildings hereafter erected upon corner lots, no yard shall be required behind the buildings, if a duct, open to the air, be provided not less than 10 ft. in width by 20 ft. in height from either street to the open yard, at the rear of the adjoining building, the bottom of said duct to be within 20 ft. of the grade line. Provided, however, that this exemption shall not apply for a distance of more than 50 ft. across the rear of the lot, measured from the street line.

Whenever any such building hereafter erected is upon a lot which runs through from one street to another street, a yard shall be provided the full width of the lot, midway between the streets and of the depth and height as in this section provided for interior lots, except that when said lot is less than 70 ft. in depth a yard need not be provided.

If any building is hereafter placed on the same lot with a residence building there shall always be maintained between the said buildings an open unoccupied space—across the entire width of the lot, extending from the ground upward to the sky, of a depth equal to twice that required for the yard of a residence building of the height of the highest of the buildings; except that when there are no sleeping rooms in the first story or basement, the open space may start at the level of the second story floor beams.

No such building shall be hereafter enlarged or its lot be diminished, so that the yard shall be less in depth than is prescribed for buildings hereafter erected.

No court used for the lighting or ventilation of a sleeping room in any building hereafter erected shall be less than five ft. in any dimension; and for every additional 12 ft. of height or fraction thereof, above 60 ft., there shall be an increase of 6 ins. in such dimension.

No such court of any building hereafter erected shall be covered by a roof or skylight, but shall be at every point open and unobstructed to the sky.

No offset from any court shall be used for lighting or ventilating a sleeping room, unless such offset is at least 4 ft. wide and its depth does not exceed its width.

For the purposes of this section the measurements of a court shall be taken at the ground level, except that where such building is partly used for other than residence purposes, they may be taken at the level of the floor beams of the lowest story used for or containing any sleeping rooms.

No such building shall be hereafter altered or enlarged, or its lot be diminished, so that any court shall be of less dimension than herein specified for buildings hereafter erected.

No court to be used for lighting or ventilation of any sleeping room shall hereafter be placed in any building unless such court conforms to the requirements herein specified for courts of buildings hereafter erected.

In any building hereafter erected every sleeping room shall be provided with a window or windows opening directly upon a street, yard or court. Each such window shall be not less than 12 square ft. in area between stop beads, and shall be so arranged that it can be opened to the extent of at least one-half its area. Such sleeping room shall be in every part not less than 8 ft. high from the finished floor to the finished ceiling. Such sleeping room shall be not less than 7 ft. wide for one-half its length and shall contain not less than 600 cu. ft. of space.

No sleeping room that does not conform to these requirements shall hereafter be placed in any building.

No sleeping room shall be hereafter placed in any cellar the ceiling of which is less than 2 ft. above the curb.

MERCANTILE BUILDINGS.

Light and ventilation of mercantile and special hazard buildings are treated in Section 34. The provisions of this section also apply to such Public Buildings and Special Structures, Classes "A" and "F," as the Superintendent of Buildings may deem necessary:

Behind every such building hereafter erected, unless in this section otherwise provided, there shall be a yard extending across the entire width of the lot, at every point open to the sky.

The depth of said yard, measured from the extreme rear wall of the building to the rear line of the lot, shall be not less than 10 ft. in every part for buildings 60 ft. or less in height; and in buildings over 60 ft. in height said yard shall be increased in depth 6 ins. for every additional 24 ft. of height, or fraction thereof, above 60 ft.

When any such building is located on a lot which runs through from one street to another street, the said yard shall be provided midway between the streets, across the entire width of the lot, but the floor levels on each street may be connected by no more than two open fireproof bridges, not more than 10 ft. wide.

When any such building is located on a corner lot, no yard need be provided behind the building if a duct, open to the air, be provided not less than 10 ft. in width by 20 ft. in height, from either street to the open yard at the rear of the adjoining building, the bottom of said duct to be within 20 ft. of the grade line. Provided, however, that this provision shall not apply for a distance of more than 50 ft. across the rear of the lot measured from the street line.

No court shall be less than 10 ft. in any dimension, and for every additional 24 ft. in height, or fraction thereof, above 60 ft., there shall be an increase of 3 ins. in such dimension.

No such court shall be covered by a roof or skylight, but shall be at every point open to the sky.

For the purposes of this section, the measurements for yards or courts may be taken at the level of the second story floor beams, but never more than 20 ft. above the curb.

No such building shall hereafter be altered or enlarged or its lot be diminished so that the yard or any court shall be less in depth or dimension than herein specified for buildings hereafter erected.

LIMITS OF HEIGHT.

The limitations on the height of buildings are given in the following section:

Sec. 35. Every building hereafter erected or altered of Classes A, B and C, except herein otherwise provided, shall be constructed fireproof in accordance with sections 110, 111, 113 and 114 of this Code. Every building used as a hotel or lodging house, the height of which exceeds 36 ft. 6 ins., and every building used as a lodge room, ball room, concert hall, amusement hall, without stage and having a seating capacity of not more than 300 persons, the height of which exceeds 36 ft. 6 ins., and every building of Classes D, E and F, except as herein otherwise provided, the height of which exceeds 60 ft., shall be constructed fireproof in accordance with sections 110, 111, 112, 113 and 114 of this Code. Every building to be occupied as a garage, light and power station and smoke house, shall be constructed fireproof in accordance with sections 110, 111, 112 and 114 of this Code. Every building to be occupied as a church, Sunday school room, chapel, synagogue, or for other religious purposes, may be of ordinary construction, provided the entire first floor is built fireproof in accordance with section 113 of this Code, but the height shall not exceed 60 ft. Spires shall be of fireproof material and shall not exceed 90 ft. in height.

Every building occupied as a dwelling or boarding house hereafter erected or altered, which is more than 40 ft. in height and not exceeding 75 ft. in height, may be of ordinary construction but shall have the first floor above the cellar or lower story constructed fireproof in accordance with section 113 of this Code, and every such building the height of which exceeds 75 ft. shall be constructed fireproof in accordance with section 110, 111, 113 and 114 of this Code.

Every tenement and apartment house hereafter erected or altered shall conform to the rquirements prescribed by the Tenement House Act.

The height of fireproof buildings—except such buildings as are occupied for office or hotel purposes—shall not exceed 100 ft., unless such buildings are of first-class construction in accordance with section 112 of this Code and are provided with a standard equipment of automatic sprinklers, in which case the height shall not exceed 150 ft., except in case of churches, where sprinklers will not be required.

Fireproof buildings to be occupied for office or hotel purposes over 100 ft. in height shall be of first-class construction in accordance with section 112 of this Code, except that floors and roofs may be of second-class construction, but the height of such buildings shall not exceed 200 ft. except in case the building shall have such offsets, yards or courts in excess of those required under section 34 of this Code that the cubage of the building measured above the mean street grade level shall not exceed 174 times the area of the lot.

All buildings of mill construction shall not exceed 85 ft. in height. The height of buildings with either walls, columns or girders constructed of reinforced concrete shall not exceed 85 ft.

Buildings to be occupied for fair and exhibition purposes, towers for observation purposes, sheds on piers, coal pockets, grain elevators, church spires and ice houses, and all other structures used for similar purposes, whether temporary or permanent, shall be constructed in such manner and under such conditions as the Superintendent of Buildings may prescribe, it being understood that the true intent and full purpose of this section and sections 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28 shall be strictly adhered to.

Frame sheds may be built within the fire limits when not exceeding 15 ft. in height, open on at least one side with the roof and sides thereof covered with metal or other approved incombustible material, but a fence shall not be used as a back or side thereof.

Frame outhouses may be built within the fire limits when not exceeding 8 ft. in height, but the roofs thereof shall be covered with metal or other approved incombustible material.

Frame buildings located outside of the fire limits may be erected, but the height shall not exceed 40 ft., except as provided in section 144, and the roof of every building hereafter erected outside of the fire limits shall be of metal, slate or other approved incombustible material.

A Protest from the Concrete Industry.

winter months. No such restriction obtains to-day in New York City or in any other city in this country.

Section 31, classification of buildings, Class E. "Special hazard buildings shall be construed to mean and include all mercantile buildings which are used for the manufacture, storage or sale of inflammable products, goods or materials; that is to say, materials that will readily ignite by application of a flame, or in which heavy machinery is used. Factories, workshops, lofts, printing houses, stores, warehouses, slaughter houses, rendering plants, light and power stations, smoke houses and garages shall be included in this class." This classification is not clear—but from the specification of the character of buildings to be included in this class, it is to be assumed that factories, workshops, lofts, printing houses, warehouses, etc., must conform to class "E" construction.

Section 111 states ALL BUILDINGS REQUIRED TO BE OF FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION UNDER THIS CODE, IN CLASS "E," SHALL BE OF FIRST CLASS CONSTRUCTION. In other words, reinforced concrete, if classed as second class construction, would not be permitted for use in class "E" buildings. The great demand for reinforced concrete construction comes from owners of property desiring to erect factories, warehouses, printing houses, garages and similar buildings. As evidences of this we may mention the following buildings which have been erected during the last few years in New York City of reinforced concrete construction:

McGraw Building, New York.
Eastman Kodak Co. Building, New York.
Rogers & Pyatt Building, New York.
McNulty Building, New York.
Bowling Green Storage Co. Building, New York.
The Monolith, New York.
Packard Garage, New York.
Automobile Club of America Garage, New York.
Robert Gair Building, Brooklyn.
Bush Co.'s model factories, Brooklyn.
Mason Building, Brooklyn.
Graves Building, Brooklyn.
Eagle Warehouse & Storage Addition, Brooklyn.
McClure Publishing Co. Building, L. I. City.

Section 35, height of buildings. This section limits the height of second class construction to 100 ft., but makes a further limitation on reinforced concrete as follows: The height of buildings with either walls, columns or girders constructed of reinforced concrete shall not exceed 85 ft. This limitation would prevent the erection of all such buildings as the above mentioned buildings—nearly all of which are in excess of six stories. The only conclusion which can be drawn by the reinforced concrete industry is that the purpose of the above recited portions of the code is to restrict, if not prohibit, the use of reinforced concrete construction. We maintain that the present regulations are the outgrowth of careful investigation and tests made by the superintendent of buildings, and that all buildings which are now being erected of reinforced concrete in Greater New York are of excellent construction, embodying strength, durability and fire resistance, and at the same time possessing such advantages of economy as to induce manufacturers to erect fireproof buildings of reinforced concrete which would otherwise be erected of timber construction. Anyone who has made an examination of the Robert Gair Co. Building, covering an entire city block in Brooklyn, nine stories in height, used for the purpose of printing, lithographing and embossing, as well as storage, must advocate the construction of similar buildings in Greater New York. Their prohibition would be a great injustice to the owners of property who desire to erect manufacturing plants in Greater New York, as well as bringing a heavy loss upon the concrete industry having its money invested in such operations. We do not believe it the intention of the city to prohibit such construction, and the clauses above recited are probably the result of insufficient consideration of this question. There are many other portions of the code open to serious criticism, and we respectfully request that the Board of Aldermen will have the proposed code sent back to the building committee of the Board of Aldermen with instructions to grant public hearings. Yours very truly,

H. C. TURNER, President.

Exhibition of the Concrete Association.

An educational exhibit of Portland cement concrete was informally opened on Wednesday afternoon on the eleventh floor of the Brunswick Building, 5th av and 26th st. More than a hundred architects, engineers and concrete contractors visited the exhibition, which is under the auspices of the Concrete Association of America, on Wednesday, and many were surprised at the artistic uses to which concrete is put by skilled workmen trained to standardized modern methods of construction.

It is the intention of the association, formed by those desirous of encouraging and developing the intelligent and scientific use of concrete, to make the exhibit permanent, to which from time to time will be added other interesting concrete manufactures.

The ultimate object of the promoters is to interest the investing public, directly or through the architects, to the great possibilities which reinforced concrete brings into all classes of building construction. While the art is still in its infancy, great strides ahead were made during the past year. Those who are laboring in the prolific concrete field say that what is already accomplished is insignificant compared to what the future will develop now that the basic principles are thoroughly understood.

The work of educating the investing public is the practicability of adopting the various products of concrete reinforcements and of materials which are closely allied with the concrete and fireproof building industries, although an undertaking of large proportions, will no doubt prove a light task, judging by the concerted efforts of the allied members to boom all branches of the industry regardless of competition. Self is not in evidence at the exhibition. At times you can hear an enthusiastic concrete man discourse on the beauties of a certain exhibit, praising it unstintedly, you learn later that the exhibit is that of the declaimer's nearest competitor. A warm, though friendly, rivalry exists nevertheless, and it is rumored that some of the exhibitors are not yet showing their finest products, wishing to first feel out their competitors.

What is shown to-day is marvelous enough for a starter. The novices (and how many are not?) rubbed their eyes at the artistic and finished effects fashioned out of Portland cement. Beautifully rounded columns, with ornate capitals, delicately moulded medallions, faithful in execution and the equal to fine cut-stone work, are small samples of the unlimited possibilities to which good Portland cement can be decoratively adapted.

One of the elaborate exhibits and the first which greets your eye is that of Tucker & Vinton, who make a specialty of the unit system of reinforcement. Their exhibit shows the architectural possibilities which can be attained in the construction of standard columns and capitals, also fancy mouldings and color schemes in tile work. The detail of their column construction is especially interesting.

The Turner Construction Company has a striking exhibit in the model of a typical building, constructed of reinforced concrete, handsome in appearance, simple in detail and economical in construction. A view from the top shows the method of laying the reinforcement. This miniature is lighted by electricity, giving an unobstructed view of the several floors.

A full-sized 35-foot reinforced concrete girder, which impresses one with great carrying powers, is the substantial exhibit of the Webber Construction Company.

The Expanded Metal Engineering Company shows various types of floor arches and the several applications to which expanded metal reinforcing may be put.

The J. F. Blanchard Company's exhibit consists of metal covered woodwork of all kinds, including especially doors and window casings.

By a series of photographic views the American Concrete Steel Company of Newark, N. J., shows its style of work in various stages of construction. The same method is used by the Expanded Metal and Corrugated Bar Company. A large screen of photographic plates show a multitude of structures in which corrugated reinforcing bars are used. M. L. Freeman, manufacturer of the "Infusal" fireproof blocks for partitions, dampproof wall furring and dry rooms, makes a comprehensive exhibition of his method of installing completely insulated cold storage plants.

The General Fireproofing Company, of Youngstown, O., shows a fair-sized booth built up of the several kinds of metal materials which they manufacture for reinforcing concrete, including its "Reliance" studding, "Herringbone" and "Bostwick" metal laths. The roof of the booth is of concrete slabs reinforced with trussed metal. Their well-known knobbed bar reinforcing in various sizes are made use of to form the rail at the entrance to this novel booth.

Five Portland cement manufacturing companies have or will have shortly elaborate exhibits, some of which will cost hundreds of dollars. The Vulcanite Portland Cement Company have well started their display. The others are the Alsen, the Alpha, the Pennsylvania and the Whitehall Portland Cement companies.

Displays are also made by Toch Brothers, cement filler and cement floor paint; Voigtmann & Co., metal windows of all kinds for all uses; Automatic Door and Gate Company, automatic elevator gates and fire doors; Asbestos Shingle Slate and Sheathing Company, who make a very complete display of their new fireproof material; Clinton Wire Cloth Company, metal lathing for floors; John W. Rapp, metal-covered woodwork, and the American Machinery Company's exhibit of "Keepsdry" skylight construction.

Those who are interested in concrete or fireproof building construction are invited to visit the exhibition. The secretary is in constant attendance, and from him visitors are assured cordial treatment.

The officers of the concrete Association are: Ross F. Tucker, president; H. C. Turner, vice-president; Merrill Watson, second vice-president; John T. Simpson, third vice-president; Ronald Taylor, treasurer; T. G. Barr, secretary, and R. C. Davison, assistant secretary.

Bids Opened.

Bids were received at the office of the Isthmian Canal Commission, Washington, D. C., for furnishing 30,000 cypress ties, 7x9 ins. x 8½ ft. Wm. P. Cook & Co., 100 Wall st, Manhattan, $24,000 (low bid). Other bidders were: Johnson & Winsatt, Washington; L. J. Merriman, Wilmington, N. C.; American Ice & Timber Co., 11 Broadway, New York; G. S. Baxter & Co., 17 William st, New York; G. Elias & Bro., Buffalo, N. Y.

Bids were opened by the city of Atlanta on November 25th for one 20,000,000-gallon vertical triple expansion crank and fly wheel pumping engine with a guaranteed duty of not less than 170,000,000 foot pounds per 1,000 pounds of dry steam. The following bids were tendered: Allis-Chalmers Co., 60-in. stroke, $134,700; Allis-Chalmers Co., 66-in. stroke, $149,300; Bethlehem Steel Co., 66-in. stroke, $132,000; Camden Iron Works (R. D. The following companies also bid upon centrifugal pumps driven by steam turbines: Bethlehem Steel Co., $68,000; General Electric Co., $56,900; D'Olier, $39,500; Allis-Chalmers Co., $43,700. The contract has been awarded to Wisconsin Engine Co. for the vertical triple expansion pump. The centrifugal pump units were not considered, not only on account of the low duty guaranteed, but because of the unfavorable reports received from users of not only centrifugal pumps in municipal water works service, but from users of steam turbines. Neither the steam nor the water end of these units was deemed of sufficient reliability and durability to warrant the purchase of such a unit.

Building Operations for November.

According to expectations, building operations during the past month have suffered a considerable decrease, as compared with November, 1906. Official reports from forty-seven cities throughout the country, received by "The American Contractor," show a loss in the aggregate of 29 per cent. Fifteen cities scored a gain from 1 to 95 per cent., while thirty-two show a loss from 10 to 68 per cent. Building construction is generally considered the most sensitive of all financial undertakings, hence this decline may be taken as the most serious retrenchment in any industrial line. Plans in great numbers are ready and waiting for a subsidence of the financial "flurry," when it is confidently expected that building will assume its normal course. Among the cities that scored an increase are: Birmingham, 9 per cent.; Buffalo, 50; Cleveland, 8; Cincinnati, 32; Detroit, 95; Milwaukee, 29; Minneapolis, 12; Mobile, 31; Omaha, 10; St. Paul, 16; Scranton, 38; South Bend, 18. The principal losers were: Chicago, 52; Duluth, 58; Evansville, 81; Harrisburg, 64; Hartford, 65; Indianapolis, 62; Louisville, 65; St. Louis, 66; Trenton, 58, and Washington, 68.

Better Than Wall Street.

No time like the present for the investment buyer. Western Union Telegraph stock, a 5 per cent. dividend payer, at the present price of 60½ returns 8.27 per cent. on the money.—N. Y. Herald.

On May 16, 1907, we sold a six-family frame tenement in the Bronx on the installment plan. The buyer was to pay $50 per month until the price was paid over the first mortgage. November 30, 1907, makes about seven months he has owned the property.

Taylor, of Callao, Peru, reports that the municipality of Callao has negotiated a loan through the Banco del Peru y Londras in London, England, for the sum of $608,312 at a discount of 20 per cent. and 2½ per cent. commission, at 6 per cent. per annum, the debt to be liquidated in 25 years at the rate of 2 per cent. annually. The net sum which the municipality will receive is $471,442.19. The proceeds are to be employed in establishing water mains, sewerage system, and for general sanitation purposes. The sewerage system is well under way, and when completed as planned it will be well-nigh perfect. It is being constructed by London contractors.

No. 1684. Light material for fireproof partitions.—One of the American consuls in the British Isles forwards an inquiry from a business man there who desires to know if there is any material shipped from the United States which is as light as pumice stone and in crushed form. This material is desired for use in the manufacture of fireproof partitions, and must be cheap in order to compete with the materials used there, such as coke breeze, clinkers, etc. The consul states that he is not informed of the nature of this material, but he infers that it is some form of crushed lava rock.

No. 1685. Panama Canal supplies.—The Isthmian Canal Commission, Washington, D. C., will receive bids until Dec. 21 for the supply of 4 steel dump barges. (Circular No. 404.)

No. 1688. Metal goods.—An American consular officer in a European city furnishes a list of dealers in all kinds of metal goods, such as sheet iron, tubes, bolts, rivets, implements, shelf hardware, axles, ship's hardware, and all classes of iron and steel, etc. The consul states that these firms are in the market for such goods, and advises that offers be made to them.

No. 1692. Panama Canal supplies.—The Isthmian Canal Commission, Washington, D. C., will receive proposals until Dec. 23, for the supply of electrical material, consisting of cable, wire, flexible conduit, wire attachments, switches, push buttons, shade holders, annunciators, bells, lamp shades, electroliers, incandescent globes, dry cells, wire grips, bit braces, blow torches, fire pots, miter boxes, solder, insulating compound, red fiber, tape, screws, staples, rubber gloves, lineman's belts, etc. (Circular No. 405.)

No. 1693. Representation in South Africa.—Consul Edwin S. Cunningham, of Durban, Natal, reports that an American there, 32 years of age, with eleven years' experience as traveling salesman in Australia and South Africa, being five years with the present firm, having canvassed all the British colonies in South Africa, desires to make a change, and would like to correspond with an American export house desiring a manager for a branch house or to engage a general sales agent in South Africa.

No. 1695. Builders' hardware, stoves, etc.—An American consul in the Orient writes that foreign styles in building the exteriors and very often the interiors of houses have been largely adopted. He states that there is, therefore, a growing market for foreign builders' hardware, hinges, bolts, locks, latches, etc. He further states that corrugated iron is widely used there for roofing and for making temporary buildings. Good and inexpensive stoves should also sell well, and kerosene oil stoves, if properly introduced, would find a ready sale on account of their convenience. A list of hardware dealers at the place in question is furnished, and the consul says that much can be done with catalogues and price lists in this region, as the number of persons who can read English is large.

No. 1723. Street Railway Material.—An American consul in the Orient advises that one of the railroad companies there is considering the project of an electric street railway in one of the cities of the region in question. He suggests that it would be well for American manufacturers of and dealers in street railway material and supplies to communicate with the company referred to.

No. 1724. Paints.—One of the largest paint importers in a Mediterranean city states to the American consul there that he would be willing to import paints from the United States, provided that qualities and prices were on a level with those of European brands. ## The Week.

There was a falling off in the volume of private sales put through during the week just past, though there were several worthy of notice. One of the features of the week was a large trade of three houses on Claremont av, Nos. 182, 184 and 186, 5-sty. apartment houses for a 7-sty. apartment on the northeast cor. of 118th st and Amsterdam av, which occupies 75x110. There were the usual number of small flat and dwelling houses changed hands, but none of them was really out of the ordinary. The Dyckman tract came in for a good transfer when Mrs. Mary T. Donovan acquired three lots on Broadway, 50 ft. north of Dyckman st. She is the owner of the adjoining 50 ft. and now has a total of 125x110. There were several sales and trades in the Bronx, but nothing worthy of more than passing notice. All in all it was not a week that will be remembered with anything but regret on the part of the brokerage concerns.

There is a decided feeling among the prominent houses that things will look more cheerful after the first of the year. At the present moment conditions are slightly changed from what they were a month ago. At that time people who had their money in the banks and trust companies were in a mad rush to withdraw their deposits. Today there is a much better feeling in this respect and confidence is in a measure restored and people are looking around to find a place to invest their hoarded money. Considerable money has been placed on mortgage. As yet only the high priced real estate has been accommodated. It will only be a question of a comparatively short time when this class of loans will have been entirely taken up, and then the money will have to be split into smaller amounts. It certainly is the time to invest in the mortgage market. Before long, when the rates of interest will have dropped, there will be many regrets from people who neglected to grasp this opportunity.

The mortgage market has showed some falling off this week in the total number recorded. This is in part accounted for by the fact that last week's figures as printed in the Record and Guide took in the last of November and the first part of December. Around the first of every month the mortgages as a general rule run a little heavier, and so the present falling off is in part expected. There were, however, several recorded during the week just past which are worthy of notice. The Republic of Panama placed $50,000 for three years, at 5% on the dwelling 14 West 72d st. Considering the fact that nearly all the loans for considerable amounts bear 6% interest, the rate in this particular case being placed at 5%, calls for special notice. Daniel A. Loring received $150,000 on 1270 to 1280 Broadway, which is on the southeast cor. of 33d st. This mortgage runs for 2 yrs. and bears 6% interest. The New York Trust Co. loaned the Mayfield Construction Co., on 13 to 19 East 10th st, 94.9x73.3x 27.7xirreg., $173,000 for 5 years, at 5%. Gilbert E. Jones received from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. on 222 Madison av, $90,000 for 3 yrs. at 6%, due Dec. 10, 1910. This property is 25x95, and is on Murray Hill. Jefferson M. Levy gave a mortgage of $165,000 to William B. Bacon et al., trustee for Agustus Hemenway on 114 and 116 Fulton st, 82xirreg., due and rate as per bond.

There were fewer leases made this week, though there are several important ones under way. A large building downtown is going to be remodeled as soon as the lease is signed, and when it is announced it will probably be one of the most important recorded for some time past. Those who make a specialty of this side of the real estate field look for a good period prior to February 1st, when many of the business leases run out.

Taking all things together there will be a mighty sigh of relief when the brokers can tear the last day off the 1907 calendar and look ahead to the promises of the New Year rather than look back on the disappointments of the one just ended.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week is 120 against 201 last week, and in the Bronx 51 as against 138 last week. The total amount involved is $2,321,599 as against $4,751,146 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 31, of which 8 were below 59th st, 15 above and 8 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The market this week offered some very good pieces of property. At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Wednesday was offered some Bronx lots which were put up last week at an upset price of $14,400. A number of these properties brought better prices than those offered at last week's sale and they brought about enough to satisfy the incumbrances. This was only so in the case where 60% was allowed to remain on mortgage at 5½% for one or two years. Those lots that were all cash transactions went to the plaintiff as they attracted no outside buying. The next most important sale of the week occurred on Thursday when Mr. Day put up several parcels at voluntary sale. The northwest corner of Lexington av and 23d st was bid in at $200,000. This property was formerly owned by the American Ice Co. and they sold it to the Matlock Realty Co., who in turn transferred it to Arthur R. Parsons and Ralph M. Holzman. Nos. 103 to 109 Lenox av was sold to Sigmund Wechsler for a client for $276,000. This is a 6-sty elevator apartment with stores, and known as the "Stratford." It occupies 100.11x100. On West 125th st Nos. 151 and 153 went to Charles D. Hilson for $179,000. This is a 3-sty structure known as the "Hawthorne" Building, 50x 99.11. The southeast corner of 123d st and Lexington av, 35x 100.11, a 5-sty flat with stores went to Sigmund Wechsler for a client for $81,000. Dr. John J. Sweeney, who is the present occupant of 318 West 23d st, purchased that property for $23,-050. This is a 4-sty stone dwelling, 21.10x98.9, and was sold in partition. Nos. 304 to 310 West 150th st, two 6-sty flats, was adjourned to January 14. On the north side of 138th st, 275 east of Lenox av, 75x99.11, went to the plaintiff for $20,000. The amount due on this parcel was $24,098.37, besides taxes, etc., which added something like $666.93 to that total.

The net results of the week are about what was anticipated. There are few people unreasonable enough to expect wonders at a time like this. As long as sales are not a flat failure people should be content. Many people who ordinarily would purchase in the auction mart hesitate to do so at the present time, fearing that they will have difficulty in placing a mortgage on the property, and then they are in many cases satisfied to place their money directly on mortgage where they can get large interest returns. Undoubtedly the auction sales will be comparatively few until after the holidays when (according to that class of men who make this feature of real estate a specialty) things will probably become more active and prices obtained more satisfactory.

Stocks vs. Real Estate.

"Big Four" at about 110, the highest price at which it sold this year, returned as a 4 per cent. stock the low rate of 3.6 per cent. on the investment. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis ("Big Four") is a railway essential to the New York Central lines. Paying 4 per cent., at the low price of 54⅞ it returns 7.28 per cent. on the investment.—New York Herald.

Those who invested in "Big Four" stock at 110 can sell it now for only half what they paid for it. Maybe it will come back, and maybe it won't.

But real estate in central sections of New York steadily increases in value. An instance: In the year 1901 a lot on Eighth avenue, 25x100, with an old building on it, was bought at auction for $42,500. A few months ago the same property sold for $80,000. It paid annually a good interest on the investment, over and above the carrying charges, and finally a profit of 90 per cent. on the purchase price.

Mr. Sands on the Mortgage Money Situation

In speaking of the condition of the mortgage money situation Mr. B. Aymar Sands said:

"While mortgage money has been very scarce and the rates of interest high during the past year, and particularly during the last three months, I am of the opinion that within a short time after the opening of the new year these rates will materially decrease, and money seeking investment in this form of security will become much more plentiful.

"Prior to the beginning of the present panic," continued Mr. Sands, "the rate of interest on mortgages had been high, on account of the great industrial activity not only of this country but of the commercial and manufacturing world. There was not sufficient money, either in currency or on credit, to finance this general expansion of trade, and rates of interest in all lines of business were very high. The panic, however, created a new and more aggravated condition of affairs. Frightened depositors withdrew great sums of currency from the banks and trust companies, and compelled these institutions to reduce their lines of credit.

"The alarm spread from the depositors to the banks themselves, and they, in turn, accumulated large amounts of currency, in many cases much in excess of their required reserve. To fill the void so created, $100,000,000 of gold was imported from abroad, the national bank circulation was largely increased, and the United States Treasury made large deposits of its surplus funds in the banks. These conditions have created a great contraction of business and a large reduction of loans; the net result has been a marked inflation of currency and the locking up of the money so added to this circulation in the vaults of the banks and in the pockets of individuals. The tide, I think, has now turned in the opposite direction, and confidence is being restored, so that hoarded money is being returned by the depositors to the banks, and by the banks, in the shape of loans, to the public. Business having been very much contracted, there will be less demand for credits, with the result that the deposits and reserves of the banking institutions will increase rapidly and to an unprecedented amount. Rates of interest will naturally fall, and the rates of interest on mortgages are likely to be correspondingly reduced.

"My views are based," continued Mr. Sands, "very largely upon the opinions of our leading banking authorities in this city, who all concur in thinking that money will be very cheap after the beginning of the year. From the point of view of my own personal experience, I see a little slackening in the interest rate on mortgages, and a more general disposition upon the part of lenders to make investments of this character. The growth of this disposition, for reasons which are generally known, must, however, be gradual, as none of the financial institutions, that is to say, the life insurance companies, the savings banks and the banks and trust companies, are at present in a position to invest money in mortgage securities. The only money now available is that coming from the charitable institutions, the smaller class of investors and the trust estates."

Permanency of Manhattan Realty.

"Just wait for a little time before you buy. Don't be hasty. Things will soon be selling cheaper than they are at present." How many times have brokers heard words to this effect during the past twelve months. Have any bargains (?) been secured? Is property selling any cheaper than it did a year ago when these remarks were made? The answer would probably be "very few, indeed." When stocks went down in 1903 were there not dire predictions affecting the real estate market made? Did prices crumble?

The true state of affairs is that this city and country is growing. It is not decaying. We are only children as yet. This city must be built, rebuilt and built again before even stationary prices such as prevail in London at the present time will be the rule. If one looks carefully over the real estate field, taking almost any section, he can readily see the reason for all this.

Take, for example, a given lot 25x100, for which as vacant property $10,000 is obtained. A builder purchases it and, for argument's sake, we will assume that he has paid every dollar that the lot is worth. The observer will say "That man is going to lose money. He cannot possibly get out alive after paying the full market price." In the course of time the builder erects a private dwelling on this lot which, for the sake of easy figures, costs him $8,000 to build. He sells this lot with the dwelling erected on it for $22,000. The same remarks can be heard from all over the neighborhood that the purchaser has been landed, and when he wants to sell he will have the sympathy of the entire community.

This second owner either lives in his house or rents it. In the course of time things happen. Either it becomes desirable for residential purposes, or business in one form or another creeps in, or it is becoming an apartment house neighborhood.

Should the first of these last-mentioned contingencies arise, he raises the rents of his house, unless he is occupying it himself, and sells it at an advanced figure on an investment basis; or in the second event he does one of two things, sells it to a builder, who will proceed to convert it into a mercantile house of some kind or other or does the converting himself. Or, should it become desirous to erect an apartment house, it probably would be put in for sale with the house next door and sold as plottage, in which form it will almost invariably bring a larger price. So, in one way or another, the property passes into stage number three. When the business building or apartment house is finished, it is of course rented on an entirely different basis, and the value of the lot differs from its first price.

There is not much doubt, but that several sections of the city have had their normal advance and in some instances have discounted future improvements to a certain extent, but after all the profit has been made, by one man or another. The proportionate amount that each of the successive owners received depended entirely on his knowledge as to when to buy and when to let go.

Owing to certain laws that have been passed the "private dwelling step" is gradually being passed over and in the newer sections of the city, such as the Bronx and Washington Heights, builders are erecting apartment and tenement houses on vacant property. The fire laws prohibiting the building of frame dwellings or frame buildings of any kind are in a measure responsible for this state of affairs, and then the laws that are in force at the present time regulating the size of rooms and amount of air-shaft area, etc., that must be given to each house, are having their effect. Where it was possible to build an apartment on a lot, say 25x100, some years ago, to-day it is not considered good policy by builders. Practically the only private dwellings that are being constructed in Manhattan at the present time are those that are being built for men of wealth, for their own use.

People must have a place to live. Whatever else they may deprive themselves of, this item is indispensible. On this point hangs the permanency of Manhattan realty values. Judgment, of course, should be exercised and desirable growing neighborhoods selected when purchasing. It is only reasonable to suppose that localities that have had enormous increases in values will have to remain quiet for a time until prices in other sections have adjusted themselves to the new conditions. It is the steady, normal enhancing of values that tells in the long run, and those who purchased property in any section of the city some years ago will find their property worth more to-day than ever before.

Auction Market Statistics.

A GREAT deal of attention is being given at the present time not only by people in the real estate business, but also by intending purchasers to the auction market. There has been some hesitancy on the part of the investor to purchase at private sale, on the ground that he might be able to pick up something very cheap in the auction mart. The real estate broker on the other hand has been scrutinizing prices brought by various parcels with the view of finding out whether this branch of the business is interfering seriously with his own particular specialty.

There is a great deal to be said on both sides. Of course the present time is not the most favorable one imaginable to dispose of property either at private sale or at auction. In the case of the former the holders of realty have not made serious concessions and the prospective purchasers have held off for a drop in price, which has not as yet come and in the latter case the tightness of the money market has had a decided influence. It has been noticed that where a good sized mortgage is allowed to remain for a reasonable period that good prices have been obtained. On the other hand, when all cash has been required, in several instances, either very low bids or none at all have been received.

A notable instance occurred a couple of weeks ago when eight lots were put up at auction to prevent a foreclosure and the prices brought were so low that the receivers refused to confirm them. They were put up the following week with an upset price of $14,400, but not a single bid was received at that price. When foreclosed they went to the plaintiff who bid them in for about the amount of their liens.

High class property has brought very fair prices considering the condition of the present situation. The Hotel Saranac, which sold during the week ending October 16th for $919,000, was a remarkable example. It showed plainly that there were a number of people who were not afraid to place their money in well located realty. Undoubtedly this valuable parcel would have brought more money in quieter times, but then the price received is understood to be considerably more than was paid for it by the sellers.

During the quarter including July, August and September, which of course is considered the quietest one in the auction market, as they are the summer months, there were a total number of 96 parcels sold. The amount involved was $3,510,048. There were 34 pieces adjourned or withdrawn. Of these sales 48 were below 59th st and they brought $1,016,394. The sales above 59th also numbered 48 and $2,493,654 was received for them. Of those adjourned 10 were below 59th st and 24 above.

The largest sale below this street was 429 to 433 Greenwich st on the northeast corner of Laight st, 125.6x83x irreg. It was a 9-sty loft building with stores. It was a partition sale and was purchased by Edward T. Haywood for a party in interest, for $235,000. Above 59th st the property 620 Lenox av, which included 75 to 79 West 141st st, 99.11x150 three 6-sty brick tenements with stores on the avenue, went to Simon Guisburg for $165,000.

During October and November last 361 pieces of property were offered at auction, 316 of which were sold, and 45 were either adjourned or withdrawn. The total amount received for those knocked down was $7,440,573. The largest amount received for any one property was brought by the Hotel Saranac, as already referred to, $919,000. The following table giving week to week sales will give perhaps an idea of how the market has been acting recently.

| Week of | Amount Received. | No. of Sales. | No. Adjourned. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Oct. 5th | $892,854 | 18 | 2 |
| Oct. 12th | 477,461 | 16 | 1 |
| Oct. 19th | 1,219,519 | 94 | 4 |
| Oct. 26th | 851,092 | 23 | 13 |

| Nov. 16th | 2,346,930 | 13 | 4 |
| Nov. 23d | 644,355 | 77 | 6 |
| Nov. 30th | 303,377 | 6 | 2 |
| Total | $7,440,473 | 316 | 45 |

The total amount realized from property sold at auction from January 1, 1907, to Nov. 30, 1907, is $36,622,478.

For the corresponding period last year, $29,311,349, making a difference of $7,311,129 in favor of this year's total.

Archibald L. Hamilton filed a mechanic's lien for $2,435 against the Hamilton Bank as lessee on the property 213 and 215 West 125th st, for repairs on the building.

Jacob Leitner, of Westchester and Prospect avs, holds an optimistical view of next year's real estate development. Mr. Leitner sees no threatening clouds on the Bronx horizon, but he says that he notices an increasing number of investors looking around for gilt-edged realty.

William T. La Velle, of 1145 Freeman st, says that the Freeman st section is keeping abreast of the Bronx growth, and still it is difficult to find apartments for all who desire to locate there. As in other sections of the Bronx, building has not stopped and many two and three-family houses are being erected, which will all be rented almost before they are completed.

It is often the case that real estate men in almost adjoining offices will hold opinions in variance to the condition of business in their particular section. The optimist is generally the man who keeps busy, if not scouting for customers, getting his office ready for a rushing business, come when it may. The other fellow looks his part and makes a man with a pocketful of real money feel in sympathy.

Small Broad Street Corner Leased.

On the records last week appears a lease to Edward Balzarini and another of the northwest corner of Broad and Stone sts. This is one of Manhattan's "littlest parcels." It has a history of some interest in lower Manhattan real estate. In 1896 the New York Telephone Company purchased the block front on the west side of Broad st, between Stone and Pearl sts, all except a small parcel on the northwest cor of Stone st. This piece of land is 10.6 on Broad st x 20.6 on the north x 13.10 on the west x 20.3 in Stone st. When overtures of purchase were made to the owner of this land he replied that it was for sale at a figure, but was undetermined just what price would buy it. It is understood that the Telephone Company offered $50,000 for this diminutive lot and the proposition was refused on the ground that the company would "need it." The Telephone building was built and this property was left out. Some time later this same land was sold at public auction for $16,200. Mr. Leonard Weill, the present owner, was the purchaser. The lease just recorded is for 5 years from January 1, 1908, and is at an annual rental of $1,000. There is going to be erected on the plot a two-story building.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

Extension of Sixth and Seventh Avenues.

At a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment held on Nov. 22 in the interest of the extension of Sixth and Seventh avs and the widening of Varick st four plans were presented, known as A, B, C and D.

Plan A represented a petition of property owners of a majority of the assessed valuation of property on Seventh av; also over 500 properties in the old Ninth Ward, including a majority on lower Sixth av.

The petition has the endorsement of the Merchants' Association, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Board of Trade, the Team Owners' Association and the Automobile Club of America, also 34 real estate brokers who have charge of property throughout the district, all being property owners. Besides, a number of large property owners and prominent persons distinguished in the affairs of the city have written personal letters to the Mayor in favor of the movement.

Plan B represents the City Improvement Commission, which practically endorses Plan A, but proposes to continue the extension of Seventh av to Canal st and West st and Sixth av to Chamber st and West st.

Plan C favors the widening of Carmine st on the north side and the extension of Seventh av, as proposed by Plan A.

Plan D, report of the engineer of the Board, proposes to substitute the widening of Carmine st for the extension of Sixth av and the widening of Varick st to Canal st only, both of which is opposed by the property owners, who have presented a strong protest against the report.

Mr. C. C. Hickok, who represents the property owners under Plan A, gave his views before the Board of Estimate on this subject, in part as follows:

"If one stands on 6th av and 4th st and there sees the number of men, women and children, waiting for a downtown car, I think you would agree with me that the extension of 6th av ought to be made, if for no other reason than in the cause of humanity.

"If you ask why the widening of Carmine st will not fill the same mission, the answer is, that under statute laws of the State a street railroad company before changing its motive power is required to obtain the consent of owners of one-half of the assessed valuation of property along the line of the proposed improvement.

"Trinity Corporation, owning a majority of the property in Varick st, from Clarkson to Canal st, has refused this consent to the Metropolitan Company for the reason that their trusteeship did not give them the power to deed away the rights of the corporation without receiving a proper compensation therefrom.

"The Metropolitan had its recourse by going to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and there asking for Commissioners to assess the damages, if any, but this was not done. Instead 6th av traffic was diverted through 3d and 4th sts to West Broadway, an already over-congested thoroughfare.

"Grant the extension of this avenue and the property along the line can be used in connection with that of Varick st not owned by Trinity, to obtain the necessary legal consents for the electrification of the road on this street and thus afford 6th av an opportunity for direct downtown transit, and by bringing the 4th st cars on 6th av to Broome st, close connection will be made with the 7th av lines, thus doing away with this delay at 4th st. A larger demand for up and downtown surface accommodations will be created on the completion of the Pennsylvania improvements, and 7th av offers the only opportunity for increasing the service. Canal st, is should be remembered, is the great downtown central artery between East and West sides. Furthermore, in addition to this traffic, the 8th av cars run on Canal st from Hudson to West Broadway; then there is a Canal st crosstown line, the Grand st and Williamsburgh Bridge line; also the 6th av, South Ferry line, crosses at this junction to West Broadway, making altogether five lines of cars already invading this thoroughfare. By widening Varick to Franklin st the 7th av cars will escape the congestion at West Broadway and thus afford to the travelling public the transit accommodations which they demand and are reasonably entitled to.

"This question of transit on the West Side has become a serious question to the property holder, as well as to the city, as shown by the startling figures and land values given by the engineer in his report, wherein the block from West 14th to 16th sts, where ample connections have been made with the adjoining street system, the assessed value is 79% greater than from West 11th to 12th st and between West 22d and West 23d sts 233% greater. Thus proving, beyond any question of doubt, that accessibility is one of the chief factors to property values.

"All along the Ninth Ward and along 6th and 7th avs, it would have been found that there are many blocks assessed only from one-half to two-thirds and some very much less than the block from 11th to 12th st. This, however, is not surprising when you consider that it is possible to go from City Hall to 72d st (by Subway) quicker than to Varick and Bleecker sts and to 145th st in less time than it is required to go to 14th st and 7th av, 5½ miles shorter distance.

"Such conditions are an injustice to the downtown property owners, who, instead of being a beneficiary in the growth of population and improvements, remains in statu quo. True, 7th av has been promised a subway and the old Board of Rapid Transit got so far as to get a right of way. Such a line will be shorter and easier to build, besides the difference in the cost over the lines laid out properly via Washington sq and West Broadway would amount to three times the cost of widening Varick st from Canal to Franklin sts."

The following is the petition presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment:

Greeting:

Your petitioners citizens, property owners and taxpayers, respectfully represent: that they are unalterably opposed to the widening of Carmine st as a substitute to their petition for the extension of 6th av, to the intersection of Broome and Varick sts; also, the holding back of the widening of Varick st at Canal st.

Respectfully sumbitted,

Signed,

The Subway Balance.

A DEFINITE ANNOUNCEMENT.

While it is assumed that it is the particular duty and business of the Commission to build on all the subway routes that have been legally adopted as speedily as it is possible to make financial arrangements for them, an official utterance definite in respect to time and place would be appropriate at this juncture, seeing that there have been so many disappointments in the past, and that so much is at stake.—Record and Guide, Nov. 23.

Chairman Willcox announced last Saturday that the Commission had decided definitely upon the construction of the so-called tri-borough subway, the north end of which will be in Pelham Bay Park, and the south end on Coney Island.

The general scheme is to build a new subway on the East Side of Manhattan, to connect with the Fourth av line in Brooklyn, by way of the Manhattan Bridge, and so to have a through route from Pelham Bay Park to Coney Island.

Commercial Precedents.

Charles Putzel, from his long and varied commercial-legal experience, has just completed this (his third book) which exceeds his others in importance and value, in that the number of cases discussed is greater and the range of material all new, covering the entire commercial legal field. Mr. Putzel, from his legal and literary training, is eminently well fitted to edit a book of this general and useful character. This book, from its every-day usage of commerce, makes it an essential one of reference for every man in business and applicable to all of the States throughout the Union. It presents the subject matter to the merchant, the banker, the manufacturer, the importer, trustee or man of business in a particularly clear and happy manner.

Mr. Putzel has been in active practice of the law since 1878, and has his office in 299 Broadway, New York City. In 1876 he graduated from the College of the City of New York, and in 1878 from Columbia College Law School. He studied law with Luther R. Marsh (partner of Daniel Webster).

Mr. Putzel identified himself with the subject of public education and for five years was chairman of the School Board of his district and for six years was a trustee of his alma mater, the College of the City of New York. He is a Tax Commissioner for Greater New York, being appointed by Mayor George B. McClellan on January 1st, 1906. In 1881 and in 1887 he edited books on commercial law for the American Publishing Company and the New York Journal of Commerce.

Borough of Queens and the Belmont Tunnel.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide.

Referring to the articles appearing in the public press, following the public hearing on the Belmont tunnel, held before the Public Service Commission, on November 14th, many of which appear to convey the idea that the citizens of Queens Borough were particularly desirous of securing the opening of the Belmont tunnel for traffic purposes, regardless of the charges to be made for service, I beg to advise you that I am mailing you, herewith, a copy of the resolution which was adopted at a meeting held in Jamaica, previous to this public hearing before the Public Service Commission, and am likewise attaching thereto the names of the civic organizations which attended this meeting, showing the names of those voting for the resolution and the one voting against it. You will notice that out of thirty-three organizations voting on the question, thirty-two voted in favor of the resolution.

By a perusal of the resolution, you will readily see that it is far from the feeling of the citizens of Queens that this tunnel be opened except on terms that will be recognized as advantageous to the Borough of Queens. The sentiment is almost universal in the borough, that it would be preferable to the interest of the borough that the tunnel remain closed and inoperative, rather than it be opened on other conditions than those set forth in the resolution adopted.

We are likewise mailing you herewith a copy of a brief, covering the subject, prepared by an attorney employed by these civic organizations, which brief sets forth more in detail than the resolution itself, the reasons for the position taken by the citizens of Queens Borough.

The articles published in the various papers of the city, following this public hearing before the Board, were, in many instances, quite misleading as to the actual sentiments of the Borough of Queens.

I am taking the privilege of mailing you copies of this resolution and other information, so that you may know definitely just what the conditions are as regards the sentiments of the people in Queens Borough. If you should see fit to give any publicity to the matter presented herein, we would feel grateful.

Yours very truly,

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE OF LONG ISLAND.

(By order of the Board of Directors, K. A. Wilson, Assistant Secretary.)

LAW DEPARTMENT

No Lien Law for Brokers.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Following is an interesting point in regard to brokers' commissions, and the right of a broker to withhold a deposit, with the buyer's consent, until the owner or seller gives him some assurance that she will surely pay him his commission before the title passes.

A broker procures a buyer for a tenement, able, willing and ready to buy, on the terms given the broker by the owner. The buyer takes the contract to be signed by herself, to have her attorney look the contract over before she signs it. She delayed taking it to her attorney for about a month. Her attorney draws new contracts and leaves out the fact that the broker is entitled to his commission on the sale. The broker had a postal card from the owner stating that she was willing to sell at the price offered by the buyer.

The broker said that he wanted something in writing to show that the owner would pay him his commission on or before the closing of title. She refused to do so, and the broker did not give her the deposit. She left her lawyer's office without signing her contract, and would not accept the one signed by the buyer. The broker commenced suit for his commission. Before the trial of the case the defending owner or defendant tried several times to settle the matter, on one condition, and that was that the buyer pay for fire escapes that the seller had erected on the premises since the suit was started. The buyer refused. The case came to trial in the Sixth District Municipal Court. The broker and the buyer having given their sworn testimony the Judge ruled that inasmuch as the broker had demanded his commission, or else a letter stating that the seller must pay him his commission before he turned the deposit and the contract signed by the buyer over to the seller, it made his commission a part of the contract, which the seller would not agree to, therefore the broker had not earned his commission.

Has not a broker a right to protect himself where he mistrusts the seller's intentions, and believes that if the title closed without his receiving his commission, and he sued, even though getting a judgment, that the judgment will never be paid? I have always been under the impression, having read decisions many times, that a broker's commission is earned when he gets a buyer able, ready and willing to buy, still ready to buy, and he is authorized by the seller to sell at the price agreed on, and that his brokerage is due at the time of signing the contract, and he does not have to wait until title closes to demand his commission unless mutually agreed upon previous to the signing by the buyer. Is the Judge's point well taken, or is he wrong in dismissing the case before the defendant gives her testimony? Of course, I know that the defendant does not need to testify if her attorney rests his case, and moves for dismissal and it is dismissed by the Judge. Has a broker no right to secure himself against fraud where he suspects it will be practiced?

Your opinion as to the decision and rights of the broker will be appreciated and read by the thousands of real estate men and owners, readers and subscribers to your paper.

Trusting that you will kindly answer this and give your opinion in an early issue of your paper, I remain,

REAL ESTATE BROKER.

Answer.—The Judge's point is well taken. The broker has no lien on the first payment. He can only protect himself as others do by declining to do business with persons whom he cannot trust. He has no lien law to protect him. The commissions are due, of course, when the contract and purchaser are satisfactory to his principal, but we know of no arbitrary right on the part of the broker to deduct them on the spot, though frequently done.

A BANKING QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A deposits with a certain trust company a note for $1,000 payable at an out-of-town bank. This trust company enters the note in A's pass book (for collection). The note is paid at maturity to the trust company's clearing-house agent two days after the trust company and the National Bank that clears for the trust company suspend. The receiver for the trust company refuses to credit this collection in A's pass book, because they have not yet received it. A has no means of reaching the National Bank, as they hold all collections made through them for the trust company against an indebtedness of the trust company to them. What are the legal rights of A?

Answer.—We think that the entry of the note in the pass book for collection is sufficient to make the bank responsible as a trustee to collect. The bank has received the money by a credit and the money becomes the debt of the bank to its depositor and is to be treated by the receiver as all the debts of the bank are treated, the depositor to be paid his debt in full or proportionally as the other debts are paid, and as the assets of the bank in the hands of the receiver will pay.

See also chapter 148, of laws of 1902, making it a felony for an officer, agent, teller or clerk of a bank to receive a deposit, knowing the bank to be insolvent. This chapter is an amendment of Section 601 of the Penal Code. We believe that in respect to the Penal Code a trust company must be considered a bank and its officers, agents, tellers or clerks must be held subject to the same penalties as if acting for a bank.

See also Section 162 of Banking Law (Chapter 689, Laws of 1892) which makes stockholders of a trust company individually responsible equally and rateably for the debts of the trust company to an amount equal to the par value of the stock held by the stockholders.

A Worthless Check.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I received, as payment from a man, his check on the Corn Exchange Bank. I put it through, and it came back marked "N. G." It has been learned that this man has no account at said bank or at any bank. How can I proceed? Is this act punishable by law. If so, to what extent?

Answer.—You can either sue for the money and interest and disbursements, or, if you have parted with money or property, you may proceed criminally against the maker of the check. (See Section 529 of the Penal Code.)

Tax Assessors' Rules.

The Board of Tax Commissioners has made the announcement that in its assessment work "when lots are longer or shorter than 100 ft., the value is to be determined by the Neill or Hofman rule, and the Neill table is to be used to determine the value of a narrow lot of irregular depth when the lot unit of value has been employed."

To Improve Bronx Waterways.

Sixteen representative business men of the Bronx attended the annual National Rivers and Harbors Congress, held in Washington. There are 59 miles of water front in the borough, and the annual value of the commerce of the Harlem River alone is nearly $300,000,000. Twenty-nine years have elapsed since a general plan for the improvement of the Harlem River was decided upon by the engineers of the Federal Government. The plan as agreed to contemplated the expenditure of $2,000,000. Up to the present $1,350,000 has been expended. Work is practically at a standstill on the improvments of the Bronx and Hutchinson Rivers, Pelham Bay and Eastchester and Westchester Creeks.

Payable within 60 days to the Collector of Assessments and Arrears.

Steam Pounding.

One of the chief annoyances with which owners of flat property frequently contend results from pounding or water hammering in the piping system of a steam heating plant caused by traps or depressions in which water of condensation accumulates, through which steam is compelled to force its way. This may be obviated by properly grading all pipes and dripping by means of a small nipple or other connection, all places in the system where traps occur. If when running a branch from a main to a riser the proper fall cannot be given to the branch, it should be dripped by immediate connection into the regular water return.

Mail Delivered to Apartments by Electric Carrier.

A device for the automatic delivery of mail to occupants of apartment houses is now in successful use. It consists of a vertical well, about 18 inches square, containing an elevating and lowering apparatus, which carries up and down a steel tray with small metal boxes. One of the chief features of the apparatus is that it works automatically, making no mistakes. As the postman enters the vestibule he deposits the mail in an automatic carrier, to which he keeps the key. After placing the matter in the proper receptacle he closes the door, which starts the electric carrier. By a simple operation the boxes are dropped off the carrier at the apartments to which they belong, and at the same time the contents are automatically deposited in a locked letter-box inside the apartment.

The carrier proceeds on its upward course until it reaches the top of the building, when it immediately descends, picking up the empty boxes as it passes.

The power necessary to operate the mechanism is slight. The device was recently approved by the Postmaster-General. The shaft mentioned, including the carrier, may be seen in operation at "The Courtenay," on Central Park West, Manhattan.

A Convenient Privilege.

Property owners in the Bronx will be interested to know that arrangements have lately been made by the Central and Northern Union Gas Companies with the American Express Company whereby bills for gas consumed and appliances purchased may be paid at the branch offices of the American Express Company, located throughout that borough. For this convenience a small fee will be exacted by the express company. The new arrangement will not interfere with consumers making payments at the gas company's office or to its regular force of authorized collectors. The convenience of the privilege mentioned will doubtless be appreciated by property owners and others residing in the outlying sections of the Bronx. It will be recalled that the branch agencies of the express company are located generally in drug stores. It is understood that the plan adopted has met with success in Chicago and other large cities. The arrangement went into effect during the week.

Adjacent Property Owners to Bear the Expense.

In spite of the fact that the Local Improvement Board of Morrisania recommended that the whole expense of acquiring title to the triangle made by the junction of Parkside pl and Webster av, from 207th st to a point nearly opposite 209th st, be borne by the city, the Board of Estimate has concluded to assess the whole expense upon property owners adjacent to the property to be taken, chiefly because of the fact that the improvement is said to be of only local value. It will be remembered that in laying out Parkside pl, so as to give 208th st an outlet to Webster av, a narrow ledge of rock was untouched between that thoroughfare and 208th st. The triangle is much too narrow to permit the erection of a building, since its maximum width is only about forty feet. The market value of the parcel will be determined by a commission in condemnation. The assessed value of the strip is $6,700.

Few Voluntary Auctions.

In canvassing the real estate situation in Brooklyn a student of conditions in that borough called attention to the small number of voluntary auction sales which are taking place. In this respect he said that it is perhaps significant that no owners are conducting sales of this nature. Such auction sales as are being held he argued are the results of foreclosure proceedings and that plaintiffs do most of the bidding and buying. He further maintained that syndicates and private individuals, speculators as well as investors, are looking for bargains in the market these days and that they are not willing to pay market prices with money so scarce.

Bricklayers' Agreement.

After conferences lasting more than a month the trade arbitration board of the Mason Builders' Association and the bricklayers reached an agreement by which the wages and conditions under the agreement which expires at the end of this year will continue for another year. There are about a dozen other building trade unions whose trade agreements expire at the end of this year, but this is the first trade to make a new agreement so far, and the result is looked on as an indication of the policy which will be pursued by the trade associations of employers in the Building Trades Employers' Association. About one-half of the bricklayers are idle at present, but the employers, in return for continuing the wages of 70 cents an hour, with double wages for overtime and Sunday and holiday work, will have the privilege of selecting the best men for any work they may have. It is believed that a similar arrangement will be made with the other trades.

For Tri-Borough Rapid Transit.

To avoid any delay in passing upon the Bronx end of the tri-borough rapid transit route when the matter comes before the Public Service Commission for consideration, the Improvement Boards in Bronx Borough will request the New York Board of Estimate and Apportionment at its next meeting to have the city take title not later than April 1 to the land needed for the extension of Westchester av, from the centre of Westchester Village to Pelham Bay Park.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresnonding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

ALL the leading banking authorities concur in thinking that money will be very cheap after the beginning of the year. The information or assurance is conveyed to the Record and Guide by one who is recognized as a foremost authority on monetary affairs in their bearing on real estate interests. This is really all that the industries should care to know in order to be confident of a full resumption of business in the course of the coming year. Confidence seems to be the thing most needed at this time, as it is in every crisis that confronts men. Our most dangerous enemy is our fears. When it is considered that there have been few important bank failures, and few in other lines, and that the wealth of the interior is unimpaired, there is strong ground for optimism. This is the feeling that should prevail among builders and brokers, for it is the only kind that wins out. The first of January will not only distribute vast sums of money in dividends, but will also, as supposed, mark the end of the period of partial suspension of cash payments by the banks with the resultant disorganization of local business. In spite of the present discouragements retail trade is generally reported brisk, though manufacturing lines continue to slow down, and jobbers and retailers to hold back. All that is disjointed in general trade we fully believe will be straightened out by the restoration of the flow of funds and their investment in those securities which best promote local business, namely real estate and building. Leaving Manhattan and the Bronx momentarily out of the question, the status of building industries in the rest of the metropolitan district during the year has on the average been fairly good. In Richmond the controlling circumstances have been favorable and prosperous, as we have it by authoritative special reports. In Queens, business has been at least normal, notwithstanding that several large construction companies stopped operations, and the same is true of Brooklyn, Westchester and New Jersey. In the Upper West Side of New York there has been a wonderful growth of apartments of good description, with fair prospects of a continuation in the spring, besides which there has been in the aggregate, and still continuing, a vast amount of work for public and semi-public buildings, such as schools, railroad terminals, tunnels and bridge. Under all the circumstances we are disposed to agree with one of the leading union delegates of the city, who writes us saying: "We may properly take the optimist's point of view and be thankful for what we have received in 1907 and look forward to brighter days in 1908."

A CORRESPONDENT calls attention to an apparent inconsistency between the official statements of the Public Service Commission and the unofficial assurances credited to its individual members. Officially, the Commission has not decided to build a new subway on the so-called Tri-Borough route, while unofficially the anxiety of property interests in the Bronx and in Manhattan is calmed by occasional assurances that simultaneously with the construction of the new Brooklyn underground road a subway will be built into the Bronx. It might well be that interests favorable to Brooklyn have without authority caused reports to go out that would serve to disarm the opposition of the people of the East Side and of the Bronx, but we prefer to believe that the reports of the good intentions of the Commissioners are well founded, and that while they have not in their official capacity decided to build the Manhattan and Bronx sections of the Tri-Borough route, beginning proceedings early in the year, they have privately so determined as individuals, believing that the state of the municipal finances early in the coming year will warrant the undertaking. Still, as the Record and Guide has counseled, something more than an unofficial assurance is due from the Public Service Commission, that such serious harm as the building of the Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn might work upon property values at the other extremity of the city will not follow from any mismanagement or wrongdoing on the part of the Board; for if it should be fully understood that there is not to be for a long period of years any road-building to the northward, to offset and compensate for the improvements and influences in the opposite direction, the people would be prepared to take such steps as would protect their interests from such consequences. Personally, the Record and Guide cannot conceive, as it has heretofore remarked, of the Public Service Board working such an injustice, but it would be an evidence of even-handed policy if the Manhattan and Bronx sections of the system should be advanced to the same stage as the Fourth Avenue project in Brooklyn before any construction contract at all is signed.

WITH SMALL PROBABILITIES that the Board of Aldermen will take decisive action upon the Revised Building Code that has been reported out of committee, interest in the measure has considerably relaxed, and the case seems to be closed for the time being. Those who did not before have an accurate idea of the difficulties in the way of producing a set of regulations for the construction of buildings that would be considered eminently fair by each one of the various interests affected, may be better informed at the present time, in view of the feelings which the new code has excited. It is not difficult to satisfy the claims of a single industry or profession, it is not impossible to frame a code in which there will be full recognition of the rights of property, nor one in which only the public safety would be considered as fully as the insurance companies think the public should be safeguarded; but the intricate problem is to render exact justice and satisfy all. That the board of revisers did not succeed in doing this can be said without in any wise impeaching the ability and fine intentions of the individual members. Their work has won the official commendation of the architectural profession, but has at the same time called forth protests from other authorities that have a right to be heard as well, and the division of sentiment gives a reason and an opportunity for the political powers to delay the ratification of the whole work, presumably until the political necessities of the case have been agreeably amended. In many respects the report is admirable, and it is to be regretted that the defects are serious in the opinion of important interests. Perhaps the fault most fundamental was in trying to do too much—striving for the ideal form of construction, rather than being content with what is reasonably practicable. Legitimate industries which impose no burden or wrong upon the community, and materials which have been considered fairly good and efficient, should not be ruthlessly debarred from fields which they have long occupied. Organic law and public necessity demand that buildings shall be safely and well constructed, but the highest factor of safety, and the best possible construction, are not required by the law, nor is it heresy to say that neither are they required by public welfare. Beyond the point of safety and reasonable regulation revision commissions can not expect to proceed very far without formidable opposition. Building costs can be made too high even for New York.

—The question whether real estate is going to suffer a substantial decline in values is very much in people's minds at the present time. A great deal, probably, depends upon the course of business in mercantile and manufacturing lines during the next year. The weight of opinion seems to be that while there may be some distress and there will certainly be contracting of credits, as a rule, the merchants and manufacturers have been so prosperous that they can make sacrifices and reduce their volume of business without particular hardship, and while there will be some failures among weak and badly managed concerns, there will be no extensive crop of failures. If this judgment is correct, there will be a plethora of money and it would seem as if this would lead to a decided demand for conservative investments. Among these, nothing, after the experiences of the last two months, should appeal to the cautious investor so strongly as first mortgages on New York City real estate. It is generally expected, therefore, that within three months there will be a much better demand for good mortgages and that the support of this additional money flowing into the mortgage market will tend to sustain the real estate market and that the conditions now existing will be so short-lived as not to affect seriously real estate values, excepting possibly in the suburbs. Undoubtedly, this is the prediction which most real estate owners will wish to see come true. The next six months, or possibly four months, will determine whether it will come true.

Architects and the Tenement House Law.

Brooklyn, N. Y., December 7, 1907.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide.

The Charter report, recently issued, is a document whose aim may be excellent but whose provisions certainly remain open to discussion. We therefore ask space in your columns for a few remarks bearing upon one of those provisions, viz., that relating to the Tenement House Department and the Building Bureau, in which we, as practicing architects, naturally take special interest.

The report of the Commission states that "No material change in the Fire, Tenement House, Building, Bridge or Law departments is recommended, but the appointment by the Mayor of a Deputy Tenement House Commissioner in any borough where conditions necessitate it is suggested."

It is to this announcement or "provision" that we take exception—not so much for what it conveys as for what it fails to promise—and that alike on the ground of broad principle and for reasons of a very practical nature.

For some time past our Society has been advocating the amalgamation of the Tenement House Department with the Building Bureau under a single head in each of the boroughs of the Greater City. We have been urging this amendment of the charter upon the Revision Commission which has just concluded its sessions; and from the way in which our representations were received by Chairman Ivins, we felt confident of a better result than appears to have attended our efforts. The situation of matters at present, briefly stated, is as follows:

The Tenement House Department and the Building Bureau, though operating separately, are practically identical in character and jurisdiction, each being a bureau established by the Legislature for the regulation and control of building construction within the city limits. A tenement house is merely a dwelling house in which three or more families are allowed to live in separate suites of rooms—this on condition that certain structural and hygienic requirements imposed by the Legislature are complied with.

So far as the planning and erection of such a building is concerned there is prima facie no valid reason whatever why the control of these should be transferred from the regular municipal building department to a separate bureau, the former having to deal with far more extensive and complicated structural problems than are involved in the erection of any tenement house. It is true, however, that the tenement house act contained a number of novel and, in the opinion of many, needlessly involved and impracticable provisions; and this in the judgment of its framers rendered it advisable—presumably for political or tentative reasons—to create a new department for the administration of the act. Had this department been entirely independent, and invested with full power to issue permits and superintend the construction of tenements, irrespective of the already existing Building Bureau, there might have been little objection to its establishment. As it is, however, it is neither independent of nor subordinate to the Building Bureau; while its requirements are not only frequently at variance with the latter, but involve an amount of duplicated labor and loss of time which constitute a serious grievance and hardship to all parties concerned.

Under the present regime it is required of any owner or his architect, before commencing the erection of or alteration to a tenement house, to obtain two successive permits, the first from the Tenement House Department and the second from the Building Bureau. These permits not only overlap each other to an absurd extent in the information required to be furnished by the applicant, but the time required for securing them is seldom less than five weeks, and sometimes runs on to two months; the time required for the issuance of an ordinary building permit being rarely more than a fortnight. We affirm that this fact alone ought to be considered fatal to a continuance of the present bicephalous system.

In addition to the foregoing, however, there are economic reasons, equally cogent, and such as may be supposed to appear to a much larger section of the public than those directly interested in building operations. Taking one branch of the service in each department as a fair criterion of the rest, as respects needless duplication of expense, we have under the present arrangement the following inspectors employed to secure the due enforcement of the law in the erection of a tenement house:—

|---|---|
| BUILDING BUREAU..... | 1Chief Construction Inspector.1 Chief Sanitary Inspector.1 Construction Inspector.1 Sanitary Inspector.1 Iron Inspector. |

Allowing for a similar overlapping of functions, etc., throughout the two departments, it will readily be believed that Borough President Coler's estimate of a saving of not less than 20% in cost of administration, in case the two departments in question are combined, is a conservative one. We therefore urge the adoption of this amendment to the City Charter as being distinctly in furtherance of the cause of good government and the public interest.

THE NEW YORK SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTS (INC.),
C. WHITLEY MULLIN, Secretary.

January 5, 1907.

J. McKeown, Esq., Deputy Commissioner, Tenement House Department, 44 Court st., Brooklyn:

Dear Sir—As general practicing architects of the Borough of Brooklyn we desire to lay before you the following just complaints and grievances appertaining to the transaction of business with the tenement house department; and in doing so would express the earnest hope that you will lend your assistance to bring about such changes of administration in the department as will afford speedy and effectual relief. Complaints are substantially as follows:

(1) Undue delay in issuance of permits, which would indicate either an insufficient staff of employees or a needlessly complicated system of procedure.

(2) We are of opinion that the printed forms of applications are too voluminous, containing needless repetitions and requiring answers to superfluous questions, unnecessary references to the law and self-evident facts supposed to be known by the applicant and shown by the plans accompanying application papers.

(3) When location of property is shown on plans and so stated once in the application, it should be sufficient.

(4) A blue print copy of survey should be deemed sufficient if not marked on plans.

(5) One statement as to owner, architect, builder, address, borough, city and county and date should suffice.

(6) Questions not appertaining to the building in application should not be required to be answered in the negative.

(7) We request that application blanks be remodeled, so that buildings for more than two families on a floor and more than four stories in height be classified separately.

(8) At present needless duplication of measurements and markings on plans is insisted upon. It should suffice when horizontal and vertical measurements, with proper titles of rooms, halls and sanitary provisions for light and ventilation are indicated.

Certificates of occupancy should be issued without vexatious delay.

(9 We complain of unreasonable interpretation of the law as we know it to be intended, whereby we are compelled to institute court proceedings to secure rights.

(10) When an architect asks for copy of violations the same should be given to him as the owner's representative.

We wish to say in conclusion that we are actuated entirely by a spirit of fairness and are earnest in our efforts and desire not to antagonize but to co-operate with the department for a better understanding and a square deal.

Respectfully yours,
SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTS.

Mr. Kelsey Denies Consolidation Rumor.

An old rumor of the probable consolidation, soon after the first of the year, of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company and the Title Insurance Company of New York, was vigorously renewed during the week. Asked to deny or confirm the report, President Kelsey, of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, said to a representative of the Record and Guide yesterday: "There is absolutely no foundation for the rumor. It is idle gossip. We are not going to consolidate with anybody."

Real Estate vs. Stocks.

United States Steel common stock, paying a dividend of 2 per cent., returns a net income of 7.76 per cent. to those who buy at the latest price of 25¾. United States Steel common stock when it sold, within a year, at the price of 50¼, returned from its 2 per cent dividend less than a 4 per cent income.—N. Y. Herald.

No. 2795 3d av, a 4-sty brick tenement and store, was purchased ten years ago for $16,000. In 1904 the owner was offered $37,500, and refused it. To-day $45,000 will not buy it. Here is a net increase of 181.25 per cent., besides meanwhile receiving dividends in the form of rent. This sort of investment means "a good night's rest."

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Building Code Revision.

REPORT REFERRED BACK TO THE COMMITTEE—VIEWS AND OPINIONS.

THE Board of Aldermen will not meet again until December 31. At this week's meeting the report of the Building Committee, embodying the revised code, was by general consent, on motion of Alderman Sullivan, the majority leader, referred back to the committee, with a recommendation to grant a public hearing, and report at the next meeting of the Board. No discussion occurred. The probabilities are that the matter will die with the old board. Next year the subject may be taken up again.

MR. ISRAELS REPLIES TO MR. BABBAGE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

As a member of the commission responsible for drafting the Building Code now before the Board of Aldermen I fully agree with Mr. R. G. Babbage that this document should receive the "most careful consideration before adoption." I also agree with his statement that the tendency of this proposed measure "is to increase the value of property on which high buildings have been erected," but I deny that these same provisions "will largely diminish the value of properties which have not yet been improved" and that "certain properties will suffer greatly by the restrictions imposed by this code," except by comparison with performances which have been largely responsible for many of the conditions which the new code endeavors to remedy.

The public became familiar with this same argument when the present Tenement House Act was before the Legislature. We were told again and again that houses would not be built for the people—but the result has been that the tenement and apartment dweller in New York has been supplied with better housing than he ever had under the old conditions, and to such an extent that the loaning companies now find it necessary to discourage rather than to encourage the building of further houses of this class, although old tenements were made more valuable but only during the time necessary for the new law house to show its advantages. The reform has been permanent, even though certain properties suffered a temporary financial slump, and with all its annoyances the Tenement House Act has been an unmixed blessing to New York, even if a few property owners lost money.

In the last analysis a Building Code is written for all the taxpayers, direct and indirect; the rent payers and the property owner both are entitled to proper consideration, and the provisions of the new code to which Mr. Babbage calls attention were prepared with special reference to existing evils with which the largest class of taxpayers are now afflicted.

The present code provides that a dwelling may cover 90% of the lot, and no restriction is placed upon the percentage of area which a mercantile building may occupy. In consequence of these provisions block after block of New York City is being built up solidly, and no one is secure in his ability to retain the light and air from the centre of the block absolutely necessary for healthy living conditions and the proper transaction of business.

Having closed up the rear of our houses we further permit the erection of stupendous skyscrapers, taking away the little light and air from the street side of our buildings, and at the same time creating a congested condition in our business centres which invites panic and disaster such as no municipality has ever seen.

The proposed restrictions in height and area are far less than Chief Croker advised. In almost every instance he considered these limitations far beyond the fighting power of his department. New York burns up at the rate of $3 per capita annually in comparison to about 30 cents in the six principal European cities. Why?

The staircase and fire tower sections were also dictated by a desire to cure existing evils. Hardly a day passes that the press fails to record deaths due to our faulty system in these matters, and according to the reports of the Fire Marshal shingle roofs, which it is proposed to prohibit in the outlying districts, are directly responsible for a fire loss beyond all comprehension.

It should not be forgotten either that under the new provisions many properties can be improved with steel frame buildings at a less cost than is possible at present and with a greater rentable area on account of the provisions for thickness of walls for such buildings.

Will not all properties finally gain by applying these remedies? Certain owners will find their properties increased in value and a few will temporarily face a decrease, but "cui bono?" The entire city is the gainer. CHARLES H. ISRAELS.

DISASTROUS TO CONCRETE INTERESTS.

Mr. W. P. Corbett, secretary of the Alsen American Portland Cement Company, remarked during the week that in his opinion the proposed Code, as regards concrete, is so plainly pernicious that he had no fear of its being put in effect.

"It would manifestly be disastrous to the use of concrete, which the country must naturally depend upon more and more for its highest grade construction in many lines.

"The manifest advantages of fireproof concrete construction are becoming so much more thoroughly known, even to the uninitiated, that there is in our belief little danger of any code so palpably erroneous going through.

"It would be the gravest injustice. Proof of this is so readily obtainable that little worry should be felt by the many concrete construction companies."

Kalamein vs. Wood Trim.

BY Section 110 of the Revised Building Code, no woodwork or other combustible material shall be used in any of the partitions, furring or ceilings in any fireproof building, excepting, however, when the height of the building does not exceed one hundred feet, the doors and windows, and their frames and trims, casings, the interior finish when filled solidly at the back with fireproof material, and the floor boards and sleepers directly thereunder, may be of wood, but the entire space between the fireproof floor and any combustible floor shall be solidy filled with Portland cement concrete mixed in proportions of one of cement to ten of steam boiler cinders or other incombustible aggregates.

"When the height of a fireproof building exceeds one hundred feet, the floor surfaces shall be finished with stone, cement, tiling, rock asphalt or similar incombustible materials. All outside window frames and sash shall be of metal or of wood covered with metal.

"Inside window frames and sash and doors, trim and other interior finish shall be of metal, or of wood covered with metal, or of concrete or other approved incombustible material except wood.

"All window frames made of wood covered with metal before being installed shall be standard and approved."

During the week the views and opinions of a number of architects upon this section were sought, and the results have been summarized into the following form:

McKim, Mead & White: Have had successful results from the use of Kalamein, and while they are in favor of the proposed amendment as a whole to the Building Code, they decline to make a specific statement with regard to Section No. 110.

James B. Baker: Has extensively used Kalamein with satisfactory results and is in favor of Section No. 110 in the proposed amendment.

Warren & Wetmore: Through their representative indorsed Kalamein as a material, but were not in favor of Section No. 110 of the proposed amendment.

F. H. Kimball: Has used a copper finished Kalamein in most of his later large buildings. He spoke approvingly of the method of trim, doors, etc., in the U. S. Express Company's Building, which is of a stamped hollow steel. Further, was not in favor of the proposed amendment, Section No. 110.

Clinton & Russell: Col. Wells approves of Kalamein and has used it extensively. An adverse opinion was expressed with regard to Section No. 110.

Trowbridge & Livingston: Mr. Livingston has had extensive experience in the use of Kalamein; he thought it the best all-around proposition from a commercial standpoint. No opinion expressed with regard to Section No. 110.

N. LeBrun & Sons: Expressed themselves as in favor of a law prohibiting the use of wood for trim in buildings over 100 feet in height.

Ernest Flagg: Believes in Kalamein and kindred forms of metal trim, sash, doors, etc., especially for external fire protection, and further is in favor of the proposed amendment No. 110.

Henry Ives Cobb: Is not in favor of the proposed amendment No. 110.

Palmer & Hornbostel: Mr. Palmer thoroughly approves of Kalamein and has used the same extensively in their group of Carnegie buildings; however, declined to express his opinion with regard to proposed amendment.

Maynicke & Franke: Mr. Franke expressed himself as unfavorable to the proposed amendment.

Hale & Rogers: Mr. Rogers does not approve of the proposed amendment.

Buchman & Fox: Are not in favor of the proposed amendment.

R. W. Gibson: Thoroughly approves of Kalamein and all forms of construction which gives buildings better protection.

Kirby, Petit & Green: Have had experience with Kalamein and think well of it constructively; declined to express an opinion with regard to proposed amendment Section 110.

Howells & Stokes: Mr. Stokes, speaking for himself, in the absence of Mr. Howells, thought well of Kalamein.

Hoppin, Koen & Huntington: Approve thoroughly of Kalamein from a constructive standpoint; think it the best commercial proposition on general principles.

Herts & Tallant: Through their representative stated they were averse to Ka'amein, and preferred galvanized iron thereto; declined to express an opinion with regard to the proposed amendment, Section No. 110.

H. J. Hardenbergh: Prefers giving no opinion on any material in the market at the present time; declined to express an opinion with regard to the proposed amendment, Section No. 110.

Carrere & Hastings: Their representative said they were fully in accord with his statements and position, and that inasmuch as he was chairman of a committee appointed by the New York Chapter of the A. I. A. to further the passage of the Code, he felt disinclined to discuss the merits of any constructive material on the market at the present time, and declined to express an opinion with regard to the proposed amendment, Section No. 110.

Cement Interests' Objections.

The following communication respecting the Revised Building Code has been submitted to the Board of Aldermen:

On behalf of the Masters' League of Cement Workers, the Concrete Association of America and several other interests allied thereto, I respectfully call to your attention some of the many objectionable features in the Building Code, reported out of Committee December 2 to the Honorable Board of Aldermen of the City of New York, and which is set down for consideration by the Honorable Board on the 16th inst.

If this Building Code be passed in the form proposed and submitted by your committee, it will needlessly increase the cost of many types of building by at least 30% and forbid the erection of many buildings for manufacturing and other purposes within the limits of the City of New York and will result in driving such manufactories to New Jersey, Connecticut and outside the limits of our city. This Building Code is against the interests of reinforced concrete construction.

It is manifestly unjust to limit the height of buildings of reinforced concrete to 85 feet (Sec. 35). With the classification of buildings in class E required to be built by Sec. 3 with steel floor beams, this will practically exclude the use of reinforced concrete for all buildings. There are several buildings in the City of New York, erected within the past two years, of reinforced concrete eight to eleven stories in height, exceeding 100 feet, the strength and safety of which has never been questioned.

It is unreasonable and unjust to forbid any "reinforced concrete construction to be carried on during freezing weather," as there are conditions under which concrete work can be carried on in freezing weather with perfect safety and without diminishing the strength and stability of the structure. The ordinance, as it is reported from the committee to the board and as printed in the City Record of December 5, would forbid reinforced concrete construction in freezing weather in an enclosed, heated building (Sec. 117).

Section 113, second class construction, provides that the reinforcing metal if in the form of rods or bars shall be spaced not more than 16 inches centre to centre, and "if in the form of mesh it shall have no opening smaller than 16 square inches." This is a most remarkable provision, the purpose of which is not apparent, unless indeed it have an ulterior motive. The material which is meshed and which is in use in reinforced construction, and which has been in use for many years, has no such openings as 16 square inches, and either this provision is in the interest of some particular class or kind of meshed reinforcing metal, or else the author of the clause is not familiar with reinforced construction. The meshed metal for reinforced concrete which is standard and which has been for ten years past all over the world, has openings of 9 to 12 square inches only, and if this provision of the Code be retained it cannot be used under any circumstances under the new Code.

Section 112, first-class construction, requires fireproof floor arches and roof construction to be reinforced and protected with steel rods or bars, renticulated or meshed steel or similar metal weighing not less than one pound per square foot of superficial floor area. Section 113, second-class construction, likewise requires rods or bars, renticulated or meshed steel for reinforcing to weigh not less than one pound per square foot of superficial floor area. It is not apparent to the concrete trade why the reinforcing steel is made as heavy in second-class construction as in first-class construction, especially in view of the fact that throughout the City of New York and throughout this continent fireproof floor and roof construction have been built with reinforcing metal weighing two-thirds of a pound per square foot, with recorded tests of a carrying capacity of 2,400 pounds per square foot on arches of 7-foot span.

Section 111, fireproofing, requires that all fireproof floors and roofs shall be constructed with steel floor beams, spaced not more than 5 feet on centres for class E buildings, which includes special hazard buildings, which means and includes mercantile buildings which are used for the manufacture, storage or sale of inflammable products, goods and materials. Class E also includes factories, workshops, lofts, printing houses, stores, warehouses, slaughter houses, rendering plants, light and power stations, smokehouses and garages; or in brief, all manufacturing plants, shops and stores. This requirement is not only restrictive in the extreme, but it is wholly unreasonable and unjust. It excludes reinforced concrete work from those buildings, plants, factories and shops in which it is most frequently employed. Section 111 should be amended so as to provide for and permit the use of reinforced concrete, or else Section 31 should be amended so as to take from clause E such buildings as factories, workshops, lofts, printing houses, stores and warehouses, light and power stations and garages, which are most frequently built of reinforced concrete throughout, without steel beams. A fair, reasonable and sensible ordinance or building code would require buildings to be erected for the purposes for which they were intended. Some factories, workshops, lofts and printing houses might contain no inflammable material whatever and might require a minimum load per square foot of floor area. It is within the knowledge of the members of your Honorable Board that some factories and workshops are employed in the manufacture of toys, clocks, typewriters, bicycles and such articles and utensils as are very light and would not require first-class construction. The requirement that all of the buildings designated in class E should have steel floor beams not more than 5 feet on centres is unreasonable and unfair to other forms of construction which do not employ steel beams at all and which are equally fireproof in their character as are buildings made of steel beams.

The spacing of the steel beams at not more than 5-foot centres for all those buildings designated as class E, is also unfavorable to the interests of reinforced concrete, as reinforced concrete is more economically constructed in longer or wider spans. This provision requires additional steel and makes the cost of fireproof buildings unnecessarily great, and it requires increased reinforcement because of the segmental form of the arch between the steel beams, which increases the weight of the floor system. Such a form of construction will cost more than the flat slab arches now generally used and which have stood all practical tests, not only as to their fireproof character, but as to their capacity to carry any and all loads imposed upon them.

Likewise Section 114, which described metal lath and plaster ceilings, is practically the specifications of a single contractor, and the requirements are wholly unnecessary.

The provision that "after the floors are constructed no openings greater than eight inches square shall be cut through said floors unless steel frames supported by the beams or girders are provided around such openings," is onerous and unnecessary and the purpose is not apparent.

The requirement that "where steel studs are employed in concrete or other partitions in buildings without metal lath and plaster ceilings, . . . provision shall be made for the expansion of the studs in case of fire," is wholly unnecessary, and a requirement that has not heretofore been in use or been what is considered good practice. It is a reminder of the old theory that street railway rails had to have spaces left between them to allow for expansion and contraction, which has long since been exploded and the use abandoned.

Another feature of this fireproof construction, as described in Sections 111 and 112, and which requires a segmental arch, is that it will in all buildings wherein a flat ceiling is desired require a furred and metal lath ceiling hung in the manner described in Section 114, which is practically the specification of a single contractor. This makes a monopoly of the ceilings of practically all of the fireproof buildings of the City of New York, which is a most extraordinary condition to be created by an ordinance or law of the City of New York.

It can hardly be conceived that the Building Code Commission of your committee intended that "every building hereinafter erected or altered in classes D, E and F, except as herein otherwise provided, shall be constructed fireproof, in accordance with Secs. 105 and 106 of this Code" (Sec. 36). A careful perusal of Secs. 105 and 106 will show the extraordinary incongruity of this part of your Code.

One particular feature of this Building Code noticeable throughout is the extended power granted to the Superintendent of Buildings, and which puts in his hands the power to not only prevent the use of certain systems of fireproofing in the City of New York, but gives him also the extraordinary power of breaking contractors who may incur his displeasure. Sec. 11, which provides that "the term 'standard' where used throughout this Code shall be taken to mean standards as approved by the Superintendent of Buildings and the National Board of Fire Underwriters," when taken in connection with other parts of the Building Code, confer upon him powers not possessed by many public officials in any State or municipal government. The Building Code provides that "whenever required by the Superintendent of Buildings, the owner or the contractor, at his own expense, shall make load or other tests to prove the efficiency of the fireproof construction," and it authorizes the Superintendent of Buildings to condemn fireproof floors failing to develop the strength therein required. The Code then describes certain tests of floor construction which shall be made, which is to be compared with another so-called "legal construction to be erected by any reputable contractor for fireproofing who has furnished approved and first-class fireproof construction in New York City for at least five years, said contractor to be selected by the Superintendent of Buildings." These provisions of the Building Code invite competition among fireproof constructors to cultivate the favor of the Superintendent of Buildings, to the exclusion of new forms of construction. The Superintendent of Buildings may choose for the fire test any construction whatsoever, which he may call a standard; he may choose any contractor to erect this so-called standard, who may be the competitor of the contractor whose materials are to be tested, and the legal standard may be erected in any way which may suit the patentee's or owner's fancy. The standard, which is to be selected by the Superintendent of Buildings, will be that which is most favorable to the highest type of fireproof construction, and the system that is to be tested must be as good or better, not only in strength and fire resistance, but in every other respect equal to or better than the legal material. The Code does not explain who is to determine whether it is equal to or better than the legal material, but presumably it is also for the detrmination of the Superintendent of Buildings. It is extraordinary to empower a public official with such authority.

The temperature to which such fireproofing is subjected in the test is also raised above that which has heretofore been required, which has been considered ample.

The provisions of this article might have some semblance of justice and equity in them if it were provided that if the new material was superior to the legal construction, so-called, then it should supersede it, or if the Building Code provided for tests calculated to secure the very best fireproofing material. But no provision is made as to what shall be done with the new material if both it and the legal construction fail. If both go to utter destruction and it be determined by the Superintendent of Buildings that even slightly more damage is done to the new system of fireproofing than was done to the legal construction, then the new material is condemned and the legal construction has a continued lease of life. This is what may be expected because of the increased requirements and higher temperature provided for in the proposed Building Code. It is contended that such tests are not comparative or fair under the terms and language of Sec. 115.

Another instance of this extraordinary prerogative conferred upon the Superintendent of Buildings is found in Sec. 129, which provides that all I-beams shall have holes for tie-rods as near the centre of the thrust of the arch as practicable; that the distance between tie-rods shall not exceed six feet; and which then expressly provides that "in the construction of fireproof floors and roofs, tie-rods can be omitted if the weight of steel as called for in Sec. 113 is incorporated in the construction of the floor, unless specifically ordered to the contrary by the Superintendent of Buildings." In the light of experience of concrete construction, this provision respecting the omission of tie-rods is made in the interests of a single contractor. It destroys competition, makes a monopoly of fireproof construction and gives the Superintendent of Buildings the power to favor certain contractors. It should form no part of the Building Code.

The authority of the Superintendent of Buildings as conferred by the proposed Building Code is not confined to mere building construction or to the increase or decrease of the cost of work, and therefore to the determination of a successful competitor. Sec. 11 provides that the term "standard" shall be taken to mean standards as approved by the Superintendent of Buildings and the National Board of Fire Underwriters. This would seem to be objectional in the form in which it is drafted, as it may lead to a deadlock and to the failure to designate and to describe standards from lack of agreement of the Superintendent of Buildings and the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Plans Approved for $4,500,000 Library.

Prospect Park Plaza is soon to be beautified by a handsome new building for the Brooklyn Public Library. Plans for the structure have been approved by the Municipal Art Commission, and the cost of the work is estimated at $4,500,000. The site to be occupied by the building is the trapezoidal plot bounded by the Eastern Parkway, Flatbush av and Prospect Park Plaza. The building will be four stories and attic in height. It will be of steel skeleton construction, faced with limestone above base course and granite below. The executive offices will face the Eastern Parkway. The rooms to be devoted to the use of the public will occupy the central portion of the structure, the Flatbush av side and a part of the Underhill av side. The main stack room will face the extension of Underhill av and will be equipped with thirteen tiers of steel book stacks.

How a Strike Started.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The lot of the New York City manufacturing woodworker has been a hard one for the last few years owing to the labor unions. Nine-tenths of the woodwork used in New York to-day is made out of town by cheaper labor, and the New York manufacturer must meet this competition and submit as well to the exorbitant and unfair demands of the labor organization.

We give the following as an instance, the truth we vouch for, as we are the victims (?) in the case. To start with, an apprentice boy who proved unsatisfactory was dismissed and a man put on in his place. This is grievance No. 1. About two weeks after this occurred we laid off one of the men, as we had long been dissatisfied with his services and having secured a more competent man in his place. This is grievance No. 2. Grievance No. 3 is that we used ordinary shop laborers for machine hands. Now in a woodworking plant there is considerable waste lumber, strips, etc., that must be disposed of, and it is customary to cut this up short for firewood or to convenient lengths for use in the fireroom; this was done on a swing saw operated by a shop laborer. Occasionally one of the laborers would be used on a rush job to feed a machine, or cut up rough material, but only to help out temporarily.

Grievance No. 4 is that our superintendent is not satisfactory. We are told that he is no mechanic and that he is a slave-driver and stands around watching the men all day. (This man happens to be interested financially in the company and would naturally look after its interest, but is withal well liked by the rest of the employees.)

The above complaints were made against us by the party of grievance No. 2 and our superintendent was ordered before the Strike Committee. He went to the headquarters accompanied by the writer, and we listened to the complaint and answered them, apparently satisfactory to the committee. This was on Wednesday evening and on the following Saturday morning a delegate came to our office with an ultimatum from the union. We were ordered to take back the boy, take back the man, discharge our superintendent, use no laborers on machines and, in other words, pay a man 50 cents an hour to cut up waste and clean shop. If we would do all this we would be allowed to continue our business.

Of course we promptly turned down their generous offer, and the following Monday morning, bright and early, our friend, Mr. Delegate, came and ordered out the men. Needless to say they are still out.

This is a plain statement of facts. Now, Mister North American, you of the personal liberty breed, where do you get off? We give it up, and hope that the readers of your paper will suggest a remedy.

P. S.—You will notice a question mark after the word "victim." Our men are on the street and Christmas is near.

New Catalogues.

PORTABLE INSTRUMENTS.—Permanent accuracy, the chief requirement of portable instruments, is claimed for the Type P3 voltmeters, wattmeters and ammeters, made by the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y. In Bulletin No. 4554, just issued, these instruments are described and their details illustrated.

Mechanically, the instruments are strong and light, and of small size, so that several instruments may be carried with ease. They have a light-weight moving element not susceptible to damage in transportation, and one of the strongest recommendations of their reliability when used for laboratory or general testing purposes is their ability to give accurate indications when used in the vicinity of external magnetic fields. The voltmeters and wattmeters are constructed on the direct-reading dynameter principle, the ammeters on the well-known Thomson inclined coil principle. The pointer fluctuations are dampened by means of Foucault currents set up in a thin aluminum segment attached to the shaft. Pivots are made from the best grade of steel, specially hardened and highly polished, and are suspended in high-grade sapphire jewels. Catalogue numbers, capacities and list prices are given in the bulletin, and full-sized sample scales of the various instruments reproduced.

STANDARD SYMBOLS FOR WIRING PLANS.—The National Electric Contractors' Association of the United States and the American Institute of Architects have issued a chart of standard symbols showing various outlets, fixtures and other wiring devices. The General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., has just issued a little booklet giving sample plans of an office or accounting room, and of a kitchen and dining room in which the symbols are illustrated.

The other pages of the brochure are used to illustrate and describe many of the G. E. specialties indicated by the symbols in the plans. Among the specialties mentioned are key sockets, "Security Snap" pendant sockets, ceiling rosettes, cabinet panels, wireless clusters, snap switches, flush pocket wall receptacles, floor outlets, receptacles for heating devices, lamp receptacles, combined switch and cut-outs, etc. The booklet is being given a very wide circulation among agencies for G. E. specialties, and it is hoped it will aid in the general adoption of the standard symbols. Copies of the charts giving all of the approved symbols may be had by application to the secretary of either the Contractors' Association or American Institute of Architects.

ALPHA PORTLAND CEMENT.—The works of this company are located at Alpha, New Jersey, five miles east of Easton, Pa., and 75 miles west of New York City, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. This plant was established in 1891, and grew with the progress of the industry in this region until it reached an output of 2,000 barrels per day, when it was resolved to add entirely new and independent mills which gives a present total output of 7,500 barrels per day, or 2,700,000 barrels per annum. The company owns about 200 acres of land, most of which is underlaid with cement rock lying within a few feet of the surface and extending to an unknown depth. The Alpha Company also controls the entire output of the Martins Creek Portland Cement Company. The possible total output of all the mills is 7,500 bbls. a day.

Bulletin of the Tenement House Department.

Bulletin No. 18.—Where several buildings are to be erected under one plan and the street numbers have not as yet been assigned to the proposed individual buildings, they should be designated on the plans and in the application as follows:

Where a row of buildings is erected on a north and south street, the southerly building shall be designated as No. 1, the next northerly building at No. 2, etc. In addition they shall be described by distance from intersecting street as No. 1, northwest corner; No. 2, west side, 40 ft. north of —— street; No. 3, west side, 80 ft. north of —— street, etc.

Where the buildings are erected on an east and west street, the easterly house shall be designated as No. 1 and the others in order towards the west. In each case the number and geographical location of the building shall be given as illustrated above.

Issued Dec. 12, 1907. EDMOND J. BUTLER, Commissioner.

For bulletins from No. 1 to 17 see issues Oct. 26, Nov. 2 and Nov. 9.

Points on the Material Market.

Why not a good building year in 1908?

The tendency to reduce lines of credit continues.

Croton Point brick is marked a dollar less per M.

Local consumption of North Carolina pine is small.

Linseed Oil, after the fall advance in price, is quoted lower.

Quotations on conductor pipe, eaves trough, etc., are lower than for several weeks.

The belief is generally expressed in banking circles that the month of January will see normal monetary conditions restored.

About half the blast furnaces in the Pennsylvania region are out, which means, of course, a perpendicular fall in coke, coal, ore and iron tonnage.

Hemlock is in very light demand, and is now nominally quoted on the basis of $21.50 for New York City delivery—the most moderate official quotation of the year.

Paints sold into North Dakota must be pure. The U. S. Supreme Court sustains the constitutionality of the North Dakota statute of 1905 prohibiting the adulteration of white lead and mixed paints.

Steamfitters and heating concerns report a fair amount of alteration work, but little work for new buildings. Repair work and improvements to old buildings amount to as much as the same class of work did last December. Many journeymen are idle.

For November, the New England Car Service Association reports handling 167,880 cars, with an average detention of .35 for the railroads and 2.16 for consignees, or 2.51 for both, compared with 2.44 last year. Within the time limit of 96 hours, 92.3 per cent. of the cars were released.

The Harbison-Walker Refractories Company for the year ended Sept. 30, 1907, earned net profits of $1,962,168, an increase of $223,086 over the previous year. The surplus after preferred dividends were paid was $932,050, an increase of $155,095. The total profit and loss surplus on Sept. 30 is placed at $2,858,146.

The Iron Age quotes as follows for mill shipments of structural steel, tidewater delivery: Beams, channels, angles and zees, 1.86c.; tees, 1.91c. On beams, 18 to 24 ins., and angles over 6 ins., the extras is 0.10c. Material cut to length is sold from stock at 2¼c. to 2½c.

A careful scrutiny of the revised Building Code leads the Lumber Trade Journal to believe that the lumber trade has been treated, with one or two exceptions, in a fair manner. The most notable exception to this, however, it says, is the clause which provides that in all buildings over 100 ft. high no lumber whatever shall be used in their construction, and it sincerely hopes that this feature will be modified.

Rogers, Brown & Co. say of the iron market: "Without any marked change in conditions, confidence is gradually returning in iron and steel circles. The avowed intention of producers in both finished and raw materials to join in a general policy of co-operation in adjusting prices and production to the exigencies of the situation has gone far toward reassuring buyers as to the danger of a long period of accumulating stocks and declining prices. Most buyers are still hesitating as to purchases for delivery after Jan. 1. Until they show what orders they are likely to get for 1908, and have figured on what stocks they will carry over the first of the year, they are not going to make further purchases of pig iron."

Building Operations.

Plans for the Municipal Building.

The new municipal building which the city is to erect over the bridge terminal on the plot bounded by Park row, new Elm, Chambers sts and Tryon row, will have a height of at least 20 stories, and will contain more than 600,000 square feet of office space, exclusive of stairways, corridors, shafts and halls. The ground floor and basement will be used as the bridge terminal, and all the floors from the second story above will be expressly for city department offices. The present bridge terminal is to be reconstructed so as to allow cars to enter the building. The subway loop will also connect with the building, as will the lines to run over the Manhattan and Williamsburgh bridges. The estimated cost of the structure is placed at between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. Estimates, it is thought, will not be called for before the fall of 1908. Competitive plans are to be submitted by April 15, 1908, by twelve New York architects, and the selection will be made by May 14. One thousand dollars is to be paid to each of the competing architects and three jurors will each get $1,000. The winning competitor will receive $5,000 if it is decided not to build. If actual building is carried out the customary percentage is to be paid. The competing architects are as follows: Carrere & Hastings, McKim, Mead & White, J. Stewart Barney, Clinton & Russell, J. H. Freedlander, Heins & La Farge, Howells & Stokes, Trowbridge & Livingston, Warren & Wetmore, H. R. Marshall, Hoppin & Koen, of Manhattan, and Helmle & Huberty, of Brooklyn. Architect Cass Gilbert, who was also elected by the Mayor to compete in the contest plans, has withdrawn from the competition, on the ground that there was no assurance that the award of the jury of experts would be conclusive. Mr. Gilbert has planned many noteworthy structures in Manhattan, among many the new Custom House, the West Street Building and scores in other cities.

Boston to Have Grand Opera House.

Henry Russell, director of the San Carlo Opera Company, is making arrangements to erect a grand opera house at Boston, Mass. It is said that a generous patron of the arts in Boston has offered to provide the land and building. The plan contemplates a structure in which opera of excellent quality at moderate prices will be given at least three months of each year. Behind it will be the New England Conservatory of Music. The new house is likely to be built on vacant land near the New England Conservatory and Symphony Hall. It will be large enough to contain an audience of 2,000 or 2,500 persons. There will be two tiers of boxes, as in the Metropolitan. It is planned to open it in the autumn of 1909. No plans have yet been selected, contracts let or architect commissioned.

Bids for Assembly Building in 79th Street.

BUILDING NOTES

Ravitch Bros., erectors of steel and ornamental iron work for buildings, have removed their plant to Vernon and Pierce avs, Long Island City. The New York office at 1 Madison av is in charge of J. V. B. Rapp.

The Standard Oil's great undertaking just begun on the Kill von Kull helps to brighten building matters in the metropolitan district. Fifteen thousand tons of iron plates for tanks, 8,000,000 bricks and 18,000 tons of broken stone are some of the items.

Austin Lord Bowman, consulting civil engineer, has been appointed consulting engineer to the Department of Bridges of New York City, succeeding Mr. Henry B. Seaman, who recently resigned to become chief engineer of the New York Public Service Commission.

To Comptroller Metz the Board of Estimate yesterday referred the resolution of the Board of Aldermen requesting an issue of $25,000 special revenue bonds for the purpose of altering, repairing and furnishing Municipal District Court House to accommodate additional parts created by the laws of 1907.

We know of a superintendent for one of the largest construction firms in the city, for twenty years, thoroughly conversant with every detail of the building business, who is open for a new engagement, and desires to connect himself with either an architectural or a building firm. See Wants and Offers.

The Board of Estimate received a communication yesterday from the Commissioner of Bridges submitting a proposed agreement between the city and the Manhattan Railway Company and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company relative to depressing the elevated railway structure in Division st, Manhattan. This is made necessary for the operation of the elevated trains on Division st under the approach of the Manhattan Bridge. The communication was referred to the chief engineer.

The annual banquet and ball of the International Employing Plasterers' Association was held at the Harlem Casino, 124th st and 7th av, on Monday evening. The attendance numbered about 150, and the affair was in every way a huge success. The officers of the association are: Thos. J. Mannion, Pres.; Simon Green, vice-president; John Waters, secretary; Joseph Van Note, treasurer; John F. Niebuhr, business agent. The committee of arrangements were F. C. Lamonte, chairman; John Waters, Wm. H. Caldwell, Jr., Frank S. Phelan and J. H. Babcock.

Bulletin No. 14, Tests of Reinforced Concrete Beams, Series of 1906, has just been issued by the University of Illinois Engineering Experiment Station. The tests described are a continuation of the tests discussed in Bulletin No. 4. The topics investigated include the effect of quality of concrete upon the strength of beams, the effect of repetitive loading upon the action of beams and the resistance of beams to diagonal tension failures. The results of the investigation of diagonal tension failures throw light upon the amount of the vertical shearing stress which may be allowed in reinforced concrete beams not having metallic web reinforcement. The resistance of beams to diagonal tension may be the controlling feature of relatively short beams, and as such failures occur suddenly and without much warning, a knowledge of the resistance of the concrete is essential. Some beams gave surprisingly low values and it seems evident that the values allowed by many city building ordinances are higher than should be recommended. The tests of concrete columns and reinforced concrete columns and of reinforced concrete T-beams for 1906 have already been published.

Receivers for J. C. Lyons Co.

Samuel Goldsticker and E. Ritzma De Grove were appointed by Judge Hough, of the United States Circuit Court, on Friday receivers of the J. C. Lyons Building and Operating Co., of 4 East 42d st. The value of the company's holdings is estimated in round numbers at $6,800,000, against which are mortgages aggregating $3,928,782. Admission of insolvency is alleged. The receivers' bonds were fixed at $100,000, and were authorized to continue the business for twenty days, with leave to apply for an extension. The petition in bankruptcy was filed by Thomas J. Tuomey, with a claim of "$500 and over;" Peter McKay, with a claim of $500, and J. Weber's Sons with a claim of $500.

Building Code Hearing.

The Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen held a protracted hearing on Friday, Dec. 20, on the proposed new Building Code. At the close the members voted unanimously to refer it back to the Building Code Revision Commission with a recommendation that the building and contracting interests be granted time to be heard on the different sections.

With the exception of the representatives of the two leading commercial associations and the Board of Fire Underwriters, the hearing resulted in a general objection to the adoption by the Board of Aldermen of the Code in its present form. Among those who addressed the committee in opposition were: Isaac A. Hopper, president of the Building Trades Employers' Association; Calvin Tomkins, Lewis Harding, Mr. Wait, of Wait & Foster, Paul Starrett, Hugh Getty, J. H. ## The Week.

SEVERAL transactions of large size were put through during the week just past. It has been the first time in a couple of months that the realty market has started to "look up." This encouragement is not only due to the fact that sales of importance were consummated, but also that in several instances they were for all cash over the mortgage. The sale by F. R. Wood & Co. of the "El Dorado" apartment houses, which occupy the block front on Central Park West between 90th and 91st sts, is of especial significance at this time. It shows that people of means are perfectly willing to invest in gilt-edge property, preferring this class of investment rather than the nerve-racking Wall Street "securities." This is the third sale of importance that has been consummated recently by this firm. Since the panic (?) started they have sold the "Sterling" and "Carlyle," two 6-sty elevator apartment houses, which occupy the block front on Columbus av, between 85th and 86th sts, to Helen A. Thompson. This deal involved something like $750,000. They also sold Nos. 2220 to 2226 Broadway a 2-sty building, 102x100 ft. for Robert E. Dowling to Archibald D. Russell, who gave in part payment 171 and 173 Macdougal st. Two 6-sty flats in West 146th st, on Washington Heights, 80x99.11, were bought by a Mr. DuBois of Brooklyn, also 220 East 97th st, was traded for a Bronx lot valued at $1,800 and $18,200 cash.

The sale of 33 Spruce st, by the estate of Edward W. Currier, the United States Trust Co., trustee, is of some interest to holders of property in the heart of the wholesale leather district. Another sale of importance was the one reported by L. J. Phillips & Co. of the Rice mansion, southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 89th st. This property is one of the show places of the Drive and full particulars of the sale will be found in another column. The feature of this sale is that all cash was received over the mortgage of $175,000, which is held by the Greenwich Savings Bank. The purchaser declares that he will satisfy this mortgage as soon as it becomes due. The asking price of this property was $600,000. A sale of this kind at times like the present gives some hope for the future. It is cheering, in times of stress, to see that there are people who have faith in high-priced Manhattan realty. Mr. William Randolph Hearst is reported as the purchaser of a vacant lot, 25x100, at 336 West 85th st. It is understood to be Mr. Hearst's intention to erect a garage. Here is a case of a piece of property which was bought in by the plaintiff about a month since for $16,945. They were able to turn it over almost immediately in the worst possible market, while the former owners were unable to find a purchaser. Another important sale of the week was in the form of a trade. The "Elmore Court," a 6-sty elevator apartment house, in West 124th st, 108x100.11, was traded for 10 lots on the south side of 139th st, about 120 feet east of Cypress av. Mr. Philip W. Hessberg, of Richmond, Va., bought four houses, Nos. 28, 30, 32 and 34 West End av, 100x100. These are four 5-sty flats and occupy a half a block frontage. The Bronx came in for its part in the sales programme of the week. The "St. Anthony," a 5-sty apartment house, 50x100, at 559 and 561 East 183d st, went to Michael J. Daly. This was a cash sale and the asking price was $85,000.

Leasing has become an important branch of the real estate business to brokers. There are quite a number of firms who are devoting their time exclusively to this end of the market. A few years ago the rent paid by many business concerns was only a fraction of what they now have to expend. The commissions earned by brokers in renting property runs up in some instances to large figures, and it would mean a sale of considerable size to earn a commission of equal amount. Manifestly, it is in the commercial section that the larger rents are received. Take for example the lease reported in last week's Record and Guide by Pease and Elliman for The Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Co. The large price of $30 a square foot was paid, for five booths, in the two structures. Some 600 ft. was taken by a cigar dealer. There was a clause in the lease giving him the exclusive right to sell cigars in the terminal building which probably had its bearing on the price paid.

The mortgage market showed a considerable improvement over the last week. Not only was the gross number of mortgages recorded larger, the amounts bigger but in some instances the interest rate lower. Sarah V. Baker gave a mortgage to Robert R. Perkins et al, for $287,500 for 3 years at 5½% on the two blocks, vacant, running from 178th to 180th sts., Broadway to Fort Washington av. The Hobart Estate Co. borrowed from the Union Trust Co. $125,000 at 5½% until Dec. 18, 1908, and at 6% thereafter to Dec. 1, 1911, on the northeast corner Broadway and 52d st. The Liverpool, London and Globe Insurance Co. figured as lender in two instances during the week. Allene T. Nichols borrowed $100,000 on Nos. 55 and 57 East 64th st for three years at 6% and the Masters Builders Realty and Construction Co. $75,000 for three years at 6% on Nos. 131 and 135 Prince st. A rather unusual mortgage was recorded by the City Mortgage Co. They loaned the Fleischmann Realty and Construction Co. $110,000 at 6% on the southeast corner of Old Broadway and 130th st, 101x irreg. This mortgage was drawn Dec. 12 and is due on demand.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week is 165 against 120 last week, and in the Bronx 80 as against 51 last week. The total amount involved is $3,151,231 as against $2,321,599 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 33, of which 7 were below 59th st, 18 above and 8 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THERE were no voluntary offerings during the week just past in the auction market. The fact is now realized that the present time is not propitious for sales of the character. The concensus of opinion is that good interest will be made by holding realty until Spring before disposing of it. Wherever owners are in a position to retain their holdings they are doing so.

It was a sad spectacle, the auction mart of the week just past. Offerings better than the usual run were put up, and the answer was either "to the plaintiff" or "adjourned," except in very few cases.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Monday, 616 and 622 West 137th st, two 6-sty flats, 85x99.11 each, subject to five mortgages, aggregating with accrued interest $135,000 on each house, brought $143,000, going to the plaintiff. At the stand of Lounsberry & O'Connor, the southeast corner of 179th st. and 3d av, 100.4x109x102x115.4, vacant, was purchased by Geats & Co. for $15,487. At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Tuesday, 796 and 798 Madison av, were adjourned sine die. Some interest was taken in this property due to the fact that Mrs. Russell Sage recently purchased 33 East 64th st, which completed a plot owned by her of 100x100. The five 5-sty flats 2212 to 2218 Amsterdam av and 500 to 512 West 170th st, subject to five mortgages went to the plaintiff for $250,000.

At the stand of Bryan L. Kennelly, 152 and 152½ East 118th st, 25x100.11, a 3-sty frame tenement and a 2-sty frame tenement in the rear, went to Samuel I. Siegel for $9,637. On Thursday at the stand of Joseph P. Day, 110 and 112 West 39th st, was put up at auction as the result of an action brought by Smith Ely against Vira G. Matthews to satisfy a judgment of about $108,000. The terms of the sale allowed $100,000 to remain on mortgage at 5½%. This was knocked down to George C. Whaley, as agent for the Goelet estate, for $135,000. The estate owns the 12-sty office building adjoining and now has a frontage of 125 feet directly east of the Casino theatre.

—One of the large Central Park West apartment houses recently carried a sign "modern apartments from five to twenty-four rooms, three to eight baths, to let." Many passers stopped out of idle curiosity to read the announcement and incidentally cogitate as to the manner of man and fortune that could afford a 24-room apartment with eight baths in Central Park West.

The Policy of Savings Banks Approved.

SHARP criticisms are at present being directed at the savings banks for availing themselves of a clause in their by-laws which provides that depositors shall give 60 days' notice of their intention to withdraw their funds. That the position thus assumed by the banks is both sane and reasonable should be apparent to every fair-minded person when he considers that these institutions are more than mere depositories—that they pay their depositors a fair rate of interest and to be able to do so must necessarily invest their surplus funds in some form of securities. Even should these securities be United States bonds or State bonds a speedy conversion of them into cash cannot in every emergency be accomplished without incurring a heavy loss. As is generally known savings banks are large investors in first mortgage loans on real estate, and such loans cannot be recalled until their maturity.

Obviously, then, the banks are compelled to safeguard themselves by some such clause as the one to which exception is being taken. When by prudent forethought these institutions protect themselves they are at the same time protecting their depositors, whose interests are identical with their own. Wisdom has ever characterized the management of our savings banks, and on occasions like the late panic, when frenzied and misguided people questioned their solvency, they were committing a crime against one of the stablest of banking institutions.

As a matter of fact the monetary situation was not so bad as it appeared on the surface, and the financial sky would be perfectly clear to-day were confidence fully restored. Confidence is the one thing lacking. How to bring it about is perhaps a difficult matter, as so many factors enter into it. But it would seem that if financial institutions generally would resume their former methods of doing business—that is, act concertedly, as if there had been no panic, the future would be secure.

The only uncertain note in the real estate market to-day is the fear that matured mortgages may be called in and that they cannot be replaced through the ordinary channels that the loans have hitherto been obtained. But in such an event estate funds and individual funds would reap the benefit hitherto so largely enjoyed by banking concerns.

ALEXANDER WILSON.

More Customers for Mortgages.

Mr. Clarence H. Kelsey, president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, being interviewed in regard to the mortgage situation, said:

"The mortgage situation is somewhat improved. The number of mortgages recorded in New York County last week was nearly seventy per cent. higher than that of the week preceding. In Kings and Queens, the proportion is even larger. There have been more customers this week for mortgages than last week. The signs are certainly hopeful. We see evidences of money held for investment, but investors seem very cautious as to where they will put their money.

"There is a feeling abroad that so far as the mortgage situation is concerned, the worst is past. Whether the feeling is justified or not, the next few weeks will probably tell. Certainly, mortgages have treated their holders far better than any other class of investment, without a single exception.

"Even New York City bonds show a depreciation of 20 points or more, in six years, and so far as availability is concerned, a savings bank treasurer told us last week that they had been able to get in more money to pay depositors with from past due mortgages than from their bond account. Most of the securities in that account could not be sold at all excepting at such losses to the bank that it could not afford to make them. Investors have begun to appreciate to a slight degree that the present opportunity is an unusual one. It has been at least 20 years since we have been able to get as good interest rates for mortgages where the security is beyond all question."

Statistics of the Year's Conveyances.

The following table has been compiled to exhibit the number of private sales reported by the Record and Guide during the period beginning January 1 last to December 14. It shows not only the weekly, monthly and yearly totals, but also subdivides Manhattan into two sections, north of 59th st and south of 59th st.

Besides these figures weekly and monthly comparisons are made for the total number of conveyances placed upon the records for both Manhattan and the Bronx. It will be seen that these latter figures are considerably larger than those reported by private sale. The reason for this is that everything in the form of a conveyance is included. The property that is deeded by will, sold at auction, as well as conveyed by deeds of trust, release dower, correction, quit claim, bargain and sale, partition and executors' deeds, etc., is all counted in these totals:

The comparative figures of recorded conveyances both in Manhattan and the Bronx from 1903 to date are given in a supplementary table.

|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Manhattan ..... | 14,005 | 16,366 | 21,744 | 20,113 | 11,850 |
| Bronx ..... | 4,644 | 8,017 | 12,873 | 11,927 | 8,658 |
| Total..... | 18,649 | 24,383 | 34,617 | 32,040 | 20,508 |

From these foregoing figures it will be seen that there was a gradual increase in the number of sales up to the end of 1905, and then the figures show that there was a falling off. The number of sales recorded in the Bronx this year in round numbers amounts to about two-thirds of that of 1905 and is about the same as 1904 and double that of 1903. In Manhattan, however, the figures for 1907 show about one-half of 1905 and less by some two thousand than in 1903. The amount in dollars would show up far differently, as the prices involved are far greater than five years ago, even for the same property.

Situation in the Bronx.

With the early completion of the electrification of the New York Central a new train schedule will go into effect which will be of importance to the Bronx. Last Saturday official notices were posted in the stations of the suburban lines modifying the present time table. Other and completer changes will not take effect until January 1, or so soon thereafter as the new work will permit.

Trains will be run practically on a schedule that will mean street car frequency service, with much faster time and better accommodation for the passengers. The best part, and the news which pleases the residents of the Bronx the most, is that these much needed improvements will be theirs to be had at the price of five cents per ride. The New York Central's proposed rapid service for the Bronx cannot be put into effect until after the completion of the big loop at the Grand Central Depot. With that done, trains will make the circuit without delay for switching or changing ends at 42d st. Among the possibilities is that before long the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. will decide upon another terminal, withdrawing its trains from the Grand Central altogether, thereby allowing more room for the handling of the increased suburban train schedule.

The past week has seen no marked change of importance in Bronx realty circles. If business is not what it should be the feeling among the brokers is more optimistic than that noticed in some other sections of New York. They claim, everything considered, that they are well satisfied and that business could be much worse.

"Here in the Bronx," said Mr. C. F. Mehltretter, of 703 Tremont av, "we stop for nothing. Others may and do stop to speculate over future possibilities and even tremble in trepidation of fearful consequences that may follow overindulgence in various forms of gambling, but we of the Bronx are far away from Wall Street and the only call to which we listen, is the call for moderate priced apartments, from the ever-increasing army that knocks at our doors.

"More than a year ago I heedlessly gave to the Record and Guide my prophecy of the probable future growth of the Tremont av section of the Bronx, and in spite of bank and other financial troubles, to-day you can see on every side the improvements that I then predicted. And the work of building continues to-day and will continue so long as people seek moderate priced homes in a healthy locality with ample school accommodations. We find the demand for two-family house apartments renting for about $25 very good; above that price they move slower. It is a fact that no sooner we put up a new sign on a building we have to take it down. Stores are also renting well at $65, and we certainly know no reason for complaining."

E. H. Wendell & Co. leased, for a client, to Eugene Hale, Jr., son of United States Senator Hale, 52 West 55th st, a 4-sty dwelling, for 5 years; also, to Miss Emeline Judson, for 5 years, 9 East 49th st, a 4-sty dwelling, 22.8x100.5, adjoining the Buckingham Hotel.

M. & L. Hess leased, for Dr. Reginald H. Sayre, for a term of 21 years, from May 1 next, the 4-sty and basement altered building at 136 5th av, at an aggregate rental of $250,000. The property measures 25x160, with an alley giving access to 19th st. The lessee is George T. Putney, restaurateur, now at Broadway and Broome st.

The Duross Company leased, for the David Stevenson Brewing Company, the 7-sty building, 175x80, at the southwest cor of 10th av and 40th st, adjoining the brewery. The lease is for a long term, at an aggregate rental of $200,000. The lessees, Spear & Company, will alter the structure for use as a furniture warehouse.

Renwick C. Hurry & Co. report the following leases: The 7th loft in the building, 13 and 15 West 28th st, for E. Deutsch to E. T. Church & Co., for 5 years, at an aggregate rental of $20,000; also, the 1st loft in the building, 2 East 29th st, for William H. Chesebrough to Margaret Asper, for 3 years, at an aggregate rental of $7,000.

The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company reports that it has rented 2,500 square feet on the 19th floor of the Cortlandt Building, McAdoo Terminal, taking in nearly the entire southwest cor, to the Southern Railroad Company for a term of years; also a booth in the Fulton Building, Hudson Tunnel Terminal, to Charles Le Bihan for 12 years, from May 1, at an aggregate rental of about $25,000; also, to Gustav Knauth, now at 71 and 73 Nassau st, a booth in the centre of the concourse floor in the Hudson Terminal Buildings for a period of 12 years from May 1, at an aggregate rental of $30,000. Mr. Knauth will open a branch in the Terminal Buildings.

SUBURBAN.

ST. GEORGE, S. I.—G. G. Haven sold, through the office of Cornelius G. Kolff, the remainder of his holdings on Staten Island, known as the Griswold property, to Mr. Carl Seitz. The property embraces about 31 acres, immediately adjoining Silver Lake Park, and is within walking distance of the St. George ferry landing. The purchase of this property, together with the ownership of the Col. Shaw place on Grymes Hill and the Nesmith property on the Serpentine road, Grymes Hill, makes Mr. Seitz a large owner of property on Staten Island. It is interesting to note that Mr. Seitz, within two days after signing the contract, was offered an advance of $10,000 on his purchase price of the Griswold property.

At a meeting of the officers and directors of the Real Estate Board of Brokers it was decided to give the twelfth annual dinner of the Board at the Waldorf-Astoria, Thursday, Feb. 27, 1908.

Deficiency judgments for $12,657 have been entered against Louis Zimmerman in favor of Aaron Goodman, growing out of the recent foreclosure sale of 1094 and 1096 2d av and 315 East 38th st.

President Coler's resolution that Governor Hughes be requested to investigate all the city departments, and not stop with those of the Borough Presidents, was voted down in the meeting of the Board of Estimate yesterday.

Plans for twenty-five new buildings were filed in the Borough of the Bronx last week and the amount involved is $120,000. Fifteen of these plans call for small dwellings to be built between Tremont and the upper section of Bedford Park.

William Waldorf Astor took title this week from Martin Geisler to a plot at the northwest corner of Westchester av and Old Classon Point road, 372.8x123:10. The property carries a mortgage of $10,000. Mr. Astor has large holdings in the neighborhood.

S. L. Richmyer, of Richmyer & Irving, Broadway, believes that the realty market is now passing through just such a siege as we had five years ago. Now, as then, after the speculative interests were totally eliminated legitimate business picked up rapidly and good times followed.

According to a statement issued in the early part of this week, the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. sold last week nearly twice as many mortgages in Manhattan as during the previous week. In Kings and Queens counties the demand while not showing any increase is well maintained.

The sale of four 3-sty 2-family brick houses, 100x100 ft., situated west side Loring pl, about 260 ft. south of Fordham road, known as Nos. 2309-11-13-15 Loring pl, is reported. This sale is the remainder of 14 buildings and closes the estate of Wm. M. Ryan, one time among the largest auctioneers of this city.

"What are you going to do," said a prominent Broadway operator yesterday, "when you offer a reasonable advance price on a piece of property netting the owner only 4%, and she declines it in the face of her ability to place her money so that it will bring her in 6% on bond and mortgage? The buyer that I had in prospect wanted the building for business purposes."

A resolution introduced at the meeting of the Board of Estimate yesterday for the construction of a footbridge over 10th av, at 30th st, was referred to the Comptroller. It is alleged that this is the worst and most dangerous street crossing in Manhattan, and one speaker said, "The ward is filled with widows and crippled children on account of the menacing condition of this crossing."

There is considerable speculation as to the intentions of the Barney holding company with regard to the many pieces of choice Broadway property that are among the assets of the C. T. Barney estate. Some real estate men believe that most of them will be sold or leased when times are more favorable, as the carrying charges on so much unimproved realty may prove burdensome to the estate.

Hillenbrand & Nassoit, of Broadway, report business in their neighborhood not what they would like to have it. "In these bargain hunting times," said Mr. Nassoit, "when you succeed in finding a real bargain and offer it to the customer he admits that the property is cheap but in the next breath wants you to get a still lower price on it. What they want is a bargain bargain, and that is difficult to find to-day."

J. H. Keegan, who has been a well-known figure in the machinery trade for a number of years, and for the last six years was the New York manager of Hill, Clarke & Co., has been appointed special agent by the Cruikshank Company, which is in charge of the West Street Building, West and Cedar sts, New York. Mr. Keegan will direct his efforts toward securing tenants for this building, who are engaged in the machinery, metal and kindred trades.

Borough President Bird S. Coler is one of the largest owners of the newly organized corporation of Coler & Co., which, according to the papers of incorporation filed at Albany, will transact a real estate business. Its field of operation will be mostly in the Borough of Brooklyn. The capitalization of the company was placed at $50,000. President Coler would not give out more definite information at this time.

There are only a few what are considered highly desirable apartments vacant in Central Park West just now. There is one available for $5,000 for which real estate offices on Broadway received circulars recently. The description says that there are eleven rooms, three baths (needle and shower in one), four master bedrooms, kitchen, butler's pantry, laundry on the roof, one servants' room and storeroom in basement.

At a recent election held by the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers, Mr. J. Clarence Davies, Matthew Anderson and Edward Polak were elected governors for the ensuing year. Messrs. Davies and Anderson succeed themselves, and Edward Polak takes the place of Benj. F. McQuay, former secretary of the association, who resigns on account of ill-health. In conjunction with the other members of the board, composed of William I. Brown, Geo. W. Bard, Geo. W. Price, Walter Wheewell and Wm. Stonebridge, will meet and elect officers at the next regular meeting in January.

A committee made up of advertising managers of representative New York papers will judge the unique contest inaugurated by Wood, Harmon & Co. several months ago when they offered a new $5,000 dwelling to the person sending the best reason for purchasing property at South New York, Staten Island. Over 1,000 reasons have been received. Of these 18 contestants have had their guesses published and each received one of the weekly prizes of $10. The winner of the house will be chosen from these 18 contestants. The deed has been prepared and the award will be made on December 21. One guesser in Greater New York will receive a handsome Christmas present. The house is located in Addition 3 on Crafton av, between Richmond turnpike and Hurd av.

Hon. John F. Ahearn, who was re-elected on Thursday by the Board of Aldermen to the office of President of Manhattan, from which office he was recently removed by Governor Hughes, was not allowed to participate in the deliberations of the Board of Estimate yesterday. Mayor McClellan ruled at the opening that the election by the Board of Aldermen on the day previous was illegal, and that the office of Borough President of Manhattan was still vacant. Mr. Ahearn, President McGowan, of the Board of Aldermen, and Borough President Coler raised objections in various ways against the Mayor's ruling but the Mayor was firm and Mr. Ahearn retired, after requesting that his election certificate from the Board of Aldermen be placed upon the minutes. This also was refused by the Mayor.

Municipality to Purchase Water Front.

The city is considering the purchase of a large water frontage at Halletts Cove, along the East River, Astoria. The parcel includes about 43,408 square feet situated west of the boulevard, on both sides of Jamaica av. The land is immediately in front of the Sohmer piano factory. About one-third of the property is upland, the remainder being under water, extending to the pierhead line. The purchase price said to have been agreed upon is $85,000. It is the intention of the municipality to improve the property with piers at an early date. The lack of pier accommodations in that section of Long Island City has frequently been complained about, and under existing conditions cargoes of all kinds must necessarily be transported from the lower end of that part of Queens to and beyond the ferry at 92d st. The proposed improvement will, it is thought, exert no little influence on the value of business property in that zone. The matter has been laid over temporarily owing to the condition of the city's finances.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

A Real Estate Owner's Protest.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I desire to protest against the acquisition of land bounded by Webster av, Parkside pl, 205th and 210th sts for park purposes in the manner approved recently by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, viz: as a local improvement. Following are my reasons:

First. I am the owner of eight lots within the area of assessment abutting the proposed park.

Second. The petition for the proposed park was signed in January, 1907, by ten persons, none of whom claimed to own land abutting the proposed park.

Third. The petition was approved by the Local Board Jan. 10, 1907, at a time when all public park improvements were made at the cost of the city and not as local assessments.

Fourth. All properties within the proposed area of assessment have been assessed recently for all or some of the following improvements, viz: paving Webster av, regulating and grading Parkside pl, sewer in Parkside pl, regulating and grading Decatur, Hull and Perry avs, receiving basin Decatur av. And they are to be assessed for regulating and grading 209th st and widening Gun Hill road, from Webster to Elliott avs.

Fifth. During the present financial depression, when the wealthy City of New York is compelled to economize, the taxpayers should not be further embarrassed except for the most urgent necessities.

Sixth. The proposed park is not an urgent necessity at the present time.

I would very much appreciate any effort on your part to induce the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to reconsider their resolution in this matter. Yours truly,

Bronx Subway Prospects Apparently Indefinite.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

On or about Oct. 17 there appeared a report in the New York newspapers, of which the following is an excerpt: "It is possible that the subways in the Bronx and on the east side of Manhattan will be constructed as well as the 4th av subway in Brooklyn." Thereupon the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers, through its chairman of the Rapid Transit Committee, wrote to the Public Service Commission for the First District asking them if this report was true. On Oct. 24 the following reply was received:

Mr. Edward Polak,
149th St. and 3d Av., New York City.

Dear Sir—Replying to your communication of October 2, inquiring as to the truth of statements contained in a newspaper article regarding the Fourth Avenue Subway and subways in the Bronx, and on the East Side of Manhattan, I beg to inform you that the Public Service Commission for the First District has not taken any action on any of the subways mentioned by you except the Fourth Avenue Subway.

As to the Fourth Avenue Subway, the resolution of the Commission, to the effect that the steps necessary to making contracts for its construction shall be immediately taken, is conclusive and final.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) TRAVIS H. WHITNEY, Secy.

On Dec. 14 and 15 the New York newspapers, the Real Estate Record and Guide among them, contained interviews with Chairman Wilcox, of the Public Service Commission for the First District. On Dec. 14 a letter was sent by the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers to the Public Service Commission as follows:

Public Service Commission,
First District,
New York City.

Gentlemen—The Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide, of December 14, 1907 (page 975), published, under the caption, "A Definite Announcement," the following:

"Chairman Wilcox announced last Saturday that the Commission had decided definitely upon the construction of the so-called triborough subway, the north end of which will be in Pelham Bay Park and the south end on Coney Island.

"The general scheme is to build a new subway on the East Side of Manhattan, to connect with the Fourth Avenue line in Brooklyn, by way of the Manhattan Bridge, and so to have a through route from Pelham Bay Park to Coney Island."

Will you kindly inform me if the above statement has been officially announced by Chairman Wilcox, and if "the Commission has decided definitely upon the construction of the so-called tri-borough route"?

Very truly yours,
(Signed) EDWARD POLAK, Chairman,
Rapid Transit Committee,
Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers.

On Dec. 16 the following reply to the above letter was received:

Mr. Edward Polak, Chairman,
Rapid Transit Committee,
Association Bronx Real Estate Brokers,
149th St. and Third Av., New York City.

Dear Sir—In acknowledging receipt of your letter of December 14, in regard to a statement attributed to Chairman Wilcox, I beg to advise you that the Commission has not decided upon the construction of a so-called tri-borough subway.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) TRAVIS H. WHITNEY, Secretary.

It appears from the above correspondence that the Public Service Commission does not contemplate constructing the great East Side subways, but has decided upon constructing the 4th av subway in Brooklyn alone. It is also plainly evident that somebody is working a press bureau overtime, for some ulterior purpose. It looks as if they are throwing sand in the eyes of the public so as to lull them into the belief that the East Side subways will be built so as to "pull off" the 4th av subways without opposition. But the public will not be fooled. They will keep "tabs" on the commission and the "traction ring." A vigorous campaign of opposition will be made by the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers and other civic bodies if the 4th av route is commenced, unless the great East Side and Bronx routes are started with it simultaneously.

Yours truly,
EDWARD POLAK,
Chairman Rapid Transit Committee, Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers.

The Assessment for Riverside Drive Improvement.

THE Commissioners of Assessment and Award afforded a public hearing on this matter on Tuesday, 17th inst., at the request of Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, at which a number of representatives of that organization were present, with others representing the West End, Riverside, Dyckman and Harlem associations.

The Commissioners were addressed by Mr. John D. Beals, the president of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, who presented the view which has been unanimously endorsed by the members that the cost of this great public parkway, only one-half of which is by law laid upon the city, should be spread over the widest area possible. The extent of this area is within the discretion of the Commissioners, who were earnestly requested to bear in mind the widespread benefit derived from the parkway by the citizens at large, and the injustice which would be shown to Washington Heights and the West Side if they alone should be burdened with the cost.

The immediate local benefit is deemed less than would appear, because the drive is not an avenue of business traffic, and the traffic upon it is transient. The city is considered the largest gainer by the improvement, since block fronts of vacant and low-priced land have been and are being improved with taxable property of great value. Such properties cannot, it appears, bear a due share, under the present law, of the improvement which is to be assessed upon an area now to be decided without special regard for actual improvement effected. This being so, it follows that the benefit is to be regarded as of wider character than that of an abutting or contiguous improvement, and the benefits derivable are regarded as affecting, even though indirectly, residents and areas comparatively remote from the actual work. This would logically lead to the conclusion that the work is one in which the whole city is interested, and some speakers advocated this view of the matter.

Messrs. Beals and Blauvelt, for the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, offered as a suggestion for meeting the present condition, that the area of assessment should as nearly as reasonable cover the whole borough, and the Commissioners were asked to consider, and promised to do so, an area from 14th st to the Ship Canal, from 4th av down to 23d st, and from Lexington av thence to the Harlem River, and all west of same to the tracks of the Hudson River R. R.

Much interest was evinced in this matter, as property owners are beginning to realize that without any power of objection on their part they are to be assessed under the terms of a legislative act to which they were not parties for half the heavy cost of this public parkway, a burden which will be felt the more severly if its area be restricted by a narrow view of the resultant benefits.

—All telephone franchises before the Board of Estimate were referred to a new special committee, consisting of Comptroller Metz, the Chief Engineer and the Corporation Counsel, with instructions to report back to the Board on Jan. 24.

How to Reduce the Cost of Tenement Construction.

HEN explaining before the Real Estate Class of the West Side Y. M. C. A. the conditions and requirements of the Tenement House Law, Mr. Thomas P. Neville, of Neville & Bagge, architects, of 217 West 125th st, pointed out what he considered was the opinion of the majority of architects and builders as to the necessary modifications to the law—modifications which would lessen the cost of construction without nullifying the spirit and intent of the law. Architects and builders generally were in accord with the spirit of the law, Mr. Neville said, and even the average speculative builder had no desire to modify its main principles. They were just as anxious that buildings shall be well lighted and ventilated and in good sanitary condition as were reformers and philanthropists, through whose unselfish efforts had been brought about the present healthy conditions:

The principal objection that the majority of architects and builders have to the present law is not so much as to its requirements for ample light and ventilation as it is to the mandatory form in which the law has to be administered. In saying this, I do not mean to arraign the officials of the Tenement House Department, as I believe they are honestly and capably doing what they think to be their full duty, in administering the law; but the fact that the law itself states that no discretionary power whatsoever shall be used, necessarily gives rise to innumerable causes of friction between them and the building community.

The almost unlimited number of petty violations which necessitate a multitude of clerks to handle could be easily and speedily adjusted by some capable authority with the proper discretionary power, and thereby dispense with the endless amount of so-called "red tape" which practically clogs the workings of the Department, and entails an unnecessary expense upon the municipality.

If those who are most interested in the law, and who are anxious that the spirit of the same shall not be violated, are fearful lest this discretionary power be so used as to nullify the beneficent intentions of the law, and that political or other authority should so control it as to practically modify the entire purpose of the same, I would suggest that the matter of discretion be not left within the power of any one man, but that it be taken care of by a board of arbitration, somewhat similar to the board of examiners in the Building Department, consisting, say, of six or eight men of unquestionable integrity and acknowledged capability, who would be thoroughly representative of all the interests involved, it being composed, say, of a couple of representatives of the men who framed the law, an architect, a builder, a sanitary engineer, and perhaps a representative of the fire insurance companies or the fire department, but all to be men of experience and thorough practical knowledge.

Of the minor suggestions as to modifications of the law, Mr. Neville argues that inasmuch as all must admit that the new Tenement House Law of itself, irrespective of the recent advance in the prices of material, has so increased the cost of production that it has benefitted least those whom it was intended to benefit the most; namely, the very poor, and the lower medium class; and as this class of people is being compelled to move outside the limits of Manhattan Island, it is necessary for us to do all in our power to provide accommodations for them if possible, within the limits of Greater New York, so that the expense and loss of time in transportation may enable them to do business in the city proper. He therefore thinks it advisable to make such modifications as will reduce the cost of the production of the smaller houses and smaller apartments, and he is entirely in favor of removing the restrictions compelling a house built for only three families, one on each floor, to be constructed according to all the requirements of the twenty or thirty-family tenements.

I believe also that there is a crying demand for five and six-room apartments that can be rented to those who earn less than $20 a week, and who heretofore are able to pay from $18 to $22 for these apartments, but cannot afford to pay $30 to $40; and I would also recommend that a 5-story house with only two families on a floor, and ten families in the entire house, be constructed under the regulations now in force for a 4-story house with two families on a floor and only eight families in the house.

These suggestions are not made for the purpose of reducing the cost of the house, so that the builder may make more profit, but for the purpose of enabling the builder to rent his apartments at more reasonable terms, and thereby obtain for the community the ideal condition of having moderate priced apartments properly lighted and ventilated, thoroughly sanitary, and with the proper precautions taken against danger by fire.

The question of percentage of the lot occupied by the building could, to Mr. Neville's mind, be entirely removed from the law, and still not in any way deteriorate from its intention. If the present minimum size of courts, yards, etc., is sufficient to properly light and ventilate the rooms opening on them, he does not see any reason why these courts, yards, etc., should be increased in size to light and ventilate the rooms, simply to satisfy the question of percentage of lot covered. One can easily see how, in numbers of cases, much more rentable area could be obtained, without at all affecting the light and ventilation of the rooms.

Another suggestion is, that the hard and fast fixed rule of the size of inner courts be so modified as to allow us to substitute the equivalent in area of these courts, provided, of course, that it be the equivalent, and also providing for a minimum width of said courts:

For instance, the law demands an interior court to be 25 ft. in each direction, having a total area of 625 sq. ft.; hundreds of cases arise where a court, say, 20x31.3 would give as much if not better light and ventilation, would allow more ingenuity of planning, and would be better adapted to the requirements of special narrow and long lots.

As to outer courts, I would suggest that where two similar outer courts of adjoining buildings, erected at the same time, by the same or different owners, and that each court on its own lot is required to be, say, 6 ft. wide, that the double court so formed be somewhat reduced in width, say, to about 10 ft.; for if a 6 ft. court has proved to be sufficient light for rooms facing on same, and having a blank wall enclosing the court on the adjoining property, surely a 10 ft. court will better light and ventilate rooms facing on each side of said double court.

Furthermore, I would suggest that outer courts be arranged as to have their width in proportion to their length. At present a 6 ft. court may be 65 ft. in depth, whereas a court only 10 ft. in depth would still have to be 6 ft. wide, and I think some arrangement of a sliding scale of widths of 4 ft. up to 6 ft. in proportion to a sliding scale of depth from 10 ft. to 65 ft. would give all the light and ventilation necessary.

As to the question of fire escapes, architects are probably a little prejudiced as to their appearance on the front of buildings, but Mr. Neville thinks that in at least one instance, the present law should be modified, so that a fire escape might be placed in contiguous outer courts of adjoining buildings and in courts opening either to the street or to the yard, where escape could be made from one building to the building adjoining on the same floor level, the buildings being provided with an unpierced brick wall between them. Also, for the same reason, that where fire escapes are placed on the fronts of the buildings, and access can be obtained from one building to the building adjoining, by proper balconies, provided the buildings are separated by unpierced brick walls, that this means of escape would not only be as safe, but as a matter of fact, safer and more convenient, and more likely to be used and desired by the occupants than that called for by the present requirements, and that omitting the fire escapes from the front of the building in the first instance, and omitting the ladders connecting the balconies in the second instance, would greatly enhance the architectural beauty of our facades.

Warning About Flues.

In a bulletin recently issued by a Western fire marshal a note of warning is sounded to property owners and householders respecting the necessity of giving closer attention to chimneys and stove pipes. In this connection he affirms that three-fourths of the fire losses due to defective flues would be saved if the occupant of each house, before the weather requires heaters to be rushed, would inspect chimneys and stovepipes. In part he says:

Fires from defective chimneys, usually being in the attic, get a good start in the driest of wood before the alarm is raised. Attics being difficult of access to one with a water bucket, the fire is likely to get beyond control. The settling of chimney foundations may open a crevice between the bricks or stones, so that sparks can escape. Sometimes a new chimney in settling forms a crack, because one side of it is held by floor timbers. A chimney built up from joists or a bracket is always a source of danger, because of the liability of cracks from springing of the timbers. Chimneys so built often have as their base a plank, whose only protection from sparks and heat is a layer of mortar on it. Many fires result from this practice. Salmon-tinted bricks disintegrate. Poor mortar crumbles out, leaving openings. Nails driven into brick chimneys are likely to come out, leaving holes. A joist-end should not rest in a chimney wall. Tile chimneys of all sorts are unsafe, because they are very likely to crack off at the level of the roof, where cold air strikes them. A hood should make no offset to hold soot.

The chimney-top should be inspected and the soot swept down and removed from below. A stovepipe must be clean. Jarring the soot out is not enough; a scraper should be used inside it to remove scales. Then it should be inspected, section by section, for rust-holes, which might permit sparks to fly outwards, instead of upwards. See that the pipe, when up, is sparktight throughout and is not pushed into the flue so as to choke it. An elbow in a stovepipe lessens the liability of particles kindling or fuel being drawn from the chimney-top and alighting still redhot on the shingles. If such sparks are given elbow-room, they are likely to bump in making the turn and fall back harmless. While a fire is burning, the air in a chimney travels up at the rate of 3 to 6 ft. a second. Unplugged and ragfilled stovepipe holes cause some fires. A stovepipe should not pass where it cannot be seen, as through a lath and plaster partition, or through an attic or unused room, because openings in it may occur from rust or the parting of a seam or joint. And, too, in such situation the pipe becomes covered with fluff, which is liable to ignite; neither should a pipe pass through roof, window or siding—even of a summer kitchen—for it is liable to become redhot. No flue should be smaller than 8 by 8 ins., which is the length of a brick. If any green wood is used, it should be 8 by 12 ins. A fireplace chimney must have at least one-tenth the area of the fireplace it serves.

This advice is well to heed for, notwithstanding the fact that the present New York building law requires the lining of flues with vitrified tile, there are still a large number of old-fashioned chimneys in existence hereabouts, and too much care cannot be exercised in their maintenance.

—Striking favorable conditions for the first time in the four years' struggle of building the four tubes of the Pennsylvania Railroad system under the East River, between 34th st, Manhattan, and Long Island City, Pearson & Son, Limited, the English contractors, are now going ahead at the best speed they have so far made. On both sides of the river the four tubes are reaching out well toward the middle of the river, and it is well understood that the whole four tubes will be "coupled up" within the next few months, barring unforeseen contingencies.

Public Works.

OVERLOOK TERRACE.—Extension from West 193d st to Fort Washington av. A communication has been received by the Local Board from the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association requesting that the matter be laid over until spring. The petition was denied.

Tenement Invasion at Grantwood.

The Realty Trust owns about 36 acres on the brow of the Palisades, almost directly opposite Grant's Tomb, part of which they intend to devote to tenement house improvement. Residents and property owners in that section are greatly incensed at what they believe will deteriorate the value of their properties, and there is talk of appealing to the New Jersey Legislature to buy the property for park purposes.

During the last five years there have been many fine residences built in and near Grantwood and Palisade, and the owners view with grave apprehension the threatened tenement invasion. The officials of the Realty Trust say they see no reason for abandoning their plans for improving the tract. They assert that they own the land, that it is unrestricted and so soon as the plans are completed the work of building will commence.

Freezing Plumbing Fixtures.

In consequence of numerous complaints received by the Tenement House Department during the winter of 1905 and 1906 concerning the freezing of fixtures in yard closets the Commissioner ordered a complete canvass of yard closets during a period cold enough to test them and found so large a proportion to be frozen that the department has since refused to accept unheated yard closet compartments. Recently proceedings were begun against the department for the purpose of enforcing the acceptance of certain patent appliances claimed to be anti-freezing closets. The experience of the department and the testimony of numerous experts in plumbing having shown conclusively the futility of trying to maintain any system of plumbing in yards free from the effect of freezing weather without the aid of heating appliances, the department vigorously opposed the action referred to, and the decision of Justice Burr, of the Supreme Court, second department, just handed down is as follows:

"The petitioner asks the Court to determine on conflicting evidence whether the flush tanks and pipes on the waterclosets about to be installed are properly protected against action of frost, and then to compel the commissioner to agree with such determination. The Court has no such power. Motion denied."

Urge Necessity for Opening New Streets.

Property owners in the East Williamsburgh and Maspeth sections of Queens are complaining bitterly respecting the delay in legally opening some 300 or more streets in that zone, most of which are largely built upon. The work of grading, paving and other necessary improvements cannot proceed until proceedings in condemnation are completed. The thoroughfares mentioned are in reality a part of the Borough of Brooklyn and the sanitary requirements call for a comprehensive system of improvements in that quarter. Work on the northerly section of the town of Newtown, including nearly 8,000 acres, and the villages of Corona, Elmhurst and the Bowery Bay district, has been completed and the map is ready for adoption by the Board of Estimate. At the present moment the engineering corps is working on the southerly part of Jamaica and it is understood that the tentative map will be ready for consideration by the Board of Estimate early next summer. The urgent need for this work is apparent by the fact that scores of streets have been laid out by development syndicates who have already retailed thousands of city lots, and it is for the benefit of the purchasers, many of whom are preparing to build, that the official layout of the streets be determined upon without unnecessary delay.

LAW DEPARTMENT

Water Meters.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Please answer the following: A tenant of mine received a notice to put in a water meter about six months ago, but I did not know a thing about it until I received a postal this week stating that the 30 days had expired, and if the meter was not put in in 10 days the city would put it in and charge it to the property. The place is occupied as a bakery, and the notice says to meter the business portion, basement and store. I have had the notice extended to January. I would like to know if the city can force me to put in a water meter, as I have read of several test cases which have been decided against the city, but which the city will probably appeal? The tenant now pays an annual extra rate.

Answer.—The Commissioner of Water Supply is authorized in his discretion to cause water meters to be placed in all places in which water is furnished for business consumption, and the expense of the meters and their setting shall be a lien upon the premises where such water is supplied. (See section 475 of New York City charter. We know of no decided case under this section.)

A Commission Earned.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A goes to B, who is the owner of a few houses, to rent a flat. B refuses to rent him the floor on account of his children. A few months later A comes around again and sees C, who is a real estate agent. C shows him the floor, and gives him his card to go to the owner, as A does not want to pay the rent asked by the owner. Then B rents him the floor this time, but refuses to pay the commission, claiming he knew him before C did, whereas C claims this is an entirely new transaction, as B refused him the first time and C is entitled to his commission.

Answer.—A somewhat delicate question to judge, but we incline to the belief that a court would award a commission to the broker.

Waiting for Revised Plans.

The holding-up of the work of improving 161st st, between 3d and Brook avs, is attributed to some differences of opinion between the engineering department of the Bronx and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The thoroughfare at this point, incidentally one of the busiest streets in that section of the Bronx, is but 60 ft. in width, and during the rush hours the sidewalks and roadway are overcrowded. Some months ago public pressure was brought to bear and the borough authorities agreed to widen the thoroughfare to 100 ft., which is the width of the remainder of that highway. Later when the plans were submitted to the Board of Estimate, the engineers of that body announced that they would have to be altered materially before adoption. The plans are now being redrawn so that proceedings for the widening will take in the block immediately to the westward, upon which two small parks are laid out, although not officially widened. It is expected that the revised plans will shortly be submitted to the Board of Estimate.

Product and Appliance.

New "Arrow" Pail.

The Arrow Can Company, 35 Warren st, New York City, has put on the market the No. 12 pail, illustrated herewith. This pail is especially adapted for rough usage, such as sand and mortar buckets are subject to. It is 12x12 inches in dimensions, with outside cover having a beaded edge. The body, of one piece of heavy gauge steel, has 10 flutes, inside of which are strong steel rods run through holes in solid top and bottom formed in a die, and thoroughly riveted, thereby making it almost impossible to pull the top and bottom apart. The can has a heavy wire bail, held in thick gauge steel ears riveted securely top and bottom. The can is galvanized after manufacture, the bottom seam soldered in addition and made entirely water tight, and is offered for the severest duty in both public and private buildings.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

December 12, 13, 14, 16, 17 and 18.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE"
Portland Cement

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

THIS, the last full week of the calendar year, according to all prophecies, should be the ending of a period of financial stringency which has continued some eighteen months. We should know presently what to expect, whether the period of reaction is to be prolonged, or if we are really seeing the last of the bank crisis and its sequences; for the first ten days of January usually determine the course of business for a considerable portion of the ensuing year. Even with normal conditions the real estate market is dull in December usually, but after the holidays improves rapidly. If the month of January sees the usual rebound, the augury will be good for even a more prosperous era in real estate and building affairs than the previous one, which began in 1897 and was choked off in 1906—choked off, as is now known, by pernicious banking methods, and not terminated by any real exhaustion of resources or overproduction of material. The present case, therefore, differs from any preceding national panic and should not be attended by a similar sequence of events. The money which the banks of the city should have loaned to local business channels, and especially to real estate interests, was poured into Wall Street instead. Aside from the bank flurry, conditions have never been better in the United States than they are now, certainly not in New York; but something is fundamentally wrong with a banking system which allows, yet does not through its workings, directly cause, these periodical panics. In Canada there has been nothing of the sort in thirty years, while this country has passed through three or four. The harm done to young business men from being turned back in their careers by recurring financial eclipses cannot be expressed in words or set down in figures. After the experience which the banks and investors have had this year in Wall Street there ought not to be much difficulty hereafter in getting money for building loans and permanent real estate mortgages, and this is the belief with which the allied interests approach the new year.

IS the City being trifled with by public service corporations? Several cases that have recently been exposed to public view are rather confirmatory of this suspicion. For a while the Steinway (or Belmont) tunnel projection seemed to be running away with a franchise for a transportation line without making a proper settlement with the city. For some years the New York Central Railroad Company has been using portions of Twelfth avenue without taking the trouble to inquire what the rent might be, or to make any payments at all to the City for the use of lands which are unquestionably the property of the municipality. Again, it transpires that two railroad corporations chartered to compete for local traffic with existing railroad systems from the Harlem River to the State line are actually owned or controlled by one of these existing systems, with the probabilities strong that one of the projects, the New York, Westchester & Boston, has been for several years engineered in the interests of the corporation which now avowedly controls all the roads, unknown to the public. At any rate, the termination of the long and circuitous proceedings in which the projects for the construction of one or more high-speed electric railroads into the northern suburbs is into the financial arms of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, with prophecies decidedly against any new road whatever being built. For several years the Borough of the Bronx and the adjoining county of Westchester have based large anticipations upon assurances of the completion of at least one of the two projects, it did not matter which, but whatever may be the result now, since the New Haven president has openly admitted his control of both lines through the media of the Millbrook Company, it is apparent that the advantages which property interests expected to follow from a promised competition will not arise under any circumstances which the New York & New Haven can dominate. So numerous have been the disappointments to the public under the head of transportation, the impulse is strong to advise investors never to believe until they see. Added to this present disappointment is the further circumstance that the official notice which has been served upon property owners that a railroad has been laid out from the Harlem River to the city line casts a certain cloud over the parcels affected, which makes the case all the more disagreeable when taken with the remoteness of the probability of the completion of either of the roads. When the application of the New York & Portchester Railroad Company for a change of route was made an express and authoritative denial was recorded at the same time that the Millbrook Company was in any way allied with the New York & New Haven Railroad, this denial being made to the representative of the Board of Estimate, as he has testified to in an official report. Under all the circumstances which confront real estate interests and citizens generally, they have need to gather up all the patience and loyalty that come from faith in American principles and wait for the time when the country will get back into "the old paths" and respect once again the old landmarks of truth and honesty.

The Annual Number of the Record and Guide Will Be Issued Next Week, Saturday, January 4.

It will be the Best Review of Real Estate and Building Conditions for the Year 1907.

Articles by the Leading Authorities on the Subjects Treated, with Numerous Illustrations.

A DECIDEDLY serious turn is given to the contemplation of the pollution of New ork Harbor and the Hudson River by a report from a committee of the Merchants' Association upon the sanitary conditions of the waterfront, together with studies of the consequences of these conditions upon the populations on the shores. Only a few observers of the steady process of contaminating the waters have considered it a present danger. For the most part people have regarded the subject with feelings similar to those with which they think of the time the land will be denuded of forests, as something not likely to arrive in their lifetime, and as nothing for them to worry about. They regret that the water of the river and harbor is not so pure as it was within their remembrance; that the fish are disappearing and that even the once blue waters of the central Hudson have become offensive to the eye and the nostrils and deadly to the taste. But, like the man who will not plant a tree because he cannot live to enjoy its shade, they think the case is not up to them and therefore dismiss it from their thoughts. But they cannot in truth give it the "go-by" much longer. Over five thousand cases of tyhoid and other intestinal diseases were reported in this city within a period of three months in this present year, and scientific investigation has actually traced the fecal bacteria in its course from the eddying masses floating on the surface of the river, or exposed on the shores near the outfall of sewers, to the family boards, in the homes of the people, throughout the city. It has long been contended that the discharge of sewage into the Hudson from the growing cities on its banks was only sentimentally objectionable, as the disease germs contained therein were rendered innocuous by the natural action of the moving waters; but the recent investigations of the Metropolitan Sewage Commission proved conclusively that the pollution never finds its way to the sea. On the contrary, it remains in the adjacent waters, much of it floating on the surface or exposed on the edges, to become breeding places for flies—the common house fly—which are causing, as we understand from this report, seven or eight thousand deaths in this city every year through the spread of intestinal diseases. Mosquitoes are not to be compared with flies as disseminators of disease. Deaths from malaria (the mosquito's specialty) numbered only fifty-two. The case against the fly has been conclusively proved; the time of the year at which it is most active and most numerous corresponds exactly with the time of the contracting of the diseases referred to. In one instance a fly captured in South Street last summer was found to be carrying over one hundred thousand fecal bacteria. The connection between the sordid deposits in the river and our homes has been detected and convicted. When these flies effect a lodgment in food intended for human consumption the evidence of the connection is plain to the intelligent mind. The consequences to humanity of the present method of disposing of sewage, with the eventual effect upon the value for residential purposes of land bordering on our shore drives, are also plain. Maps printed by the Merchants' Association show that deaths from intestinal diseases occur in greatest number within a few blocks of the river, and where the sewage conditions are worst. The morale is so plain it need scarcely be written: the time has come to adopt other and more sanitary and less destructive methods of sewage disposal.

Shall Church Property Be Taxed?

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

With the annual increase of assessed valuations of real estate in Greater New York, the higher tax rate for 1908 and the prospects of still higher rates to come, if pending and future improvements are to be finished and put through, the time must surely arrive soon, when we shall be confronted with a limitation. The question then, as well as now, will present itself—where future new taxable resources are to come from. The only exempt real estate in greater New York whether rightfully exempt or not, is that of the churches, with its $150,000,000 of assessed land value (the actual value of which is probably nearer $250,000,000), situated largely in the most favorable and valuable locations.

Shall this aggregation of real estate wealth, now untaxed, contribute its proportionate share towards easing the heavy burdens of taxation to the majority of property owners of this city, or shall it remain forever an incubus upon our taxables?

An equitable taxation of such property would greatly tend to solve the all-absorbing question of lower rents, not alone for apartment dwellers, but especially so to the tenement population—a question fast becoming a serious one for both landlords and tenants alike.

This great subject will have to be met sooner or later by our city requirements and its financial vicissitudes, and the sooner it is met face to face, the better for all concerned. We certainly are not prepared for conditions like those recently enacted and encountered by our sister Republic, France! Shall we have the courage to take this great question up, in a sober and clear businesslike manner and discuss it in such a way?

The Furniture of the Plaza.

Perhaps no man, aside from Mr. Beinecke and Mr. Sterry, has taken more of a personal interest in the interior decorations of the new Plaza Hotel than E. F. Pooley, of the Pooley Furniture Co. Long before actual work had begun on the present structure, one of his staff of designers made a tour of Europe, visiting the latest and best productions that Europe affords and thoroughly studying the points of fine furniture and decoration that the hotels of England, Germany, Austria, France and Italy have produced. So that when he himself went abroad with Mr. Hardenbergh, the architect, Mr. Beinecke and Mr. Sterry, he was able to be of valuable assistance to them in placing the Plaza on the high standard of artistic excellence which it now holds.

Mr. Pooley's judgment and taste can be seen in all the French furniture of the first floor, which was designed and made in Paris, says the Decorative Furnisher. The Pooley Furniture Co. stands in the foremost ranks of the manufacturing concerns of to-day, in equipment, staff and production, and with such monuments to its credit as the Plaza, Waldorf-Astoria, Hotel Manhattan, St. Regis and Knickerbocker, in New York; the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia, and the Fairmount in San Francisco, this concern should feel a just pride in the fact that it has been such a potent factor in the interior equipment of the country's representative hotels.

Laws Relating to Real Estate During 1907.

By WALTER LINDNER.

EACH year the law relating to real estate and to the methods of conveyancing undergoes some changes by legislation and the decisions of the courts. The attention of each legislature of this State is called to some amendments of the substantive law or in methods of procedure which appear to have been made necessary by difficulties in the examination of titles or because of changes in the conditions attaching to ownership of real property. Questions relating to taxation are always up for consideration and tinkering with the tax laws is continually going on. Real property as the principal subject of taxation under our system is often affected by the resulting enactments. Moreover the schemes of radicals who seem to seek to effect change merely for its own sake are always coming up. A consideration of the year's changes in the law relating to conveyancing involves not only examination of the laws of the session of 1907, but also of the decisions affecting rights in or settling uncertainties in the law relating to real property.

WALTER LINDNER.

Among the laws of 1907 of general interest to real estate owners and those dealing with it are the following:

Foremost in interest is Chapter 340, being amendments to the mortgage tax law. The most important of these permit bringing old mortgages under the mortgage tax law to make them exempt from other taxation, and the recording of correction and supplemental mortgages without requiring the payment of additional tax.

Chapter 628 directs the appointment of a commission by the Governor to investigate the Torrens system of title registration and to report on it and on any other amendments to the law relating to title to real property which may appear advisable. This commission has been appointed, has held several public hearings and is now considering the subjects committed to its charge.

Chapter 669 amends the "Personal Property Law" in such manner as to make clear the right of trustees to purchase guaranteed mortgages and to allow a premium at a rate not exceeding one-half of one per cent. per annum to be retained by the guarantor.

Chapter 207 amended by Chapter 559 adds a new section to the "Executive Law," under which instruments acknowledged before a notary public and intended to be recorded in the same county, if that county have a register, may not be accepted by that officer unless the notary shall have filed with the register a certificate of his appointment and his autograph signature. If the principle of this law is good it stops far short of accomplishing what is necessary to make it an efficient safeguard.

Chapter 633 adds to the officers who may certify to the official character and genuineness of the signature of acknowledging officers of other States, officials of cities and parishes. If this law be further amended to cover the situation in the District of Columbia a frequent embarrassment to passing titles will be obviated without destroying any necessary safeguards.

Chapter 49 amends the Code of Civil Procedure, so that now the proceedings to sell lands of infants or incompetents may be employed to obtain a release of the possibility that land will revert after breach of a condition, without the necessity of first breaking the condition.

Discharges of mortgages are the subject of three laws, Chapters 289, 621 and 347. The first of these extends the proceedings under which in the case of satisfaction the production of lost mortgages may be dispensed with to include those which are mutilated or from which the signatures have been removed. The second dispenses with the necessity of conducting such a proceeding where the mortgage covers land in more than one county and the mortgage has been discharged in another county and returned to the recording officer of the county where first discharged. The third of these laws directs a recording officer to furnish a certificate of discharge when required.

Chapter 302 adds Section 205A to the Charter of the City of New York and permits the Sinking Fund Commission with the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to exchange lands of the city no longer required for a public purpose for other land in the same borough needed for public purposes.

A number of decisions of the courts have been handed down during the year affecting dealings in and owners of real estate. Some of these will be of interest to the readers of this paper.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Schedule of Charges, A. I. A.

At the recent convention of the American Institute of Architects the committee on the revision of the schedule of charges submitted a report, of which the following is the essential portion. The revisions are here set down in detail in a column parallel with the present paragraphs they are intended to replace. The remainder of the paper is unchanged.

PROFESSIONAL PRACTICE OF ARCHITECTS AND SCHEDULE OF USUAL AND PROPER MINIMUM CHARGES.

| Present Reading. | Proposed Substitutions. |
| The architect's professional services consist in making the necessary preliminary studies, working - drawings, specifications, large-scale and full-sized details, and in the general direction and supervision of the work, for which the minimum charge is 5 per cent. upon the cost of the work. | The architect's professional services consist of the necessary preliminary conferences and studies, working-drawings, specifications, large-scale and full-size details, and in the general direction and supervision of the work, for which except as hereinafter mentioned, the minimum charge is 5 per cent. upon the total cost of the works executed under his direction. |
| For new buildings costing less than $10,000, and for furniture, monuments, decorative and cabinet work, it is usual and proper to charge a special fee in excess of the above. | For residential work the minimum charge, except as hereinafter mentioned, is 10 per cent. upon the first $20,000 of cost, 8 per cent. upon the next $10,000, and 6 per cent. upon the remainder of cost in excess of $30,000. |
| For alterations and additions to existing buildings, the fee is 10 per cent. upon the cost of the work. | For all new works other than residential, costing less than $10,000, for alterations and additions to existing buildings, for landscape architecture, and for furniture, monuments, decorative and cabinet work, the minimum charge is 10 per cent. In many instances 10 per cent. is not remunerative and it is usual and proper to charge a special fee in excess thereof. |
| Consultation fees for professional advice are to be paid in proportion to the importance of the questions involved. | Consultation fees for professional advice are to be paid in proportion to the importance of the questions involved and services rendered. |

None of the charges above enumerated covers alterations and additions to contracts, drawings and specifications, nor professional or legal services incidental to negotiations for site, disputed party walls, right of light, measurement of work, or failure of contractors. When such services become necessary, they shall be charged for according to the time and trouble involved.

Where heating, ventilating, mechanical, electrical and sanitary problems in a building are of such a nature as to require the assistance of a specialist, the owner is to pay for such assistance. Chemical and mechanical tests, when required, shall be paid for by the owner.

Drawings and specifications, as instruments of service, are the property of the architect.

The architect's payments are due as his work progresses in the following order: Upon completion of the preliminary sketches, one-fifth of the entire fee; upon completion of working drawings and specifications, two-fifths; the remaining two-fifths being due from time to time in proportion to the amount of work done by the architect in his office and at the building.

Until an actual estimate is received, the charges are based upon the proposed cost of the work, and payments are received as instalments of the entire fee, which is based upon the actual cost to the owner of the building or other work, when completed, including all fixtures necessary to render it fit for occupation. The architect is entitled to extra compensation for furniture or other articles purchased under his direction.

If any material or work used in the construction of the building be already upon the ground or come into the owner's possession without expense to him, its value is to be added to the sum actually expended upon the building before the architect's commission is computed.

In case of the abandonment or suspension of the work, the basis of settlement is as follows: Preliminary studies, a fee in accordance with the character and magnitude of the work; preliminary studies, working drawings and specifications, three-fifths of the fee for complete service.

The supervision of an architect (as distinguished from the continuous personal superintendence which may be secured by the employment of a clerk of the works) means such inspection by the architect, or his deputy, of work in studios and shops, or of a building or other work in process of erection, completion or alteration, as he finds it necessary to ascertain whether it is being executed in conformity with his drawings and specifications or directions. He is to act in constructive emergencies, to order necessary changes and to define the true intent and meaning of the drawings and specifications, and he has authority to stop the progress of the work and order its removal when not in accordance with them.

On buildings where the constant services of a superintendent are required, a clerk of the works shall be employed by the architect at the owner's expense. Respectfully submitted,

EDGAR V. SEELER, Chairman.
WM. RUTHERFORD MEAD,
JOHN M. CARRERE,
JOHN LAWRENCE MAURAN.

Mr. Almirall on the Building Outlook.

Raymond F. Almirall, architect, 51 Chambers street, has optimistic views of the outlook for the building trades:

"The mere statement that the present value of buildings in course of erection is less than it was a year, two years or three years ago, does not in my opinion sum up the situation," said Mr. Almirall.

"There has been during the past few years a marked increase, as every one knows, in the number of buildings erected from year to year. Building activity has endeavored to keep pace with enormous business expansion. It would hardly have been reasonable to expect this increase to have continued indefinitely. The building industry is so intimately dependent upon the commercial activity of the country that it must constantly adjust itself to current requirements. Business expansion, having now progressed to a point where it is capable of meeting all demands upon it, ceases, though there may be no diminution of business. So, without any retrograde movement whatever, there is an apparent lull in the so closely correlated enterprise known as 'building operations.'

"Your question as to why work 'sags' in New York and not elsewhere almost answers itself. This city, being the pulse of the country's circulation, is naturally the first to respond to an advance, as it is the first to give indication that the requirements of the present day business have been caught up with. Building-cost is like everything else in its relation to supply and demand. When the demand for new buildings was abnormally great our capitalists cared less about the high cost of materials and labor. Now that the conditions have dropped back to a more nearly normal level we look more closely into the question of cost and profit in building operations. The market price of supplies can hardly follow so quickly a contraction in investment enterprises, and considering present demand, prices are high. In my opinion they will gradually drop to a point which will bring 'building costs' down to a figure at which profit will be found in building enterprises, as yet impossible to undertake.

"Therefore, I believe the whole question capable of self-adjustment. Purveyors of building materials and contractors who have sprung into mushroom-like growth, will drop back into the obscurity from whence they came. Building operations will go on as long as there is capital to be invested. Our merchants do not anticipate disaster because the day after Christmas shows trade dropping back to the normal level of three months before. Why, then, should we who are interested in building work, expect anything more or less than a return to the conditions of ordinary activity?"

Mr. Hopper on the New Building Code.

Hon. Isaac A. Hopper, president of the Building Trades Employers' Association, when called to his feet by Chairman Griffenhagen, told the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen last Friday that some three years ago he had while Superintendent of Buildings, called the Borough President's attention to the necessity of revising and recodifying the Building Code, and also called his attention to the provisions of the charter that regulated the details of the work.

Mr. Hopper said he had not yet read a copy of the proposed new code, but had heard different parts of it freely discussed at the office of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and had heard many substantial objections raised to different parts. From the description and the criticisms he was fully satisfied that there was much room for improvement.

Mr. Hopper further stated that as three years had been spent since the Borough President's attention had been called to the necessity of the work, he felt that the matter was of so much importance to financial, real estate, business and public interests that it should not be pushed or rushed to completion without a careful consideration of each and every part of it.

Convention of Cement Users.

The fourth annual convention of the National Association of Cement Users will be held on January 20 to 25, in the old 65th Regiment Armory in Buffalo. A feature of the convention will be an exhibition of machinery and cement products. The opening session of the convention will be held at 10 o'clock on January 24, and the meeting will close with the evening session of January 24. The following are the officers of the Association: Richard L. Humphrey, Harrison Building, Philadelphia, Pa. president; Merrill Watson, 225 Fifth avenue, New York, first vice-president; M. S. Daniels, 24 State street, New York, second vice-president; O. U. Miracle, Minneapolis, Minn., third vice-president; A. Monsted, Milwaukee, Wis., fourth vice-president; H. C. Turner, 11 Broadway, New York, treasurer; D. H. Lewis, 760 Main street, Buffalo, New York, manager fourth convention.

Cement in Foreign Countries.

CANADA.—A summary of the mineral production of Canada for 1906, issued in advance of the annual report of the Geological Survey of Canada, states that the total quantity of Portland cement made in Canada in 1906 was 2,152,562 barrels, as compared with 1,541,568 barrels in 1905, an increase of 610,994 barrels, or 39.6 per cent. The total sales of Portland cement were 2,119,764 barrels as compared with 1,346,548 barrels in 1905, an increase of 773,216 barrels, or 57.4 per cent. Fifteen companies were operating plants in Canada during 1906, and four more were added this year. The average price per barrel at the works in 1906 was $1.49 as compared with $1.42 in 1905. The imports of Portland cement into Canada in 1906 were 694,503 barrels, valued at $778,706, an average of $1.12 per barrel. The duty is 12½ cents per hundred pounds, and the barrels of cement are reckoned at 350 pounds each. Very little cement is exported from Canada.

GERMANY.—The cement industry has had two profitable years in Germany, as compared with the previous four or five years.

This increase was due, first, to the building activity throughout the country; second, to steadiness in prices; and third, to the increase in exports of cement to the United States by reason of the demand for cement on the western coast. The San Francisco and the Valparaiso earthquakes were important factors in creating a foreign market for German cements.

There are in all 320 cement mills in Germany, of which 117 manufacture Portland cement. The business is overcrowded, and the margin of profit small. In Berlin cement is often sold at a profit of only 50 pfennigs (11.9 cents) per barrel to the manufacturer. In 1906 prices in that city averaged about $1.35 per barrel of 170 kilograms or 375 pounds, including packing.

Germany has pushed her export trade into far-off markets, and now has direct communication with many of them in steamers flying her own flag. British and Dutch South Africa, Portuguese East Africa, British Molucca, Dutch India, China, France, Norway, Sweden, Russia, Mexico and both coasts of South America, British India, Hongkong, Kamerun, Australia, and the Philippines are all countries wherein German cement is marketed.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Since the San Francisco earthquake the demand for cement has been very large, and it is difficult to fill orders now, as the supply is running short. The demand for British cement on the Pacific coast for the five years has been light, and the British consul at San Francisco states that the cement trade there has during recent years been largely captured by Belgium and Germany.

SOUTH AFRICA.—This country has presented, since the British occupation, one of the best markets in the world for cement, because of the new activity in the public works department. During the past few years importations of cement have not fallen much short of $1,000,000, and in 1903 the records show $2,500,000 worth of cement imported into South Africa. America has had a very minor part in supplying this demand.

Before 1898 the United Kingdom furnished the bulk of all cement to Africa; but with the subsidizing of steamship lines, and cheap rates to seaports in Germany, that country began to supply cement and acquired about 16 per cent. of the South African trade. In 1902 Belgium and Denmark began to compete, and the list was as follows: United Kingdom, 43.4 per cent.; Germany, 37.2 per cent.; Belgium, 18 per cent., and the remaining 1.4 per cent. was divided between Denmark and other European countries, the United States not competing at all.

The one cement factory in South Africa is situated just outside Pretoria, and was a failure up to a year ago, when an American was placed in charge of it. An American kiln was immediately substituted for the one formerly used, and other American ideas were adopted. The result in 1905 was a production of 75,000 barrels of cement, which was marketed in Pretoria at $6.08 per barrel, and many times that quantity could have been sold in Johannesburg alone. The capacity of this factory is to be trebled, and other mills are being planned for location in the Orange River colony near Johannesburg.

Contract Work to be Brisk Next Year.

"My personal opinion is that the present dullness is apt to continue in New York City for six or eight months, and that the resumption will be fairly active as soon as the natural conditions again prevail," remarked Architect Robert D. Kohn, of 170 Fifth avenue. "It appears to me that the building trades have been affected as much as they are by the financial difficulties of the local market because of the very high price of building previous to the stringency. As a result, building investments have not paid as they ought on the original cost, and consequently are not attractive to the public.

"Our experience of the last few weeks is that contract work is coming more nearly down to a proper and reasonable basis, and it would now be profitable for people owning real estate to improve it in the coming year, and so be ready to meet the new demand that is sure to come with the change in conditions."

Imitation of Hardwoods.

During the last few years the great increase in the price of hardwoods used in the manufacture of furniture has created a strong demand for wood which can be used in imitation of high-priced hardwoods. The two woods that are most often successfully imitated are mahogany and oak, particularly the quartered oak in the golden and darker finishes. Almost without exception, the manufacturer markets these imitations either as imitations or under some registered trade name, and does not pretend to deceive his customers.

For imitating mahogany, cherry was formerly used almost entirely, but the diminished supply and the increased price of this wood have led the manufacturers to seek a wood which would lend itself more readily to the stain than cherry and, at the same time, show the grain and hold the gloss. For these reasons birch, especially curly birch, maple, beech and gum are extensively used for all parts of furniture, says the Decorative Furnisher. Even in the better grades of mahogany furniture, birch and maple stained to a mahogany finish are often used for the posts and frames, while genuine mahogany, in the form of veneer, is used for panels, tops and rolls.

In making imitation quartered oak, almost any wood can be used, since in this case the original grain or the wood is first covered with a "filler" and then the quartering is printed on in dark ink by the impression of acutal quartered oak rolls or by a transfer from quartered oak prepared by special processes. The kinds of wood commonly used for this work are birch, maple, poplar and plain sawed oak. After the wood has been finished and polished, the imitation appears so real that only an expert can detect the difference.

National Convention of Builders.

A movement which is being supported by certain eastern Builders' Exchanges and journals has for its object a national convention to be held in Washington in March. This convention is being promoted largely on the open-shop principle. It has as its leading advocate, Mr. Edwin S. Williams, of Scranton, Pa., the president of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges. It is proposed that the various exchanges of the country send delegates to Washington to represent them and that these delegates lay the foundation for a broad and influential organization extending to all the States.

New Catalogues.

SPECIFICATIONS OF THE CLINTON FIREPROOFING SYSTEM.—By the Clinton Wire Cloth Company, No. 1 Madison av.

This catalogue shows the characteristics of a number of different methods of constructing floor and roof arches and ceilings. A feature of the Clinton Fireproofing System is its flexibility, whereby it can be adapted to meet any requirements. From the short, heavy span to hold the heaviest machinery, to the long spans for warehouses, depots, schools and dwellings, there is no style of floor or roof where the use of Clinton Welded Wire does not offer special advantages. Whether a plain ceiling, or an artistically formed ceiling is desired, the Clinton Fireproofing System fulfills the conditions better than any other. Clinton Welded Wire reinforcing is largely in use at the present time. On pages 8 and 9 of the catalogue is a concise table which will be found of value by engineers and architects when preparing specifications.

TWENTIETH CENTURY HARDWARE.—From the Columbian Hardware Co., Cleveland, O., manufacturer of spring hinges and hardware specialties.

Formerly the double acting hinge was produced by the use of two pairs of single-acting hinges and a strip of wood—one pair set to swing the door in, the other to swing it out, until finally a carpenter conceived the idea of riveting together the flanges of two pairs of hinges, and thus was produced, in a rough manner, a double-acting spring hinge. This idea was quickly taken up, and has developed into the neat appearing hinge of to-day. The American Double-Acting Spring Hinge was the first made under the new plan, and during these forty odd years it has continued in use to a large extent. Architects specify American hinges on doors where hinges are required to do hard work, on buildings such as banks, libraries, and public buildings of all kinds, where the doors are constantly in use. A modified form of the American was soon after placed upon the market, under the name of "The Gem," and it also is having a very large and increasing sale, even up to these years.

WATER LIFTED BY COMPRESSED AIR.—From the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company. This catalogue serves to convey a general idea of the possibilities of compressed air for pumping water, and to outline the general conditions to be met. During recent years much progress has been made in the art of pumping water by compressed air. At first all systems for lifting water or liquids by compressed air were admitted to be extravagant, but with a large experience now behind us, and with marked improvements in air compressor economy, the air lift has made strides.

Speaking generally, the average cost per thousand gallons pumped depends on the size of plant and height of lift. In a 4,000,000-gallon plant, with a 50-foot lift, it is about 1-3c. per 1,000 gallons. In a larger plant, with a 35-foot lift, with coal at $2, it is about 1½ mills. In another case, where the lift is 75 feet and the capacity 1 1-3 million gallons, the cost is 1c. per 1,000 gallons, coal costing $2. In a plant pumping 3,000,000 gallons 75 feet high, the cost is 4.5c., and where the lift is 50 feet, 3.5c. In Pennsylvania, a plant giving 175 gallons per minute at 75-foot lift, costs 1 1-3c. per 1,000 gallons. In a proposed municipal plant, 100,000,000 gallons per 24 hours, 50-foot lift, and with coal at $1.50 a ton, the cost figured 1 mill or 1-10c. per 1,000 gallons, including all fixed and operating expenses.

Points on the Material Market.

Stetson, Cutler & Redmond quote spruce lath at $3 to $3.25 to dealers.

The president of the International Paper Co. is quoted as saying that the 1908 range of prices for paper will average fully 20 per cent. above that of 1907, which means an increase of 20 per cent. in gross sales for his company, even if they do not manufacture a ton more of paper than during the present year. And yet there are people who wonder why it is that the publisher insists on getting the money for all the papers he sends out.

The "Cement Age" calls attention to the dissolution of the Western Cement Association as an indication of how generally Portland cement has displaced the natural cements. The Western Cement Association represented the Louisville mills and when it was formed "the great American market was practically divided between the Louisville and Rosendale districts, which manufactured natural cement of the best quality and of which many enduring monuments of engineering skill have been built." Rosendale is the district along Rondout Creek in the neighborhood of Kingston, which formerly furnished nearly all the cement used in this part of the country. The industry has been a diminishing one for a good while, though Rosendale cement is a reliable article.

Death of Ernest G. Stedman.

Ernest G. Stedman, vice-president and treasurer of the J. C. Lyons Building and Operating Co., which went into the hands of a receiver last week was killed by a subway train at the 14th st station last Thursday. For some days prior to his death Mr. Stedman had complained of ill health. It is thought by members of his family that he had a sudden attack of vertigo, as he fell headlong on the track in front of the train. It is reported that Mr. Stedman lost $500,000 by the recent failure, besides having endorsed notes for the Lyons company for about half a million dollars.

—In many cases the (new) lofty buildings are protected and isolated by their own surrounding property, but already in the case of the Singer Building the growth of the huge City Investing Company's Building has amalgamated itself with it, and as the white trimmings of the Singer Tower accords fairly well with that of its aspiring neighbor, the composite architecture is not without attraction, especially when viewed from a North River ferryboat. In fact, the January Architectural Record says, that for appearance sake, the architect of the Investing Building might have dispensed with a broken skyline for the Singer Tower supplies this gratis for all time.

Bulletin of the Tenement House Department.

Bulletin No. 19.—Where in tenement houses erected prior to April 12, 1901, the construction of entrances to stores and apartments, and of store windows, is of such a character that the lowest balcony of the front fire escapes is somewhat slightly in excess of 14 ft. above a safe landing place, and the circumstances are such that the standard landing balcony or landing grating cannot (in the opinion of the Commissioner or the Deputy Commissioner) be provided without serious interference with the ingress and egress to the building and stores, the department will permit, in lieu of such landing platform or landing grating, the use of a special type of drop ladder, exceeding 14 ft. in length but constructed in accordance with the specifications provided by the department to meet each such condition, said ladders in no case to exceed in weight the weight of the maximum length standard drop ladder, as outlined in section 12 of the Tenement House Act.

Such drop ladders will not be permitted on tenement houses erected since the passage of the Tenement House Act, or on existing tenements which have been or are hereafter altered in such a manner as to produce conditions such as above described.

EDMOND J. BUTLER, Commissioner.

System M Ahead of Expectations

A very few weeks ago there appeared on this page a photograph and description of the same job which is here again displayed in a new picture showing the building about completed. Under the first photo there was a statement that this would be a "winter job" and an invitation for interested parties to "watch it." The work had at that time progressed but little above the first tier at one end and at the other an almost uncontrollable supply of water in the foundations was encountered, rendering progress very speculative. Serious delays where caused by this condition and weeks of valuable time lost. The evidence is here in this picture that, despite these difficulties, with System M construction the lost time was fully made up, and we are compelled now to ask the public to watch our other winter work and see how uninterruptedly it will proceed.

The suspension of all building in Greater New York and other places caused Haverstraw brickmakers to nail up their sheds and tie up their boats and "wait till the clouds rolled by." The Haverstraw "Messenger" says: "We have quite some brick along the shore on account of no shipping, but the brick storing yards in the city and also stacks surrounding new buildings are missing and will soon have to be replaced by the brick which are stored in our sheds. The loading of all the empty boats along the shore will take about 25,000,000, and the yards and docks in the cities will soon be filled up with good Haverstraw hards which are now being loaded along our shore. The days of making more brick than the market needs are gone by, not only on the Hudson, but all over."

Three hundred houses have been erected in these towns in the last twelve months at an aggregate cost of $1,200,000. ## The Week.

The week just past in the realty field was dull and uninteresting, the number of transactions reported being small and on a whole unimportant. There are several good sized deals under way which undoubtedly will be put through as soon as things loosen up a little. Brokers as a general rule are looking forward to a better year in 1908 than they experienced in the one just passed. There are several good reasons why they should have better expectations. The fact that the title companies are furnishing guaranteed searches to members of the bar representing clients with money to loan on mortgages, shows that the mortgage market is beginning to look up. It will only be a short time before all the foreclosure sales will be out of the way and the property placed in hands strong enough to hold on indefinitely, if necessary, and receive good returns in the form of rentals. Why should the realty field expect to entirely escape the depression that has been noted already in both Wall street and the mercantile field?

To be sure the placing of money in real estate is much safer than the investments afforded in the "street," and as a result there are correspondingly less failures. Still there are weak holders of property. Because a piece of property is foreclosed it does not mean that the value of it has been lessened. Doesn't it rather show that the owner has over speculated? Many of the parcels foreclosed have been unimproved property, and others uncompleted houses which are not yielding returns. In a few cases houses that were finished were sold at auction, but those buildings were well occupied in almost every instance, and in ordinary times would have carried themselves nicely. If an individual requires money immediately, especially at a time when there is a shortage of this commodity, and determines to realize on something, whether stocks, jewelry, real estate or anything else, he must be prepared and willing to accept a figure less than its real worth.

Among those houses sold during the week just passed was a 4-sty tenement, No. 389 Canal st, 21.4x76.8. A 5-sty flat, 443 West 52d st, 25x100, was also disposed of as well as 530 and 532 West 133d st, two 4-sty flats, 35x99.11. The Bronx contributed a trade of a 5-sty flat on 165th st for which 4 lots on East 182d st were given as well as a number of smaller deals.

The mortgage market was inactive. The Apartment Construction Company borrowed from the Seaman's Bank for Savings, on 810 Broadway, 114.9x irregular, $140,000, at 5 per cent for five years. Julia Taggart gave a mortgage to the Monticello Realty Company for $60,000 at 6 per cent. on property situated on Audubon av southwest cor of 178th st, 189.10x100, and Audubon av, southwest cor 177th st, 199.11x100. This mortgage is due on demand. There were but few leases reported during the week, and none had special significance.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week is 105 against 165 last week, and in the Bronx 79, as against 80 last week. The total amount involved is $2,135,361, as against $3,151,231 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 25, of which 5 were below 59th st, 14 above and 6 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE feature of the auction market of the week just passed was the small number of parcels offered for sale. All told there were only eleven advertised for sale, and a number were adjourned to a future date. The parcel that attracted the most interest was put up at the stand of Joseph P. Day on Monday last. This is known as the Hotel Severance, and is situated on the southeast corner of Broadway and 94th st, 83x irreg. This sale was the outcome of an action brought by Bradley & Currier Co. against A. E. Bingham et al. The amount due was $12,002.70, taxes, etc., $17,406.66; subject to a mortgage of $230,000. This apartment hotel went to the plaintiff for $261,667. At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Tuesday, Charles E. Levy purchased for $35,006 the northeast cor of Columbus av and 109th st, 100x irreg., two 6-sty flats and stores. The elevated railroad makes the curve into 8th av at this point. Mr. Levy also purchased 50x72 on Cathedral Parkway, south side, 175 feet west of Manhattan av, a 6-sty flat, for $23,532. The 6-sty flat and store in 116th st, 256 feet east of Park av, was knocked down to H. H. Jackson, the plaintiff, for $52,000.

At the stand of Hugh D. Smyth on Thursday three lots on Walton av, 176.7 feet north of Burnside av, were knocked down to the plaintiff, S. E. Osserman, for $8,800, and on the same day at the stand of Joseph P. Day, Charles M. Rosenthal bought for $46,750 a vacant plot measuring 150x125, in Mount Hope pl, 125 ft east of Jerome av.

There were no voluntary sales during the week, for people have realized that it is best to hold over for a few months where it is possible because they are confident that better prices will be received in the spring of next year.

Negotiable Titles.

By FRANCIS C. NICHOLAS.

DURING a series of explorations in tropical countries I had occasion to investigate the titles to a series of properties and came across a very interesting method of co-operative real estate ownership, one that seems peculiarly adapted to operations of development, particularly in regard to wild lands, timber properties and the like. I found the titles to the properties to be examined consisted of a series of shares or "acciones," as they were called in the country where the lands were located. The property was a very large one and was organized on rather loose lines, a majority of the shareholders being in absolute control. The other properties were organized more throughly and an elaborate system of land shares had been developed and was generally in use throughout Spanish countries. Under this plan a property is held in common, each share representing so much of the land and giving the owner the right to occupy the portion represented by his share. The owners were entitled to occupy so long as it suited their convenience, and were the owners of their improvements; on vacating the lands any other shareholder could occupy them. The lands were used largely for grazing purposes, each shareholder keeping a certain amount of stock on the property, the position being somewhat similar to that formerly accepted among the cattlemen on the public ranges of the United States where each grazed his cattle and drove them about at his pleasure. In the case which I had to examine there was this important difference, the shareholders only had the right to use the lands for grazing, and the shares were considered a very valuable asset. If any one in that region wished to graze cattle all he had to do was to buy or rent a certain number of shares, so many head of cattle being allowed to an acre, and the shareholder could pasture the number of cattle to which he might be allowed in accordance with the number of his shares. This was a very simple organization. I found others which were more elaborate, where there was co-operation among the owners and dividends were paid on the shares, so that they were held for investment, as well as for the benefits of owning real estate.

The plan seemed one of perfect co-operation between land owners and those who would operate property. The plan of procedure in organizing a land share estate is about as follows: A piece of property which is thought desirable is purchased, it is then registered as having been placed in a land share estate and the rights to which each share may be entitled are recorded. The shares are then issued and are transferrable the same as a certificate of stock, in fact they constitute a certificate of stock, but the property which they represent cannot be mortgaged, sold, or disposed of, though each individual may do as he pleases with his shares—sell, mortgage, or rent them as he may see fit. Usually an administration board is elected by the shareholders, and if it is to be a full administrative land estate, this board manages the property and acts as a board of arbitration to settle disputes, etc.

The shareholders have two privileges, one of using the lands in co-operation with the administration board, and the other of receiving dividends out of a common fund, to which all contribute a certain portion of the product. It usually happens that of those who buy shares some wish to occupy the property and some simply wish to hold them for security and income, the investment value being that the dividends from the common fund are usually substantial. Those who occupy the lands are usually glad to contribute to this fund, because of the benefits of improvements from the money obtained from the sale of shares to those who buy for investment. Interested parties are always on the property, consequently the administration is good, and usually favorable results are obtained; in fact, it is always so, because all the natural products can be gathered and of the portion of cultivated products delivered to the common fund a just distribution is made; those living on this property see to this proper distribution, it being to their interest to do so.

A person occupying the lands has the benefit of co-operation with the administration, in the sale of his products, has the benefit of the money invested by those who simply hold their shares for investment, has an assurance of dividends on his own shares in common with all the others, resulting, that if his crops fail, some one else planting other materials and obtaining their products will have a successful crop, out of which there will be something for the common fund, against which all can draw.

This plan works so favorably in southern countries, and the land shares have such an excellent investment position that it seems worthy of attention in this country, as a means of making available for investment and speculation our immense stretches of inactive timber, mineral and agricultural lands. And further it seems probable that if the numerous land companies had been organized on these lines, so that those who bought the shares would have an actual hold on the property, the results would have been as favorable in our country as they have been in Spanish-American countries.

It is well known that lands cannot get away, but they are difficult to sell because of their immobility. A land share certificate seems to put lands in a very convenient position. All the security of real property is maintained, all the convenience of stock certificate is developed, and with an administration board to operate and take care of the lands they become increasingly valuable. There are some land share estates which have become so valuable that one share is looked on as a competency, and in southern countries land shares are considered the most conservative and profitable of all investments, being held in esteem similarly as we hold government bonds and the choicest gilt-edge securities.

"Prosperity Panic" a Boon to Realty Market.

In referring to the outlook of the real estate market Mr. Edward J. McCormack, of the McCormack Real Estate Company, said on Friday: "The wish is so often father to the thought, and real estate men are, of necessity, so generally optimistic, that sanguine opinions on the outlook, coming from real estate men, do not always receive the credence they deserve. During the past few weeks, however, encouraging statements on the outlook have been made by prominent real estate men whose character and business methods justify every confidence. One especially well-known man among them lately characterized the financial disturbance as a 'prosperity panic,' and he gave reasons for his opinion which forcibly established its soundness. There is one point, however, which has been, more or less, overlooked, and which, I think, adds another reason for the growing feeling of optimism concerning the outlook:

"I believe that our 'prosperity panic' has proven, metaphorically speaking, a clearing house for real estate propositions generally. What is more certain than that the sound real estate propositions, those backed up by the honest methods of honest men, have passed through the clearing house without other vital effect than that of being well rid of contemporaries whose methods have tended to destroy public confidence in the whole real estate field?

"There are, unfortunately, in the real estate field, as in other lines of business, unscrupulous men who prey upon the confidence of the investor. But I believe that the real estate business, particularly in New York City and vicinity, has been largely purged of the unscrupulous class. The result, then, cannot fail but be that confidence in real estate investment has been by just so much increased.

"The very details which enter into the sale of property, contracts, deeds, titles, transfers, are such that those who have made a practice of resorting to trickery in handling real estate have been effectually branded by the clarifying action of our 'prosperity panic,' and thrown, like bad checks, out of the clearing house, and discredited.

"Returning confidence in the money situation has already a forerunner in the evidences of quickly returning confidence in real estate values. I believe that nothing will have proved of so much benefit for some time to the real estate market than our 'prosperity panic,' and I make this strong assertion after close study and intimate knowledge of conditions.

"It is up to real estate men everywhere to so conduct their business as to justify continued and increased public confidence. This creed should be over the door of every real estate office in the country, and should be closely followed:

" 'We believe in what we are selling. We believe that honest goods can be sold to honest men by honest methods.' "

Laws Relating to Real Estate During 1907.

vendee are continually in the courts. Some of the questions arising under contracts which have been decided, are the following:

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the Second Department in the case of Woodenbury against Spear, decided very recently, and not yet reported, has held that violations noted in the books of the Tenement House Department are not encumbrances affecting marketability. Unless it be specified in the contract that premises are to be conveyed free of violations, under this decision no objection can be raised.

A purchaser at judicial sale will be released from his purchase if the property is affected by restrictive covenants not specified in the terms of sale. (Heim vs. Schwoerer, 115 App. Div., 295.)

Where a vendor agrees to convey by quitclaim deed, this does not mean that he is not agreeing to convey a good and marketable title; and if the title be not marketable the purchaser need not take. (Wallach vs. Riverside Bank, 119 App. Div. 238.)

If the vendor agrees to convey property by proper deed, although he tenders a conveyance containing the same description as that in the contract, if the boundaries of the property be uncertain, the purchaser is not required to take. (Wadick vs. Mace, 118 App. Div. 777.)

If the purchaser has a valid objection to the title it is not necessary that he make tender of performance on his part. (Lese vs. Lawson, 118 App. Div. 254.)

If a notice of lis pendens be filed against the property, that of itself does not make the title unmarketable. It is necessary to examine into the claim intended to be enforced, and if on the face of the notice and complaint the action cannot succeed, the lis pendens will not constitute a cloud on the title. (Baecht vs. Hevesy, 115 App. Div. 509.)

The relation of landlord and tenant has been passed upon as follows:

A covenant in a lease for its renewal from year to year making it practically a permanent lease, is enforceable. (Hoff vs. Royal Metal Co., 117 App. Div. 884.)

Where a lease has been terminated by summary or dispossess proceedings, the defendant, though relieved from liability to pay rent, is not released from action for damages on the covenant to pay rent. (Slater vs. Von Charus, 122 App. Div. 16.)

Where a lease contains a covenant against assignment, a reletting of the entire premises for the entire term is held by the Appellate Division to be equivalent to an assignment and to operate as a breach of the covenant. (Herzig vs. Blumenkrohn, N. Y. Law Journal, Dec. 14, 1907.)

An important decision relating to the Tenement House Law is that in People ex rel Gabriel vs. Butler, 115 App. Div. 655, to the effect that the provision of the Tenement House Law requiring an interior yard between houses on lots running from street to street has no application to a house built on one of two streets which come together at an acute angle, leaving space fronting on the other street for yard and light and air space.

The right of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the city to close streets without the matter being first passed upon by the local board of the district was adjudicated in Rice vs. City of New York, 188 N. Y., 58.

Of course, there have been a number of other decisions of more or less general interest, but it is impossible to enumerate any more in the space available for this article.

McCormack Realty Co. Plan Dinner at Shanley's.

President Edward J. McCormack and Vice-President D. Maujer McLaughlin, of the McCormack Real Estate Company, will follow their custom of several years of having their employees as their guests for an annual entertainment. The employees from each of the three New York City offices and from the suburban offices, from the departmental heads down to the smallest office boy, will be dined at Shanley's, 42d st and Broadway, Manhattan, at 6 o'clock on Dec. 28. From dinner, the party will go to the Knickerbocker Theater, where Victor Moore is playing in "The Talk of New York." Mr. Moore, who is interested in Long Island property, having early this month added to his realty holdings by purchases at the McCormack Company's development at Floral Park, will be among the guests at dinner. The guests number seventy-five. This is exclusive of the sales agents of the McCormack Company, who will be entertained by Mr. McCormack and Mr. McLaughlin at a stag to be given later in the winter.

Real Estate as a Business.

THE real estate business is unlike other kinds of business, in that it requires not merely ordinary business training, but a knowledge of matters which appertain specially to that business. A real estate agent should know not only what sales have been made that tend to fix prices, but what negotiations there have been. Not only must he judge of what land and houses are worth to-day; but he must be a good judge of what increase there will likely be in the value of the land, so that his client may profit by the labor of others.

He should thoroughly understand the equitable adjustment of the many differences that arise between buyer and seller, giving each a square deal. He should see that his customers, when buying property, get what legally belongs to them; and that when selling property they do not part with more than they know they are selling. He should realize thoroughly the importance of not tangling titles and know how to avoid doing so.

The real estate agent should know from practice how to draw all forms of contracts, deeds, bonds and mortgages, assignments of mortgages, leases, liens, etc., dates when taxes, water rates and assessments are due, and he should always advise the purchaser to have the titles searched by some competent lawyer or title company.

Many agents do not understand these matters, and consequently serious complications arise. No one would take a horse to a jeweler to be shod or a watch to a druggist to be repaired, and yet some people think that anyone can attend to the vastly more important matter of the purchase or sale of real estate. An illustration of the effect of oversight was related once in the New York "Times." A widow in Rochester, Ind., rented a property for a term of years and forgot to reserve the right of entrance through a hallway to rooms she retained upstairs. She had to pass through the tenant's parlor to get to the stairs. He therefore protested and later served her with a trespass notice, and she and her son now have to climb a ladder to the roof and enter through the attic.

To the person who has never bought property or been "stuck" all real estate men look alike; but as the widow discovered there is a wide difference between the agent who gives a real service and the agent who merely makes a commission.

At the closing of the title, the seller should exhibit his receipt for taxes and arrears of taxes and assessments if any. He should produce his fire insurance policy covering the improvements; if there is a mortgage on the property the holder of the mortgage should have the original policy and the buyer should receive a duplicate of it, allowances for the premiums should be calculated, and upon the closing of the title the new owner's name should be substituted for the old owner's name on both policies. When there is a mortgage receipt for the last payment of interest it should be submitted to the buyer.

In case of tenancy an assignment of the rents to the new owner should be obtained in writing, also assignment of the leases if any and the rents should be pro rated to date of the closing unless otherwise agreed upon. The buyer should be placed in possession of the property at the closing of the title.

Any and all charges against the property should be paid upon the closing of the title. Remember, that after the title is closed the buyer has recourse only to such warranty as is definitely recited in the deed. A bargain and sale deed gives no redress whatever as against the immediate grantor. A quit-claim deed conveys nothing; it only shows that some one who is not the owner relinquishes some real or alleged claim against the property. Finally, a sufficient title is not what a title company will always guarantee. All encumbrances against the property should be recited in detail in the conveyance, as it may be necessary to assume such encumbrances as part of the purchase price expressed in the deed.

When buying vacant land first find out if the land is free and clear, and if it is mortgaged ascertain how a release from the lien of the mortgage may be obtained; any agreement between you and the seller cannot change the conditions expressed in a mortgage covering the property; the mortgagee should be seen and his agreement taken in conjunction with the seller's agreement that the land shall be released from the mortgage upon payment of so much money, in accordance with the terms of the mortgage. When buying it is always best to engage the services of a good lawyer or the title company right from making of the contract, for the action of the lawyer or the title company is based on the contract. A good real estate man will shape the deal for the lawyer or title company to take hold of in good clean shape.

It takes a good many years of study and experience to develop a first class real estate agent, so he can earn money enough for himself and get money for his client.

Berkeley Heights, N. J. WILLIAM JEFFERY.

Joseph P. Day is going to sell at auction next month the 9-sty Hotel Marseille located at the southwest cor. of Broadway and 103d st, 100x120. This is to satisfy a judgment amounting to $66,000, secured by Joseph Hamerschlag against the Netherlands Construction Co. The property is subject to prior mortgages amounting to $638,716.12.

A Review of The Real Estate Year 1907

AND

A Forecast of the Year 1908

The Evening Post

last year, for the second time, devoted an entire section of its December 31st edition to an annual review and forecast of the Real Estate world, modelled after its famous financial review. It received such strong commendation that it was decided to make it a permanent feature of the last-day-of-the-year issue.

CONTENTS THIS YEAR

THE REAL ESTATE REVIEW will contain a complete exposition of all the features of the market of the last year, besides special articles in which public improvements and their relation to the market will be discussed at length. The activity of the year in each borough of New York City and the resultant growth will be treated in special chapters, while New Jersey, Connecticut, Long Island and Westchester County will each be dealt with under separate heads.

The private sales branch of the market and the auction room will be reviewed by experts who have played a leading part in the business of the last year. Special authoritative articles will appear in which the questions of mortgage conditions, land speculation, reconstruction, labor and material, rapid transit, and building loan operations will be discussed.

In this number will appear special articles by persons eminently qualified by experience to discuss local conditions, in which the future of the metropolitan real estate market will be treated from the standpoint of the investor, the builder, the speculator, the operator, and the mortgage lender. Many of the leading realty experts who aided in making successes of former Evening Post Real Estate Reviews will again be represented by interesting and valuable articles.

Copy for advertisements in order to obtain insertion in this section should be in hand by 2 P. M. Monday, December 30th. There will be no increase in the advertising rates for this issue; the usual card rates will prevail.

Who's Who in Real Estate.—V.

DOUGLAS ROBINSON has for years been closely identified with real estate in New York. Besides being the owner of a number of parcels in fee, he is interested in several other valuable holdings, the titles of which are vested in the names of realty corporations. Some time since the firm of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co. was incorporated with a capital of $200,000, to do a general real estate business. Mr. Robinson was elected president, Arthur W. Weed, secretary, and William R. Buchanan, treasurer. Besides these gentlemen the directorate includes Charles S. Brown, Lathrop Brown, Eugene S. Goadly, Kenneth D. Robinson, Arthur W. Francis, William H. Wheelock, Charles A. Cone and T. Douglas Robinson. This firm has three offices, one on lower Broadway, one in the central Fifth avenue section and the third on upper Amsterdam avenue.

DOUGLAS ROBINSON.

Mr. Robinson, it will be remembered, was appointed receiver in 1905 for the Merchants' Trust Company, which closed its doors shortly after the "Sully" corner in cotton. He subsequently was made one of the appraisers of the Equitable Life Assurance Society's properties. A short time since he received the appointment as one of the receivers for the New York City Railway Company, which is generally called the "Metropolitan Street Railway Company."

Among the companies he is interested in the following named ones deal in realty: President and director of the Douglas Land Company, and director in the Realty Associates and the Stuyvesant Real Estate Company. This last named corporation is the owner of several choice parcels in the "thirties," both east and west, besides owning downtown property.

The following list of properties as they appear in the Real Estate Directory will give an idea of Mr. Robinson's present holdings: Nos. 422 Madison avenue, 147 East Fourth street, 412 and 414 East Fifth street, 304 West Fourteenth street, 253 West Fourteenth street, 60 East 130th street, 54 East 130th street, 513 West 185th street. He is a party in interest in the northeast corner of Park avenue and Seventy-first street. He also owns a little strip of land only four feet wide and 125 feet deep on the east side of Park avenue, between Seventieth and Seventy-first streets.

Winner of a Prize House.

The prize house contest at Wood, Harmon & Co.'s South New York Addition No. 4 was announced on Monday afternoon. The winning reason had been selected from among eighteen of the over 1,000 submitted by an informal gathering of advertising men at a luncheon at Hahn's on Saturday afternoon. It was selected only after several ballots had been taken and a general discussion indulged in by those present, advocating the value of the reasons which had been voted for. The reason selected was found to have been sent in by Mr. Alexander Ritoff, 1128 Forty-fourth street, Brooklyn, and was as follows:

"Considering its cheapness, its distance from the business centre (8 1-2 miles), its transit facilities, the advantages of the building fund, and above all the fact of its BEING IN NEW YORK CITY, adding the reliability of Wood, Harmon & Co., South New York is an investment par excellence."

E. A. Turner leased for Mrs. Julia De Witt Thompson 33 West 28th st for a term of years to the Misses Voris, formerly of A. A. Vantine & Co.; also, for Henry Goodkind, a floor at 40 West 28th st, to A. Bjorek & Co., of Stockholm, Sweden, publishers of Swedish books; also, the third floor in the same building to A. L. Jones. Mr. Turner intends to remodel for a client the dwelling 75 Madison av, putting in stores on two floors, with bachelor apartments above.

Low Dutch Church Leases Holdings.

A. & M. Jacobs leased for the Reformed Low Dutch Church of Harlem to George B. Corsa, 126x150, at the northwest cor of 3d av and 121st st, for a term of 21 years with two renewals. For the first term the annual rental will be $16,000. The same brokers have also secured a building loan of $50,000 from the church for the lessee, and the entire plot will be improved immediately with a store and office building. The ground has been owned by the church since 1660. A building that was long occupied by Cowperthwait & Sons stood on the plot until last January, when it was destroyed by fire.

SUBURBAN.

Staten Island Acreage Resold.

ANNADALE, S. I.—The property of the Edgar Estate on the Annadale Road, Staten Island, sold last summer by Cornelius G. Kolff, has been resold by the same broker to Charles I. Minkoff of Manhattan. The property consists of a 10-acre plot on the west side of Annadale Road, near Washington av.

Interesting Sale in Noroton, Conn.

NOROTON, CONN.—Archibald C. Foss sold for Harvey N. Weed a tract of about 10 acres at Noroton, Conn. An interesting feature of this transaction is that the property has been uninterruptedly in the possession of Mr. Weed's family since colonial days. In 1766 Hezekiah Weed added to the land he then owned by purchasing about seven acres from Jonathan Clock. The consideration was £53 3s. 1½d., and Mr. Weed has the original deed. With the exception of several pieces taken by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad for railroad purposes and by the town for a highway, the town records show no changes in the ownership since the above date.

Demand for Maps in Queens.

A communication from President Bermel of Queens to the Board of Estimate requesting an issue of $306,508 corporate stock for the purpose of preparing and completing maps and monuments in Queens Borough is but a continuation of the work which has been rapidly pushed for two or three years past by Engineer Robert Crowell, in consultation with Chief Engineer Nelson Lewis of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, says the Flushing Journal. The city allowed $260,000 last year for this work out of the bond issues and $42,000 out of the budget for street opening proceedings. Seventy-five men are employed at present on street opening proceedings and there is an urgent demand for more, even to keep abreast of the tide of population and new buildings going up in all sections of the borough.

The situation to-day is most acute in the East Williamsburg and Maspeth sections, where from 300 to 400 streets, most of them largely built upon, are awaiting a legal opening in order that grading, sewers, paving and other needed improvements may be carried out.

One hundred and fifty men are working, also, at surveying the unmapped territory of the borough and laying out a comprehensive and scientific system of highways based upon the needs of through and local traffic.

The work of the remaining section of the town of Newtown, comprising the northerly portion of the town, including about 8,000 acres, and the villages of Corona, Elmhurst and the Bowery Bay section, has been completed and the map is now before the Board of Estimate for adoption. The engineering corps is now working on the southerly portion of the town of Jamaica.

There has been little let up in building operations this year, and the total of new structures by the end of the year will exceed 4,200, costing $20,000,000, an increase of 25 per cent. over last year. This, it is claimed by real estate experts, will be largely increased in the year 1908 upon the completion and operation in May next of the Brooklyn extension of the underground rapid transit subway to the Flatbush avenue station of the Long Island Railroad, and the operation of surface cars and possibly elevated railroad trains over the Blackwell's Island bridge by some time next summer or early fall, the operation of a train service through the Belmont tunnel and the near approach to the operation of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Long Island Railroad tunnels, which will not be much later than March or April, 1909, will, it is alleged, make the year 1908 a record one for building in Queens.

It will be the policy of the topographical department to leave to the last the old settled villages, such as Jamaica and Flushing, where improvements are already in, to take up the newly developed territory. The next territory to be mapped after the completion of the westerly half of Jamaica will be the unimproved sections of the northerly half of the town of Flushing or Rockaway, where a comprehensive sewer system is greatly needed.

Real Estate Board of Brokers' Diary and Manual for 1908.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers has just published the Diary and Manual for 1908. This book in many ways is superior to any of its predecessors. It is of convenient size, enough page space being given to each day to allow for the jotting down of engagements, besides the important items for realty brokers being noted; such as when taxes are due and payable, legal holidays, etc. There is a fund of information in the front pages of the book, some 114 of them being devoted to matters of the greatest interest to anyone associated with real estate, whether as a broker or owner of property. Besides a list of officers, committees and members names, a fund of information is given under the heading "New York and Its Government." The city officials, their address, office hours, etc., are enumerated; "Reports from City Departments," including Park Department, Bureau of Buildings, Manhattan and Bronx, Health Department, Department of Docks and Ferries, are given in full. Much information for the benefit of taxpayers, including the tax rate, assessed valuations, building code requirements, tenement house laws, water rents and rules, dispossess proceedings, ward boundaries in Manhattan, distances in the City of New York, measurements in general use, the "Hofman" rule, title companies' rates, and many other things of great value will be found within its covers.

The volume is handsomely bound in red flexible leather and lettered with gold, which makes it ornamental as well as useful. Certainly the gentlemen who were instrumental in compiling so much information are to be congratulated and should have the thanks of every one interested in real estate in Manhattan.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

The Wisdom of Employing an Attorney When Selling Real Estate.

DURING the process of selling a piece of real estate, the following papers are usually employed: the contract of sale, the deed covering the premises, and in most instances one or more sets of bonds and mortgages. In some cases, at least, the title of the seller should be examined by his attorney. Each of the above will be more fully discussed hereafter.

In the first place, before the owner of a piece of property enters into an agreement to sell it, it is highly advisable that he first learn exactly the condition of the title to such property so that he may ascertain what kind of an estate he will be able to convey.

While this, of course, is not necessary where he shall have secured competent legal advice when buying the property and is entirely familiar with its title, yet in other cases such as where the premises have been inherited, a careful examination of the records affecting the premises in question should be made, otherwise the seller might find himself in the position of having agreed to convey premises in a case where there were outstanding claims against the title, which it would be impossible for him to remove. Many valid objections are brought to light by a careful examination of the title of land, of which the owner supposed he had good title and would not have hesitated to enter into an agreement to convey the same free and clear of encumbrances. It sometimes happens that the search discloses that he cannot convey an absolute fee simple, but the purchaser is willing to take such title as the seller can give for a somewhat less consideration. In such a case as this the seller, discovering the situation before entering into the contract, is able to dispose of his property without making himself liable for damages either for breach of his contract to convey or for a breach of the warranty in his deed.

Prevailing opinion to the contrary notwithstanding, it has always been my contention that the contract for the sale of real estate is equally as important as the deed by which the property is actually conveyed.

The seller is liable for damages for breach of a contract to convey just as he is liable on the breach of the covenant of warranty, or of any other covenant in the deed itself. While it is true that the contract does not need as accurate a description as should be inserted in the deed, yet, on the other hand, it frequently happens that the seller engages to convey a larger estate than he actually holds and it is often advisable that a survey be made so as to ascertain exactly the premises to which the seller has title.

A careful description of the encumbrances upon the premises should be inserted in the agreement of sale. Of these there are several kinds, viz., mortgages, restrictions, leases, etc. The mortgages should be clearly described and from the standpoint of the seller, particularly in the State of New York, the contract should contain an agreement that the purchaser will assume and agree to pay the mortgage as a part of the consideration of the deed. It is seldom possible to get the purchaser to assume the payment of a mortgage at the time of closing, unless it is so stipulated in the contract.

Frequently there are restrictions of record in regard to the kind of a building which may be placed upon a lot, as to the location of any such building and as to the kind of a business which may be carried on upon the premises. These restrictions should be referred to, even if not fully set forth, in the contract. An instance of this kind recently came to my attention where a seller attempted to draw the contract himself and agreed therein to give title free and clear of all encumbrances. In a letter returning the contract, which had been signed by the buyer, the seller stated that there were restrictions against the property, but it was decided that the purchaser was not bound by the letter and could refuse to take title subject to the restrictions and could sue for damages.

The seller in such a case, therefore, is liable to lose not only the prospective profits of the sale, but has the prospect of a law suit and possibly a judgment for damages. Leases should always be mentioned in the contract with the time of their expiration.

It has always seemed to me an unfair custom that the persons holding the title at the time when the taxes for the current year become a lien must pay the whole of the taxes, although he may be in possession of the premises but a small portion of the year. It is nearly always possible to procure a fair apportionment of the taxes so that the seller will pay the taxes only for that part of the year which he occupies the premises, and the saving thus made very often will more than pay the lawyer's fees for the whole transaction.

The advisability of obtaining legal advice and assistance in the preparation of a deed to be executed by the seller obtains, for practically the same reasons as were mentioned in regard to the contract, viz., the necessity of being sure that the grantor can convey the title which he agrees to convey in the deed, that the deed itself contains an accurate description of the premises to be conveyed, that the encumbrances are fully and carefully described, or at least referred to by reference to a previous deed, and in the case of mortgages that they be assumed by the purchaser wherever possible. It is necessary also to be sure that the deed and mortgages are properly executed and that such County Clerk's certificates are attached as will be valid in the County and State where they are to be recorded.

In a case where the purchase price, over and above the mortgage then of record, is not paid in cash a purchase money bond and mortgage back to the seller for the balance is necessary and the advisability of obtaining legal assistance in the preparation of these instruments is evident when it is considered that the mortgage is practically a conveyance of the premises and that title to the same is made in the foreclosure of said mortgage and the necessity, therefore, of the mortgage containing an accurate description of the premises in question, of its containing a proper payment clause and particularly proper default clauses will also be evident. Where, for instance, the purchase money mortgage taken back at the time of closing is a second mortgage, an experienced and careful lawyer will insert a clause to the effect that if the interest on the first mortgage becomes due and is not paid the holder of the second mortgage may pay such interest in order to protect his own mortgage and may also, by reason of such failure, declare his own second mortgage immediately due, anything therein to the contrary notwithstanding, and add to the amount due thereon the interest so paid by him on the first mortgage. A clause may also be inserted in the second mortgage to the effect that in case the first mortgage shall become due and shall not be taken care of by the then owner of the premises, the holder of the second mortgage may obtain an extension of the first mortgage and add the expenses therefor to the amount due on account of his second mortgage.

The advantage to the second mortgage in thus being protected against foreclosure by the first mortgagee and the consequent cutting off of the second mortgage is obvious.

While I have merely outlined above the assistance which may be rendered by counsel to the seller, rather than going extensively into an argument as to whether or not such assistance should be sought, yet I feel that the very suggestions as given are in themselves reason for obtaining such assistance inasmuch as they are not likely to occur to the layman or to the ordinary real estate broker. Anyone of the suggestions may save to the seller his attorney's fees many times over.

60 Wall St., New York. FREDERICK P. SCHENCK.

Bringing the Central to Book.

In the investigation of a complaint from the West Side Taxpayers' Association concerning the use and occupation of portions of 12th av, in the Borough of Manhattan, by the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, it was found that the said company has for some time been occupying property of the City of New York without paying to the city any compensation therefor, and that it has constructed and is maintaining a wall across 72d st without legal authority. These facts were laid before the board and were referred to the Corporation Counsel for advice as to what action the city could take to recover proper compensation for the use of its property by the railroad company, and for a determination as to whether or not the company could maintain the wall across 72d st. The Corporation Counsel has under date of Dec. 10, 1907, rendered an opinion, from which it would appear that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund could lease to the railroad company the right to use the property referred to, which is unquestionably owned by the City of New York. It is also shown that the company has no right whatever to maintain the wall across 72d st, and that it could properly be removed by the President of the Borough as an incumbrance. The Corporation Counsel states that the city could probably recover only for the use of public property by the railroad company for the six years prior to the making of this claim, compensation for earlier use being barred by the statute of limitation.

In order that the company may be required to pay for the property it is using at as early a date as possible, the Board of Estimate, upon the recommendation of its chief engineers, has passed a resolution calling upon the railroad company to make applications to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund for the use of the portions of the street now occupied by it without proper authority, requesting the Comptroller to appraise the value of the lands and lands under water used by the railroad company for a period of six years prior to Jan. 1, 1908, and also requesting the Corporation Counsel to make a demand upon the company for payments due for the use for the last six years of this property, and in case the company does not agree to make such payments, that he institute proceedings to recover from the company.

Tax Sales Tragedies.

A STRIKING FEATURE of the list of properties recently advertised for sale by the Arrears Department, for taxes and assessments unpaid during the years previous to and including 1897, is the great number of cases in which the amounts to be collected are for less sums than $20, many even running down to fractional parts of a dollar, and which would doubtless have been paid if the parties interested had known of their indebtedness.

It has been a great surprise to many owners to find their properties sold for taxes, but it is not so astonishing if the great number and variety of assessments, and the chances of mistake either in the location of the land, or in making out the bills, are all considered.

There are found, for example, assessments, separately levied, payable at once, or in ten, or twenty years' installments, and falling due in different months, for town grade, local town improvements, the opening and acquiring of streets, their grading, paving, repaving, regulating, curbing and flagging; assessments for sidewalks, street basins, widening of streets, fencing of lots, interest on bonds, for main sewers, district sewers, repairing sewers, for park improvements, and many other outlays, all in addition to the yearly land and water tax. Many of these are overlooked, especially by an owner of many parcels in different sections of the city, or, he may call for a bill on the wrong lot, or, in getting a number of bills, fail to notice that the clerk has entered a wrong lot number. An official of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company who outlined this condition yesterday added:

"There are instances where men, not distinguished for benevolence, have for years kindly paid the taxes on their neighbors' houses. Again, subsequent to the payment of taxes, additional amounts are sometimes charged for the same year, to cover errors discovered in the computation of bills, or interest thereon, and very frequently, extra charges are entered for water, owing to facts disclosed by a reinspection, and these balances often stand, undiscovered by the owner, until he sees an advertisement of sale for taxes.

"A large property owner recently found several of his houses thus advertised, and knowing that from year to year he had advanced to a confidential clerk money for the payment of his taxes, asked us to make an investigation. We found taxes for ten years unpaid, amounting with interest, to upwards of nine thousand dollars. Of course, the mortgagee has an equal interest to know that the taxes and assessments are kept properly paid on the property upon which his money is loaned, and the city is a loser by such delays in its collections.

"Serious losses to individuals have occurred in this way. Among properties advertised for sale for unpaid taxes and water rates during 1895-1896-1897 were three lots in the 23d Ward and one lot in the 7th Ward, belonging to a wealthy man. A confidential clerk had drawn money from year to year to pay taxes, etc., and the owner supposed his property was free and clear. We found the water rate of 1895 and all the taxes and water rates from 1896 to 1906 and 1907 unpaid, amounting to nearly $5,600, and drawing interest aggregating about $8,300 to date. The clerk, a short time previous to this discovery, had been discharged for other irregularities."

Urge Direct Transit Route to East Bronx.

In an interesting little pamphlet on rapid transit issued by the Literature and Publication Committee of the North Side Board of Trade, attention is forcibly drawn to the urgent necessity of building without delay an east side subway which will meet the growing requirements of the densely populated sections of the eastern Bronx. In part it says:

"The area from 145th st south to Bronx Kills and the Harlem river is almost solidly built up with five and six-sty tenements, and houses on a conservative estimate at least one-fifth of the population of the Bronx—a small city in itself. Within this area are 14 churches, 8 public schools and a large parochial school, 3 fire houses, a police station, a post office station, 2 hospitals, a public library, 2 banks, a theatre, a large department store, the headquarters of the North Side Board of Trade and of the Bronx Branch of the Charity Organization Society, 24 piano factories and more than a score of other large factories employing thousands of hands, besides the terminals of three railroads. Yet the facilities for reaching Manhattan Island are little, if any, better than they were 20 years ago."

The part of the Bronx referred to is most truly lacking in direct and continuous rapid transit; that this condition is becoming more pronounced with the increase in the population of that zone there is no doubt, but those in a position to judge predict that the building of the proposed route extending east through 138th st to the Southern Boulevard to Westchester av, to Pelham Park will, for a long time to come, meet all needs in the indicated direction.

The Port Chester and the Westchester.

An application for a change of the route of the New York and Port Chester Railroad Company has been before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for some months, and the board has been unable to take action owing to court proceedings. At the meeting held on the 13th inst. this matter was once more laid over, until the meeting of January 10, when it was predicted by a representative of the company that the legal questions would have been settled.

The city has granted franchises to both the New York, Westchester and Boston Railway Company and to the New York and Port Chester Railroad Company for lines traversing the Borough of the Bronx. There has been a consolidation of these two lines through the medium of the Millbrook Company, a holding corporation which controls both companies and their franchises. It has lately been announced that the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company owns and has for some time owned the Millbrook Company, so that the apparent competition which it was thought would be the result of the granting of one or both of the franchises for these new lines will not be realized. The terms and conditions prescribed by the city in these franchises would probably have been materially modified had it been known that the roads, if built, were to be part of the property of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. Meanwhile, the city is seriously embarrassed by the uncertainty as to which, if either, of these lines is to be built, and where it is to be located, so that the mapping of the Borough of the Bronx, which is of the utmost importance, cannot be completed. Further than this, the owners of property which would be traversed by one or the other of these lines are in a condition of uncertainty which is most annoying.

Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis, of the Board of Estimate, says it is difficult to escape the conclusion that the city is being trifled with in this matter, and as it is desirable to have some further light on the situation before the meeting of January 10 next, to which date the consideration of the change of the route of the Port Chester road was adjourned, he recommended the adoption of the resolution passed at the last meeting of the Board of Estimate, calling upon the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company to submit to the board, on or before Jan. 1, 1908, a statement in writing which will indicate the relation between it and these companies, and its intention as to the construction and operation of either one or both of these lines.

It will be remembered that when the applications for both the Westchester road and the Port Chester road were before the board, it was upon the understanding that each would be an independent, high-speed, electric railroad, connecting the towns and villages along the Sound shore in the State of New York from the Connecticut line to the Harlem River, and that by granting such a franchise, the city would insure competition in railroad traffic. If, however, these franchises are to be used by the New Haven Railroad as an adjunct of its existing line, it would seem that before granting the application now before the board, a full understanding of the manner in which this railroad or railroads are to be used by the New Haven Company would be necessary. Mr. Lewis says it may be the intention to utilize either one or the other of the franchises granted from some point in either New Rochelle or in Mount Vernon, where it can make a connection with the New Haven line to 177th st, in which case the proposed form of agreement now on the minutes of the board granting the application of the Port Chester Company would not adequately protect the interests of the city. Again, this matter has lain in abeyance practically since August, 1906, and little or no construction work has been done since that time.

The very fact that no definite plans have been decided upon for the construction of either one or both of these roads has retarded the making of maps for the district east of the Bronx River, and has to a certain extent nullified certain of the conditions proposed in the grant for the two routes, in relation to the cession of streets by the railroad company made necessary by its construction.

A Fifth Avenue Home.

(With Illustration.)

The magnificent new residence which Mrs. Frieda S. Warburg is erecting at 5th av, the northeast corner, and 92d st, will have facades of limestone of a dark gray color and richly carved in the French Gothic style of the fifteenth century period. There will be six stories above the street, with a basement and cellar below. A driveway will lead up from the street to the entrance on 92d st, and one passes through the vestibule which is divided from the entrance hall by a handsome ornamental screen and door, of metal and glass, for entering the hall. The grand staircase leads up past the organ at the rear to the floors above. To the right is the kitchen, serving room and servants' dining room; to the left the reception room and billiard room, between which is an ornamental arch treatment.

On the second floor in front of the stairs is the drawing-room with a conservatory connecting it on the right with the dining-room, and on the left of the stairs and foyer hall is the library. Each of the above mentioned rooms, namely, the reception and billiard rooms, library and dining-room are in length equal to the width of the building. The owner's sitting room is arranged in the corner of the third floor with windows opening on the avenue and street. A passage connects this room with the boudoir, also facing on the street; and beyond this room is Mrs. Warburg's bathroom, which connects with the owner's bedroom. Back of this room is Mr. Warburg's bath and dressing-room.

Back of the sitting-room first mentioned for this floor is located the breakfast room. A pantry is arranged for service for this room, connected by a passage over the main stairs, enclosed with glass, and having a glass floor opening on the opposite end with rear hall. A dumbwaiter is arranged for in this rear hall communicating with the main pantry and serving room below. The son and daughter's bedrooms, with baths adjoining, are arranged on the fourth floor with a study in the corner directly above the sitting-room. The east end is given over to the nursery and nurse and child's bedroom, with bath adjoining. Guests' rooms, with baths, are arranged for on the west end of the fifth floor.

The east end provides a squash court with gallery at one end, and connecting with the squash court, with windows opening on rear court, is a tea room, and back of same a dressing-room provided with a shower and lavatory. Connecting all stories from cellar to sixth floor is an electric elevator and servants' lift operated by the automobile push device. The building will be lighted with electricity throughout and heated with steam automatically controlled. A vacuum cleaning plant is to be installed, as well as many other conveniences. The plumbing throughout will be of the best quality and highest grade fixtures. The A. J. Robinson Company is the builder and C. P. H. Gilbert the architect.

RESIDENCE OF MRS. FRIEDA G. WARBURG.

Fifth Avenue, corner 92d Street. C. P. H. Gilbert, Architect.

—With the exception of 1906 the real estate transactions in the Borough of Queens have been greater than ever before. More than 30,000 transfers and mortgages have already been recorded with the County Clerk, with many eleventh hour filings still to be placed on record. It is interesting to note that for the year just closing there have been a larger number of small transactions recorded than previously, indicating that many of the new owners of realty in that zone have purchased on the instalment plan. A large percentage of the recorded mortgages represent loans for constructing dwellings on many of the recent subdivisions throughout that borough, although not a few were for loans on tenements and business buildings.

Jamaica to be Queens Library Centre.

The Queens Board of Library Trustees has decided to recommend to the Comptroller the acquisition of a library site in Clinton street, Jamaica.

More than half of the $240,000 of the Carnegie Library Fund that had been apportioned to Queens is still available. It was originally planned to make use of the money by erecting three large buildings in that borough. Arrangements were later made for eight small buildings, two in Long Island City, one in Astoria, one in Flushing, one in Rockaway and one in Hunter's Point. It is believed that a large part of the fund remaining after these buildings are completed will be expended in Jamaica.

Transportation Relief for the Bronx.

In the promise of the New York Central to give the Bronx needed transportation relief, with trains that will be run nearly as frequently as street cars, the people of that rapidly growing borough see a way out of their present difficulty.

The completion of the electrification of the New York Central's suburban lines and the building of the loop at the Grand Central are now, so the railway officials say, only a question of days and weeks, and then will come the changes which are to give to the Bronxites real rapid transit, and a cushioned seat at the cost of five cents per ride, from 42d st to any station in the Bronx.

Those who live in the Bronx have long since realized that the adequacy of the subway facilities to handle with convenience the many thousands who travel daily from and to the Bronx was only too short lived, and it is a fact that to-day the growth of the Bronx is hampered by the inefficiency of the existing transportation facilities. Present indications are far from encouraging for the early starting of the proposed 3d av subway, and the announcement of the New York Central's new plans is timely as well as welcome.

That the promised New York Central improvements will also benefit Yonkers and the city's northern limits, killing, as it were, two birds with one stone, will be appreciated duly and truly by the people of the effected localities who to-day are at the mercy of an over-crowded trolley system. While the trolley road is to be credited with a willingness and desire to cope with the crowded condition of their line with as little friction as possible, their laudable good will falls far short of keeping passengers warm while waiting at the terminal for the arrival of the belated car, or while riding to Yonkers on the open platform.

Taxpayers Visit New Croton Dam.

A committee from the West Side Taxpayers' Association was invited by the Aqueduct Commissioners to inspect the work of the new dam at Croton, N. Y. On Thursday, December 18, the committee was met at the station by Commissioners John P. Windolph and William H. Ten Eyck, Chief Engineer Walter H. Sears, Professor William R. Burr, of Columbia College, expert engineer. The entire party drove around the Croton watershed, visiting the various storage reservoirs, but special interest was taken in the construction of the New Croton Dam. The work was ably described by Professor Burr and Engineer Sears to the members, which was both instructive and interesting. It is a wonderful piece of masonry. A beautiful sight to see the surplus water running over the spillway, which is 1,000 feet in length and about 200 feet high. The old aqueduct supplied 90,000,000 gallons per day, while the new aqueduct is capable of supplying about 300,000,000 gallons per day. The total storage capacity of all these reservoirs will be about 100,000,000,000 gallons. A large amount of surplus water, about 10,000,000 gallons per week, is now running over the spillway and into the Hudson River.

The committee of taxpayers was: President, Frank Demuth, Charles Hvass, Charles A. Schrag, Dr. Gustav Scholer, Louis Schrag, Edward Appell, Christian Dohm, Jacob Appell, John Wolf, Herman Schumacher.

To Guard Against a Certain Classs of Elevator Accidents.

Following a series of fatal elevator accidents in one building in an eastern city, an architect in Worcester, Mass., with a view of guarding against a certain class of mishaps suggests the simple expedient of making the entrance opening to the car of full height of its wall and extending a suitable distance backward in its top covering. This, he argues, would be equal to removing the knife from the guillotine. In advocating the adoption of this plan he maintains that a rigid yoke above a car opening forms one blade of a shear, and that the building floor at the well opening forms its fellow. With the removal of the former the latter, he reasons, ceases to be an element of danger, with the result that accidents similar to those referred to become almost impossible. If the usual light screen or grille is desirable protection over the whole top of the cage, it may be hinged or pivoted to act as a lid, counterbalanced if necessary, thus offering slight resistance to an object partly within and partly without the well at the period when the car passes a floor line. In offering something in the way of protection during the upward trips of a car he suggests an arrangement of the usual door and screen enclosing many wells, whereby the head or hand incautiously or otherwise thrust beyond the danger line would come in contact with a yielding construction and receive a warning, or possibly a minor pinch, before the rigid ceiling line was reached.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.
